

The long looked for hour had arrived: a salute from the many... The President of the United States has announced the Cabinet...

The Daily Morning Post.

THOMAS PHILLIPS, EDITOR. PITTSBURGH, THURSDAY, APRIL 18, 1844.

FOR GOVERNOR. H. A. MUHLENBERG.

A NATIONAL BANK—Although the whigs will not publicly avow it, yet it is well understood that the great object of their struggles to obtain control of the government, is the incorporation of a national bank...

Every body, but the stock speculators, is satisfied with the exchanges and the currency, and the whigs feel that it would be dangerous to their intention, if they got into power, to disturb the prosperous state of things by establishing another monster that will again fill the country with wild notions of speculation...

Under these circumstances, they will not bring the Bank question into the contest; they will push forward the tariff question as a decoy and if they mean they can succeed, then their darling project will be revived, and every other measure will be sacrificed to insure its success.

It is idle for the whigs to try to make us believe that there is any sincerity in their professions. They care nothing for the measure, and they will sacrifice it at any moment, if by doing so they can advance some of the other schemes that they dare not bring before the people. Their candidate for the Presidency has declared himself opposed to protection; he does not do a cent's worth of any other purpose than to raise revenue...

AVERTING FORECAST—The whigs, feeling the necessity of having their candidate well endorsed, are snapping up every casual remark of distinguished men as they pass by. Mr. CLAY, and publishing them as expressions of public opinion. Knowing how useful the endorsements of the Clergy were in 1840, they have been trying hard to get some eminent divines to give them a "favourable expression," and determining to have it any how, they forced one for the Louisville Whig, to which they attached the name of the Rev. Wm. CARPENTER of South Carolina. This went the rounds of the papers for a considerable time, and the whigs were quite elated to think that at last they had a recommendation from the Clergy for their candidate. But unfortunately for them, in the course of time the forgery came under the notice of the Rev. gentlemen whose name was attached to it. Mr. CARPENTER at once wrote a letter to the Richmond Whig, in which he said that he never signed the name of the Rev. Wm. CARPENTER, and that he never used the language attributed to him. He closed his letter with the following paragraph, which might be studied with profit by some of his clerical brethren.

"I am, gentlemen, of South Carolina; and there is no possibility of this State being congenial to my taste and feelings, or which my understanding more entirely approves, than that which makes it scandalous for ministers of the gospel to be bandying politics; I had the mortification to hear, some time since, that a political speech of the same party character as the present, and from the same quarter, were imputed to me; I then occupied myself (as I hoped) through the Southern Christian Advocate. But it seems I could not gain the ear of political editors through that channel, and I am therefore constrained, at the present time, to request you to publish this disclaimer, as an act of personal justice. And if instead of requesting you, you should publish it, I would be obliged to you, through you, to the Baltimore Whig, the Louisville Journal, and other papers who have published the said 'whispering'.

It was an unfortunate thing for the avowed forgery, that the person who designed it had the folly to give the name and residence of the minister. If he had kept dark on these matters, it might still be travelling round the country, as genuine, helping to persecute the people that Mr. Clay is so innocent and profane as to be once described to be by the editor of the Gazette.

What can the most and religious portion of the country think of a party that will resort to such wicked and dishonourable means to entice the unwary into a support of the false and illegitimate? A good cause, first severely persecuted, gradually increases in popularity, and the whigs are now so numerous that the tongue is silent, and the whigs are now so numerous that the tongue is silent, and the whigs are now so numerous that the tongue is silent...

Among the many ridiculous charges made against Mr. MULLENBERG, that of having been a Minister is the most serious. And it is manifestly untrue, as the democratic party, in fact, with all the weaklings which ever characterized the whigs, they can find no heavier sin to charge upon our candidate than that of having been a Minister! Oh! glorious fault!—Oh! unpardonable offence! This sin cannot be urged against him, nor against any other, connected with the exercise of talent or mind. He is perfectly guiltless of ever having occupied that station.

From the seal with which they urge this point, we would suppose that this was the first instance on record where a person who had, in early life, acted as a Minister, applied to political distinction. They seem to forget that year after year, they themselves elected EDWARD EVERETT, a Minister, to be Governor of Massachusetts; and that he was sent on a foreign mission by an administration of their choosing. Did anything disastrous to the country result from such a selection? Has not Mr. Everett devoted himself as well as could be expected, and did he not bear every complaint from the people that was applied to? This, but a few years since the gubernatorial chair was filled by JOHN ANDREW SULLIVAN, who was at one time a Minister; and nothing is more common throughout the country, than to select such men, if they are capable and deserving, when they have abandoned the ministerial office.

Mr. Muhlenberg, however, never connected politics with religion, as the whigs endeavor to make it appear, and has long since withdrawn from ecclesiastical life. The charge is nevertheless still urged against him, with as much pertinacity as though he were still exercising the functions of a minister. It will doubtless be perceived in the day of election, for it furnishes the sum total of the objections that can be urged against him.

"THE BARRIERS WATERS."—The whigs have got a number of penknives manufactured for the approaching Presidential campaign, with the name of Henry Clay engraved on the blade. Notwithstanding their boasting about "protecting home industry," they did not suppose that American workmen were competent to manufacture even this electioneering device, but they had to send to England to have their Clay pens manufactured. This shows how utterly false it is for the whigs to say that they are the friends of American industry, and at the same time they make this the deep interest British manufacturers feel in the success of whig tricks. They have no doubt received assurances that if Clay should be elected, he will "carry out the spirit of the compromise act," and for this promise England has probably agreed to furnish all the electioneering hardware that may be required in the campaign. The Clay pen is the first we believe that has been sent out.

Truly the Clay party may be called "English whigs," when they apply to the aristocracy of England to furnish them with their party emblems.

The American of yesterday contains a long and excellent article against the sale of the main line. We are pleased to see that the editor is not disposed to make this a party question, and that he has come out manfully in defence of the interests of the state, and in the schemes of the speculators. If a few more big editors would follow his example, the friends of the sale would make a sorry show next October.

HISTORY. A few years ago a "Native American Party" was got up in New Orleans, and carried the city by a great majority. The "squibs" were wild, and the party was, was 228,000,922. Of the shipments from New Orleans this year, 162,153 lbs. were sent to New York; 78,892 to Boston; 10,735 to Philadelphia; 10,275 to Baltimore; 1,547 to Charleston; and 3,914 to other United States ports; 292 lbs. to Cuba; and 12,831 to other foreign ports.

IMPORTS FOR 1843 AND 1844. The New York Republic reports that the imports for the year 1843 were small, and some of the leading articles, compared with the imports of the first three quarters of 1844, present the following results:

Woolen manufactures, 8,043,227 1,252,852 Cotton " 9,574,515 2,206,795 Silk " 1,311,771 318,685 "and worsted" 831,716 184,044 Flax " 3,550,184 1,484,291 Hardware " 2,109,498 734,327 Earthenware " 1,429,708 534,051 Total eight descriptions, 47,118,970 $10,075,842 This gives an immense fall, and it is obvious that the importations of the year 1843 were small, and some of the leading articles, compared with the imports of the first three quarters of 1844, present the following results:

RAVAGES OF SMALL POK. Fatal Deception.—We learn from the Memphis (Tennessee) Eagle, that the people of the State of Mississippi, are dreadfully afflicted with the Small Pok, with which they have been inoculated by a steam doctor. An individual very improperly carried the latter by telling them that the only way to obtain vaccine matter was to take the Small Pok virus and mix it with milk. The steamer did so, and with the most lamentable results. Several persons have died of the disease. A travelling preacher obtained some of the same material and inoculated twenty or thirty persons. The result has been dreadful in the extreme. The whole country is in the most painful alarm and consternation. And all this gratuity some contemptible scoundrel, in a quiet manner, has been the cause of.
