THE GOLDEN RINGLET. BY AMELIA B WELEY. Here is a little golden tress Of soft unbraided hair, The all that's left of loveliness That once was thought so fair: And yet the' time hath dimm'd its sheen, The' all beside hath fled, I hold it here, a link between My spirit and the dead.

Yes, from this chining ringlet still A mournful memory springs, That melts my heart, and sends a thrill Thro' all its trembling strings. I think of her, the loved, the wept, Upon whose forehead fair, For eighteen years like sunshine, sleps This golden curl of hair.

Oh sunny tress! the joyous brow, Where thou didst lightly wave With all thy sister tresses, now Lies cold within the grave. That cheek is of its bloom bereft; That eye no more is gay;

Four years have past this very June, nce last we fondly met-Four years! and yet it seems too soon To let the heart forget-Too soon to let thy lovely face From our sad thoughts depart. And to another give the place She held within the heart

Her memory still within my mind Retains its sweetest power, It is the perfume left behind To whisper of the flower, Each blossom that in moments gone Bound up this sunny carl, Recalls the form, the look, the tone

Of that enchanting girl. Her step was like an April raio O'er beds of violets flung: Her voice the prelude to a strain Before the song is sung: Her life 'twas like a half-blown flower, Her death the dawn, the blushing hour

That opes the gates to Heaven. A single tress! how slight a thing To sway such magic art, And bid each soft remembrance spring Like bloosems in the heart!

It leads me back to days of old-To her I loved so long. Whose locks outshine pelucid gold. Whose lips o'erflow with song.

Since then, I've heard a thousand layer From lips as sweet as hers; Yet when I strove to give them praise I only gave them tears. I could not bear, amid the throng Where jest and bughter rung To hear another sing the song That trembled on her tongue

A single shining tress of hur To bid such memories start! But tears are on its lustre-there, Oh! when in Death's cold arms I sink, ho then, with gentle care, Will keep for mea dark brown link-
