DECLINE OF WHIG SPIRIT.
The same "signs of the times," both North and East of us, say the New York Dem., and the popular mass of their party leaders, are in strict accordance with the following remarks of the Monmouth Democrat:

In a letter of the Princeton correspondent of the Newark Daily, there is the following ominous admission of the decay of spirit among the whigs. It has been manifest for some time past, that every whig spirit was dying away, and that the mass must give up their hold on the tricks and deceptions of Great Britain, to their unequalled arrangements on both sides of the Atlantic for having passengers brought forward with dead bodies. That the passengers were to be carried by steam packet throughout the United Kingdom, to receive passengers for the voyage. Persons residing at a distance can, by writing to either of the subscribers, ascertain the price of passage, with all necessary information given. With regard to the latest news, the "Grand Hotel" of the Clay Club—"Clay Convention and Mass Meeting"—was the disappointment of the whig leaders. One hotel keeper who was engaged by the managers to house for less than 500 persons, and he did so bad FIVE only to live with him. The head quarters had probably fifty. A Princeton coach has not been able to hold on his head since the winter has fallen. No wonder, then, that there should be no more meetings. But to the extract from the Princeton letter:

"Mass meetings do some good, if there are not too many of them, but there should be but few now."

"Sir, for you, Master Tocqueville, you ought indeed to have 'but few now.' If you had but a few less we reckon you would have been better pleased; you had 'too many' already. That's a fact."

Ohio Banks.—By the official report of the banks of Ohio the following facts are obtained: In 1836 there were thirty-one banks in operation in Ohio. In 1844, there were but eight banks in partial operation. In 1836, the circulation of the thirty-one banks totalled to $1,044,000. In 1844, the circulation of the thirty-one banks was $2,136,192; in 1846, the loans of the banks were $2,814,241. Deposits in 1835, $6,125,914; in 1844, $11,427,000. We perceive a difference of $5,300,000, which shows a decided advance in the great improvement in the local affairs of the State and its inhabitants. The great increase in the agricultural products of the State, and the increasing wealth of the people, is good evidence that banks do not mean necessarily to derive the resources of any country."

LETTER OF THE REV. S. B. WYLIE, D. D., OF THE

EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF THE MERCEDICATED VAPOR BATH.

Rev. Mr. Wylie & Black.

G. L. WYLIE, I have made trial of your Vapor Bath. The benefit thereof has much exceeded my expectation. I had not anticipated the degree of pleasure produced by the moderate vapor during the winter months. I am perfectly satisfied with the vapor fifteen minutes more, pleasantly; while my lungs, being full of an odorous perfume atmosphere, and every part of my system was exuding, in copious perspiration; notwithstanding the heat of the bath, I felt great refreshment, and even reinvigorated. I had been troubled much with rheumatic pains, and worn down with fatigue of body; these pains were completely removed, and I am now in full health again, and have a fine appetite, and seduce luxuriant of joint; to such degree that it makes no pertension. But let me add, expel from the body, such perfume as is produced by its presence, be increased, and for health's sake, I consider the Vapor Bath to all affected by languor of constitution, or laboring under such diseases, as its professed to be a cure.

S. B. WYLIE, Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 17, 1844.

Persons afflicted with Rheumatic pains will see by the above letter that they can rely on being cured, as in no instance where they failed to find a similar relief.
