went with abundance of weapons of defence. Indeed, throughout the night previous the inhabitants of this city were greatly disturbed by the noise of parties, apparently arriving from the country, and by the frequent ischarge of fire arms. The morning was very favorable for the excursion and the day might have been spent delightfully, but for the fierce passions of the human breast, which THIS pleasant and certain cure for coughs and have of late been roused on one side of the countecolds goes ahead of all the preparations now or nance given by our Colonial Government to Orangeboats, keep a supplyon hand. It is called for every road, the passengers learned that a large body of Cathwhere, and will sell in any place. The reason is this olic laborers had come to the Falls from St Catharine's every one who has a cough or cold by eating a few sticks and as far west as Branford, and were scattered in the find themselves cured, as it were, by magic. much blood would be shed. This advice was happily followed; for, on reaching the terminus of the reliroad, about 1,500 Catholic laborers, armed with deadweapons of various kinds, met them, and there were perhaps as many scattered through the woods, who, it is said, would have cut every one of the pary down had there been the slightest manifests Orangeism. Some of the party remained at Queens ton, others crossed and went up on the American side. some hastily crossed below the Fallsand returned via Lewiston; and a part of those who were going from Queenston did not go on to the Falls, but returned with all haste on foot to that village. Happily, no violence of any moment was done on either side, but one of the pleasure (?) party declared that he had pas-sed through many scenes of danger, and had been in many engagements, but never, until that day, had death appeared to him under so terrific an aspect. The laborers were armed with muskets, bayoners scythes, reaping hooks, &c., and but for the presence of acompany of the rifle corps, which had been predently sent up from Nisgara to the Falls, and the perfect absence of any party insignia or language, the consequence would have been a fearful riot and desruction of life.

Our contemporary of the Herald complains that none of the party had given him an account of the affair, but we are not surprised at the circumstance, for the whole was humiliating in the extreme. The Orange party was completely in the power of the Catholics, and many ludicrous scenes might in such a case have been looked for, and actually did occur, which? we do not wish to record, as it would only tend to ag-gravate, instead of calming the disturbed feelings of We condemn Catholic, as well as Orange outrages.
