Deferred Articles. Sapient Sentiments for Coon Cockles. Refreshed democracy awoke, And called for Dallas and for Polk; The people all, from hut to palace, Responded, "Give us Polk and Dallas." They spoke the voice of all good folk Who nominated James K Polk; And such, from Sable's cape to Calais, Will give their votes for Polk and Dallas. The whites 's inferior to the yolk, And so is Clay to James K Polk:

Convinced of this, the country rallies

Around the flag of Polk and Dallas. The ware of Clay will all be broke By one good democratic Poke;
And then in spite of all their malice,
The coons must yield to Polk and Dallas. Our wheel has gained another spoke In nominating James K Polk; So now we'll drive o'er hills and valleys, And win the race for Polk and Dallas The coons in vain their gods invoke To aid them to contend with Polk; For distanced quite their mill-boy Hal is, Since we have started Polk and Dallas. Poor Clay will find it is no joke To race his craft with skipper Polk; The Harry-cane of Polk and Dallas Will blow him o'er, for want of ballast. The coons were shattered by the stroke, When they encountered James K Polk. Their craft was stranded in the shallows By the strong gale of Polk and Dallas. The palsied coons cannot revoke The people's voice for James K Polk;
The tiler must vacate the palace,
The "spoons" and all, to Polk and Dallas. The great white house we have bespoke, The next four years, for James K Polk; And oh, it is a bitter chalice We give the coons, in Polk and Dallasl The coons with spleen and fury choke, For having to contend with Polk; And in revenge (to shame grown callous) With filth bespatter Polk and Dallas. Though nothing evil can be spoke, With truth, of Dallas or of Polk, Knights of the pillory and gallows
Will vent their spleen on Polk and Dallas When at the coons our fun we Poke, They wince, and can't endure the joke; Devoid of wit to meet our sallies, They only blackguard Polk and Dallas. But though the coons may lie and croak, And villify and slander Polk, They gnaw a file who spit their malice At James K Polk and George M Dallas. To beat these coons a rod 's in soak, To be laid on by master Polk; And if we find their backs are ca We'll add the cats by usher Dallas. Now let us all give three times three, And shout for "POLK, of Tennessee!" Then shout again, without delay-"DALLAS, of Pennsylvania!" FRESH SPRING GOODS. CHEAP PLACE FOR CASH. SIGN OF THE GILT COMB.
