CAPTAIN KIDD'S SHIP. It is generally known, says the NY Commercial, th individuals are or have been engaged in sub marine operations upon a surken vessel in the Hudson neur West Point, which they suppose to be the ship of the pirate Kidd, and to be rich with the freehoater Il-gotten treasure. A writer in the National Intelli gencer ridicules the enterprise, asserts that Kidd nev

r went up the Hudson, and concludes with identifying the sunken ship as follows:---"As to the wreck of the vessel found at the entran the highlands, persons may be living at this day who saw it burn sixty-seven years ago, and who could now point out the spot where it sunk. It is probabl the remains of une of the two American frigates destr ed on the night of the 6th of October, 1777, when Fo Montgomery was taken by the British under the com mand of Gen Sir Henry Clinton. An account of the loss of these vessels, written on the Sih of October 1977, says -- "We were under the disagreeable ne tomicy of destroying the Constitution, after remov part of the stores, and of burning the frigates Con the enemy's hands, the wind and tide by ing influence of the rowing farther up the river." Fort Mont-"State race; the wind and tide unfavorable to their moving up the river might carry one of them before she sunk to the foot of the Dunderberg-to the very loca-tion selected, by the alleged 'traditions from different exerces' for the sinking of Capt Kidd's ship, with her cargo of gold and silver, with much jewelry, one hun dred and forty-five years ago."
