DR. LEIDY'S Sarsaparilla Blood Pills areapplica ble in all cases, whether for Purgatives or Pu rification, They possess all the boasted virtues of other pills, and are additionally efficacious, containing Sarsaparilla in their composition, which is not con ained in any other pills in existence. They are also different from other pills in composition, being purely regetable, and can be employed at all times, without Blood Pills would cure all diseases, yet it is not saying too much of them, from the innumerable cures performed by them in every variety and form of disease (cer tificates of many of which have been published from porsons of all denominations, physicians, clergymen, and others) that they seem to be almost universal in their effect; and persons using them for whatever sick ness or disease, may rest assured that they will be found more efficacious than any other pills in existence.

From the known reputation of Dr. Leidy's Blood Pill, it is necessary to remind the public where they can at all times procure the genuine, as it is attempted to impose other pills, called the 'Blood Pills' upon the public on the reputation of Dr. Leidy's. Be particular and ask for Dr. Leidy's Sarsaparilla Blood Pills and soe that the name of N. B. Leidy is contained on two sides of each box, (the boxes being of paper, and oblone, squarnshape, surrounded by a vellow and black oblong, squareshape, surrounded by a yellow and black PRICE-25 cents a Box.

Prince Henry, third son of John the 1st, of Portugals. suguese. In 1442 an expedition was fitted out by Prince Henry, third son of John the 1st, of Postugal and placed under the command of Gonzales Beldess. and this officer brought home ten negro slaves, the first ver seen in western Europe. Two years afterwards, an association was formed for the purpose of obtaining slaves, and these were sold not only in Portugal, but other countries. After the discovery of the West Indies, the trade increased rapidly. In 1507, fifteen years after the discovery of Hayri, the natives were victims of the most hos outrages, and it is said even the good Las Casas, in order to save the remnants of the wretched Caribs, who resisted the attempts to englave them, as well as they were able, proposed that the African race should be substituted as the object of this inhuman traffic. In 1517, Charles V issued a patent authorizing it, but subsequently, in 1542, under the shidings of c solance, revoked the authority granted to the teademy, and emencipated the slaves made under the grant, His successor did not "tread in his footsteps," but al-His successor did not "tread in his footsteps," but alliowed the trade to be continued. The English did not iards or Portuguese, who seem to have ruled the Amesican and African seas. One exception is recorded, that of Sir John Hawkins, who, in 1562, captured three hundred slaves on the Coast of Guines, and sold them in Hayti to the Spaniards. As the English to rine rose in strength and increased in numbers, its advenurous captains found their profit in making insus-sions into South America and sacking the Spanish towns. In 1583, Queen Elizabeth, who is said to have been offended at the conduct of Sir John Hawkins, chartered an Anglo-African Commercial Company, and in 1630 another under the auspices of Charles I., went into the traffic upon a large scale with the regular system. As the English began to settle their American Colonies, slaves were carried there in great numbers. In 1713, by the fumous arrangement called the Assientio Contract, the carrying trade to South America was placed in the hands of an English Merchatike Association, and from this time the sale of slaves bevious to the American Revolution, there were 34,000 slaves in the Anglo-American Colonies and the whole annual importation under the British flag amounted to 60,000 souls. The press took up the princi-ple then established, and the Poets in the fervor of heir unthusiasm, declared, "Slaves cannot breathe in England." The first time the question was agitated in Parliament it was by the celebrated Mr. Hartley, member for Hull, in 1776. Although he failed in carrying his resolutions against the slave trade, the subject was thenceforward constantly agitated. In 1787 a private committee was formed for procuring its abolition, and Vilberforce and Clarkson were two of its most as tive and conspicuous members. Burke, Fox, Pitt and Grenville yielded to the force of their arguments and influence, a large number of Peers went with them.

and the Clergy and the Universities added their pow-On the 11th of July, 1788, a bill was passed regulating the trade so long as it existed, and limiting the number of "negroes in cargo" in proportion to the ton-nage of the vessel. 1791, Mr. Wilberforce's bill to prevent the importation of slaves into the West In-dies, after a long effort on his part to carry it, was thrown out. For sixteen years the struggle continued, During this period Denmark and the United States prohibited the traffic. The former country passed he necessary laws in 1792, and Congress did so in

It was during the administration of Mr Fox that the abolition of the slave trade was finally determined up-on. Two bills were passed in 1806, restraining and checking the practice, and soon after his death, his itetest wishes were carried out by the passage of a bill intro luced into the House of Lords by Lord Grenville. This gave it its death blow. Napoleon on his return from Elba, abolished the French slave trade, and in 1817 Louis XVIII confirmaed the decree. Holland forbade it in 1814. No European or American power now lawfully carries on the The is still some trading in human flesh, with curtain Spanish and Portugese possessions. But the constant cruizing of United States and British simed vessels on the coast of Africa, will probably effect its entire suppression. -N Y True Sun.
