Arabella and I, before we were married, used to be constantly taking long walks into the country. Above us was the blue firmament; around us were hill and dale, fields, flowers, trees, meandering streums, rippling brooks, cows, sheep, and other animals; all pleasing to behold. We returned home in high spirits, and with a good appetite, both of us. We had enjoyed ourselves greatly, and were no poorer than when we

After marriage, my avocations compelling me to re-side in town, Arabella began gradually to lose her taste for scenery, and to take to staying within doors, in consequence of which, she became unwell. Our medical man recommended exercise, and I was obliged to insist on her walking out with mc. I will not sny where we live, because I am not writing for my wife's edification, but for that of the readers of Punch. We took a walk yesterday. Proceeding at a moderate pace, in about twenty minutes we found ourselves in Oxford street, near Regent circus.

Here my wife, feeling herself a little tire I and out of breath, declared she could go no further. So we stopped; opposite to one of those real nuisances to husbands—a linen-draper's shep, with windows of enornous panes, and a heap of I know not how much finery. of all sorts and colors in the same; a regular wife-gin or ludy-trap. Man-traps are abolished; and I am sure these ought to be. I tried to direct Arabella's attention to the wood pavement; it was of no use; she was fascinated by that window; and there she stood, like a parish boy before a dining room larder. I feared how it would be, and so it was. I was victimized for a thing that shone and glistened and changed color in different lights; she called it a shot-silk—I wish the man had been shot that put it there. wife now felt wonderfully recovered; as able to colds goes ahead of all the preparations now or walk, in fact, as when we set out. The New York Post gives the following abstract of the minutes of the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church: "From the minutes of the Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church for the years 1843-4, just published, it appears the nett increase of members, luring the year, was 102,831. This added to the increase of the previous year, namely, 154,624, makes the unprecedented increase of 257,455 in the abort period of two years, and the whole number of members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, 1,171,356. If the Methodists should continue to increase at the rate they have done during the last two years, they would overshadow all the other religious denominations in the land. But contraction and expension bear long to churches as well as banks; and we perceive, from the minutes of the conferences last held, before making up the accounts for the year, that a reaction has already commenced.
