Deferred Articles. The past few mars have been fraught with the experience of the greatest magnitude have succeeded with other with such residies, and effect has followed come with such precision and prompthas followed cause with such produces and prompt-ness, that the lesson has been a useful although a very costly one to the public. In banking affairs more par-ticularly, and their influence upon the interests of an agricultural country, has this been the case. It is now six pars since a leading London journal, speaking of the late National Bank, remarked as follows:—
The Bank of the United States, and one or two other stable American institutions, have been the greatest benefactors to the manufacturing interest of Eng. land and the merchants of both countries. We have no hesitation in expressing our decided opinion that but for their prompt, judicious, and energetic interference, the productions of the United States, and especially cially cotion, could not have been brought forward in entity in the manufacturing population of Green Britain in employment." This error in relation to the necessity of Banks to forward produce was almost universal, yet the progress of awards has fully demonstrated its fallacy. Not only has the National Bank ceased to exist, but eighty per, cent. of all the local bank capital in the agricultu par sections, has gone into liquidation; yet the quantiof all kinds of goods in his line, and of a superior que 9 of produce of all descriptions, which has come to The following is a list of a part of which, however, contains a graph; the first part of which, however, contains a conta graph; the met part of which, however, contains a truth much better understood in this country. The advance is prices and the facilities afforded for the purchase of goods through the instrumentality of a bank, are the means by which British manufactures are sold in all quarters of the mediant in the mediant in the country of the mediant in the medi argand in all quarters of the world where credits circulate. In the year 1837, a British subject going from Persia to England, while in the pass of Dahar, meta caravan of Petsian merchants returning from mople. "What news from the bright city?" said the Englishman. "Oh, very bad; silk has fallen in price one third of its value." "What is the reason of that?" "I could not make out clearly, all that I chald gather was that it was owing to some quarrel between your great Bank of England and the merchants of the new world." The Persian, lifting up his hands, exclaimed, "I have heard much of the power of the power bank hands hands have been been what it was er of your great bank, but I never knew what it was till now." Thus it is wherever prices have been influenced by the stream of credit flowing from the great centre of the commercial world-a collapse at that centre of the commencial world—a compase at time centre is felt even in the remote passes of the Persian description of mountains.

Merchandise advances, and becomes saleable or falls in value as the changing weather of summer affects the barvest of England. Wherever credestablishment in the city, which he offers for sale, made its are multiplied through the means of banks, in that place will the vacillations be the greatest. The revulsion of the pass few years has freed the United the public mind has become so well convinced of the law advance on their original cost, and keeps them constant. the public mind has become so well convinced of the fact, that a long time must elapse before banking cred; ces are to suit the times. His goods are all made by Pittsburgh workmen, and are warranted to be of disposed to court partizan clamor in favor of a National Bank.—New York Republic. Immense herds of buffulo are ranging the benuthis prairies bordering upon the San Gabriel, Brazos, and Little Rivers, the present spring. Thousands of these animals were drowned a few weeks since, while attempting to swim the latter stream during a freshet.
But the most singular thing of all is the fact that a large herd traversed the streets of the city of Austin the other day, passing directly through the heart of the place and making themselves perfectly at home upon their former "stamping ground." It was predicted, some two years since, that the then flourishing seat of ament would again become the haunt of the wild o, and it has been verified. Numbers of the buge animals have been killed on the edge of the city. Why did Marcius Curtius leap into the gulf at me? Because he thought it was a good opening for

Sir—Since I have been in this city I have used some of your Dyspeptic medicine with infinite benefit and mitting faction, and believe it to be a most valuable remoty. Only of my constitution of Canadali commits. my constituents, Dr. A. Carden, of Ca, shielf of my constituents, Dr. A. Carden, of Ca, subdif county. Tennessee, wrote to me to send him some, which Like and he has employed it very successfully in his practice and says it is invaluable. Mr. Johnson, your again at this place, thinks are applied to the property of the place of the property of the place of the p and says it is invaluable. Mr. Johnson, your agent as this place, thinks you would probably like an agent to Tennessee. If so, I would recommend Dr. A Carden, as a proper person to officiate for the sale of your celebrated medicine. Should you commission him he is willing to act for you. You can send the medicine by water to the care of Robert Kinz & Sone, Knozville casuaty, Tennessee, or by land to Graham & Houston, Tazwell. Bage see, or by land to Graham 4. Houston, Taxwell, Bast Tennessee. I have no doubt but if you had agents for Activesce. I have no doubt but if you had agent as several counties in East Tennessee, a great deal of medicine would be sold. I am going to take some of it home for my own use, and that of my friends, and should like for my own use, and that or my friends, and shound that to hear from you whether you would like an agent as Bluntville, Sullivan County. East Tennessee; I can get some of the merchants to act for you as filve near there.

Yours respectfully.
