DENNING'S FIRE PROOF IRON CHESTS. PITTSBURGH, Oct. 22, 1842. J Denning: On Friday, the 30th of last month, about 9 o'clock at night, the Planing, Grooving, and Saah Manufactory, owned by Gay, Dilworth & Co., with a large quantity of dressed and undressedlumber, was all consumed by fire. The Iron Safe which I bought of you some time back was in the most exposed situation during the fire, and was entirely red hot. I am pleased to inform you it was opened at the close of the fire, and all books, papers, &c., saved;—this is the best recommendation I can give of the utility of your safes.

REPLY OF

Charles Brown of Philadelphia, JOHN M. CLAYTON, OF DELAWARE, Exposing the misrepresentations of Mr. Clayton and the Whig party on the subject of the TAR: IFF—being the concluding portion of a Speech of Mr Brown to a Mass Meeting of the Demo-ciats of Belaware, held at Dover, Aug 6, 1844,

(Concluded.) This simple resolution, me; ely to enquire into the propriety of reducing the revenue to the wants of the government, is drugged from its obscurity thus to furnish evidence of hostility to a protective tariff. No eye but Han John M Clayton's could have discov; effect in it any thing but the mere every day un-meaning resolutions that are offered on all sorts of subjects. Nor did the House look upon it in any other light; for it refused its consideration when offered, and nothing further followed. But suppose that it was all that Mr Claying says it was—an attempt to disturb the compromise act— would that have been the destruction of the protective policy? On the contrary, would it not rather have been the salvation of it? For long before the final reduction of duties under the compromise act had taken place, the revenue fell far short of the expenditures of the government, and the very fact that the democratic administration did not violate the compromise act, and raise the duties to the revenue standard, the object of the resolution so condemned by Mr Clayton, is by Mr Clayton in this speech imputed as a crime.

Having now noticed all the charges and specifications brought by Mr Clayton against Mr Polk, I beg your indulgence while I review some of the saying and doings of his opponent, Mr Clay. I will not undertake to prove that Mr Clay has been or is opposed to a protective traff or any other hind of a traff. to a protective turiff, or any other kind of a tariff, for it would be much ensier to prove that he has keen in favor of all sorts of tariffs, us it would begt suit his tem," meaning protective duties. But it should be recollected that such duties were laid by Congress when Mr Clay was-what his partizans lately attempwhen Air Clay was—what his partitions lately attentify ted to magnify into great importance, but what proved a signal failure—a "mill boy of the Slashea." Ho must have been too young then to be father of any system. He certainly never claimed to be the father of the protective act of 1816 or of that of 1824, nor did he was for them; and that of '98 he utterly repudiates. he vote for them; and that of '28 he utterly repu and attempts to prove upon the democrats, in his let-ter to Mr Bronson, sa "highly discreditable to Amerihere is no danger of a high tariff being ever establish-self any thing else than the paternity of high tariffs;

Al did not vote for the Tariff of 1828, for which, Mr Wright, and others of our present opponents die vote. And it is remarkable that from that person my exertions in Congress have been directed to the reduction and modification of tariffs. Thus, it where, and will sell in any place. Mr Clayton. In a speech delivered by him (Mr Clay ! What is free trade? does it mean trade between two nations with freedom on one side and all sorts of restrictions on the other? Is that free trade? Or does it mean to trade with absolute freedom? that is with no duties at all or very low duties, and strictle equal duties on both sides? If that is the Senator neaning, I wilt not stop to discuss the question. I tablished over the face of the whole world.

Again he says in his letter to Mr Meriwether, "I nover was in favor of what I regarded as a high rements, tariff. And my present opinion is in perfect coinci-

To know what the opinions of the whig party of Georgia were, and with which Mr Clay says that his in "perfect coincidence," we need only refer to the opinions of all the whig members of Congress, from Georgia, to the last Congress, whose speeches Mr PLANES, COOPERS, CARPENTERS AND Clay no doubt had read, and which furnish the best vidence of the opinions of the whig party of Georgia. Mr. Habershum, made a long report from the minority of the Committee on Manufactures, against protective tariffs and their "ruinous effects," and made a long speech to prove them.

Mr. Warren called upon all, "both whigs and locoocos of the South," to unite in opposition to "such a. partial system of taxation." Mr Gamble said it was a "monstrous system, a sys-RESPECTFULLY informs his friends and the tem which makes the ich richer and the poor poorknown establishment, and has had it thoroughly repaired in all its departments; and it is now fitted up in

On the 21st of May 1841, a whig Congress met in extra session. Did Mr Clay then propose to raise the duties on the proected articles? He never intimated such an intention turiffs of 1832 and 1833, for which Mr Polk voted turifs of 1832 and 1833, for which Mr Yolk voted and advocated, as expressly left free to aid the manufacturing, mechanical and agricultural labor of the country. I look upon this act of Mr Clay's, and so charged it at the time, as a deadly thrust at the protective policy of the country. Then was the time, if ever, that the American system needed a father, that the laborers called loudly on Congress for bready but Mr. Clay and his whig friends gave them a stone. That these articles thus taxed by Mr. Clay had been left. That these articles thus taxed by Mr. Clay had been left free to aid the protective policy, I have the evidence of Mr Polk and Mr. Clayton, and Mr. Clay himself. They were, according to Mr Clayton's notion, the hu+ speaks of them;

"He could not understand how any gentleman could tand up in the face of all the exemption which the histonianed of articles used by the manufacturer, and say hat there was any intention to abandon the principle

Mr Clay says. "The fourth mode, in which protection could be afforded to domestic industry, was to admit free of duty
