Ain-"Dandy Jim of Caroline." Proofice heard that the people hate The Dictator from the Konnek State-That a man like him could never fail The chair of State with the people's will. For me, mor Clay, we told you so, You've tried it before, but it was no go, Just us the people told you oh.

With Johnty 'Q. you once combin'd Regardless of the people's mind; But although in the "line of safe procedent," You never yet could be President. For sh, poor Clay, we told you so, &c.

In twonty-eight, you tried again, To continue still the federal reign; For the people then, in a thundering voice, Proclaimed that JACKSON was their choice For oh, your Clay, we told you so, &c.

In thirty-two you could not come it. You tried the race, but never won it; With a Hickory broom we swept away, All traces of poor Harry Clay. For oh, poor Clay, we told you so, Sc.

At Harrisburg you trie I to be The Federal party's nominee; 'Old Tip' he carried off your than, And left you nothing but a rag For oh, poor Clay, we told you so, &c.

And now, old Hal, you've come too lato To rule o'er us in the Keystone State; With JAMES K. POLK wo'll beat you sore, We'll do it again as we've done before, For oh, po r Clay, we told you so &c.

The old coons makes a sad lament, Because he can't be President; With a Hickory sprout we'll dress off Clay, And use him up on election day.

For oh, the people told you so, &c.
