Blest land of Judea! thrice hallowed of song, Where the holiest of memories pilgrim-like throng; in the shade of thy palms, by the shores of thy sea, a the hills of thy beauty, my heart is with thee. With the eye of a spirit I look on that shore, Where the pilgrim and prophet have lingered before With the glide of a spirit I traverse the sod, Made bright by the steps of the angels of God. Blue hills of the sea! in my spirit I hear Thy waters, Genessaret, chime on my ear: Where the lowly and just with the people sat down, And thy spray on the dust of his sandals was thrown. Beyond are Bethulia's mountains of green, And the desolate hills of the wild Gadarene; And I pause on the goat crags of Tabor to see The gleam of thy waters, O dark Galilee! Hark! a sound in the valleys, where, swollen an Strong. Thy river, O Kishon! is sweeping along: Where the Canaanite strove with Jehovah in vain, And thy torrent grew dark with the blood of the slair There, down from his mountains stern Zebulon came And Nathali's stag, with his eye balls of flame, And the chariots of Jubin rolled harmlessly on, Near the arm of the Lord was Abinoam's son! There sleep the still rocks and the caverns which ran To the song which the beautiful Prophetess sang, When the Princes, of Isaachar stood by her side, and the shout of a host in its triumph replied. In! Bethlehem's hill site before me is seen, With the mountains, around and the valleys betwee There rested the shepherds of Judeh, and there The song of the angels rose sweet on the air. And Bathany's palm trees in beauty still throw, Their shadows at noon on the ruins below; But where are the sisters who hastened to greet The lowly Redeemer, and sit at his feet? I tread where the TWELVE in their wayfaring tred; I stand where they stood with the chosen of God; Where his blessing was heard, and his lessons we taught, Where the blind was restored, and the healing wa wrought. Oh! here with his flock the sad Wanderer came, There hills he toiled over in grief are the same— The founts where he drank by the way side still flow And the same airs are blowing which breathed on his And throned on her hills sits Jerusalem yet, But with dust on her forchead, and chains on her fee For the crown of her pride to the mocker hath gone And the holy Shachinali is dark where it shone! But wherefore this dream of the earthly abode Of humanity clothed in the brightness of God! Where my spirit has turned from the outward and dim It sould gaze, even now, on the presence of Him! Not in clands and in terrors, but gentle as when In love and in meekness he moved among men; And the voice which breathed peace to the waves In the hush of my spirit would whisper to me. And what if my feet may not tread where He stood Nor my cars hear the dushing of Galilee's flood, Nor my eyes see the cross which he bowed him Nor my knees press Gethsemane's garden of prayer. Yet, loved of the Father, thy Spirit is near To the meek, and the lowly, and penitent here; And the voice of thy love is the same even now, As at Bethauy's tomb, or on Olivet's brow. O! the outward hath gone-but in glory and power The SPIRIT survived the things of an hour; Unchanged, undecaying, its Pentecost flame On the heart's secret alter is burning the same.
