THOMAS PHILLIPS, EDITOR. PITTSBURGH, FRIDAY, APRIL 26, 1844. FOR GOVERNOR.

H: A. MUHLENBERG

THE INDIGENTION MESTERS OF WEDSERS NIGHT Handbills were posted up through the city on Wedneyday, calling upon the opponents of judicial oppression to most at the Washington Hotel, and express their condemnation of the judicial conduct of Sudge Patton, in relation to the recent libel suit.

On meeting at the Hotel, a motion was made to adjuntu to the Market House, which would secure a much larger attendance than if it remained at the Hotel. On organizing at the latter place, a Committee was appointad to draft resolutions, and an address read from one of the persons convicted at the recent term of the Court. The speaking then commenced: and whatever oppression others may have experienced, the speakers certainly enjoyed and exercised to its fullest extent the "largest liberty" and latitude of debate. We very white women was bid off for one cent, and the free colmuch regretted and every good citizen must sincerely deprecate the sentiments expressed by some of them. placed a very poor estimate on the good sense of their believe their statements, there was abundant material, us in the face, that abolition should increase in our and great cause, for a more dispassionate consideration of the subject. The Judiciary stands subigh in this purity and preservation of all that they hold sacred, tains in a few weeks, under the direction of the that it requires something better than violent denuncia. tion and entity declamation to bring it into disrepute. When charges of misconduct are brought forward ainst a judicial officer; when he has done aught toimhe liberties of the people, justice to him and to blic whose rights he has outraged, alike demand that the charges should be dispassionately considered and clearly proved. Sweeping and general denunciaion can have no good effect—a resort to personality will but shop those who indulge in it, to be incompo-tent to judgest the matter, and to be guilty of as great an offence as well they charge upon him.

Now, it is said they like I.A. B. and violent conduct, so far from proving him guilty, was called to protest against his conduct. If the 6 feet in the channel. sharge be true, it certainly could be very easily estabwhat way it was wrong? No! they contented themselves with the bare assertion, and hunched forth into violent personalities; making the most unworthy appeals to the people, and stimulating their passions, instead of appealing to their reason and justice ... One of them was surprised that the citizens had not long since risen in their majesty, and hurled so incompeter and tyrannical a Judge from the Beuch. Sentiment such as this, cannot be too strongly condemned—they give countenance to riot and Lynch law, - and bring about a thousand evils which are far more grievous than those they are intended to cure. The personal secrence of Judge Patton, was derided, though what that lead to do with his official conduct numbers were at a loss to discover. In fact the meeting was altogether a tumultuous one, and exhibited anything but a proper knowledge of the matter for which it

We would be the last to apologise for, or excuse, official misconduct, and the first to resist any chments on, or violatious of, the rights of the press or the people. While watchful of these, however, we deem it equally important that the Judiciary should be protected from intimidation, and judicial officers from unjust aspersions. We desire to see no one incarcerated in prison, and can sympathise with shose who are within its walls, as sincerely as any one who purticipated in that meeting. In the case which seems most to have merited its censure, Judge Patton did nothing more than he was imperatively bound to de; a jury of disinterested and impartial men had found being found guilty. As to use justice of the vertices a difference of opinion no doubt exists, as in regard to the justices of every verdict rendered by a jury. But being found guilty, he was bound to sentence them; and if any wrong has been showed them, it is not Judge and if any wrong has been showed fell. He but executed P. on whom the censure should fall. He but executed a duty, as imperative as, in many cases, it is painful. this, as well as the verdict, there exists a difference of prove that Judge Patton is "ignorant or incompetent " He may have thought, and no doubt did think, the sentence light enough; and however men may differ from him in respect to it, it will hardly be sufficient to sustain the charges brought against him at the meeting tance remaining on hand. of Wednesday night. As well might they pronounce a judge whose decision had been reversed in a higher court, "ignorant and incompenent," as to apply those terms to Judge Patton, because of a decision which comports not with their own notions of justice. We have thought it right to say this much, not only in justice to a gentleman who is now receiving his full share of abuse, but to deprecate the passion and acerbity which characterized the meeting. Language and sentiments such as there expressed, will if persistod in, do much to destroy public respect for the tribunals of the country, and render our judicial efficers subervient to the excited passions of public gatherings.
