LIBEL SUIT .-- J. HERON FUSTER, late editor the Age, was yesterday convicted in the Court of Quarter Sessions, of a libel on the Hon. R. C. GRIER, Judge of the District Court. Mr. Alden, his connect, admitted the publications, but attempted to quash the indictment on the ground that the article, if a libel, was not one upon Judge Grier, but upon Judge Patton, The Associates, who tried the case, overruled the motion, and the defendant was, of course, convicted.

SERTERCE OF DIRHL .- Judge Patton yesterday sentenced Charles Diebl to imprisonment for twelve U. S. MAIL STEAMER LITTLE BEN, CAPT years in the Penitentiary, for the murder of his wife on the 1st day of April last In passing the sentence Judge P., remarked that he entertained a very ligh respect for the decision of Juries, but thought that, in this case. Dield had escaped the punishment he merited. He told him, however, that a bill would be sent to the Grand Jury next term for the murder of his child, and that he must be prepared, at the expiration of his present sentence, to answer that charge.

HAND STREET BRIDGE -We have heretofore neglected to notice that the Directors of the Hard Street Bridge, have, as well as those of the old Bridge, reduced their rates of toll. We have no doubt that this will result in increased revenue to the Stockholders.

MAYOR HAY .- The whigs have set about whipping a hot partisan of him. RECORDER'S COURT. "Some Exhibition of Natural Magic."-Mr Vinton was brought up on a charge of violating the city ordinances in relation to revenue. The matter in dispute was regarding the exhibitions recently given by Herr Alexander, at Concert Hall, without license. The jury in the case, however, acquitted Mr Vinton of having any interest in the exhibitions, other than the mere renting of his hall for the purpose before mention Herr Alexander, the Magician himself, was then arraigned on the same charge, and fined $20 and costs.

The name he has acquired, by the perfection of his nit, was not in the least impaired by the rough handling of the law; for, immediately after he was fined, he steps up to Mr D the collector of the Third Ward, and said to him, in his broken English, "I vill be vera much oblige, if you vill have de goodness to hand me my monish dat you have in your pocket, as I vants to pay de fine

Mr D. of course, was much surprised at the strange request, and utterly denied having any thing to do with his "monish" "Look in your pocket, eare, and you will find my monish dere." Mr D. did as was desired though perfectly assured of not finding a "first red cent," and much to his surprise, produced just the a-mount of the Magician's fine.
