The guats, a busy rout,
Fleck the warm air; the distant owl-Shouteth naleepy shour. The voiceless bat, more felt that seen, Le flitting round about. The aspen leaflets scarcely stir; The river seems to think; Athwart the dusk the lotus broad Looks cooly from its brink. Where, listening to the freshet's noise, The quiet cattle drink. The bees boom past—the white moths rise Like spirits from the ground; The gray flies hum their weary time And far, far off, to the slumberous eye, Bays an old guard-hound. The largest Church in the World .- In a lat etter from the Rev. Mr. Coan, of Hilo, Hawaii, Sandwie islands, is the following graphic account of a com nion scene of the largest church in the world, comprising more than seven thousand members: "Once in three months the whole church meets a the station to cut the Lord's Supper. Our last communion was on the first Subbath in April. Perhaps five thousand were present, and for want of a conveniest house for the eccasion, we met in a grove of cocos mut trees on the sea shore. The assembly was imtacuse, and the scene overwhelming. Before us was the wide Pacific, heaving its broad breast to the breath of beaven. Behind us was the everlasting mountains. rearing their enowy summits above the clouds, and forming an eternal rampart against the western sky. Beneath us was a little spot of earth, once ignited by volcanic fires, rocked by a thousand earthquakes, and more than once submerged with a flood. Above us was the vaulted sky, that glorious mirror, that "molten looking-glass," spread out and made strong by the band of Omnipotence. Around us was a landscape of nimitable beauty, clothed with verdure, teening with ife, and smiling in loveliness. The softer and sweeter features in nature, blended with the grand, the old, the sublime, conspired to render the scene er The Mormons.-There is a design among the ple of Illinois to starve the Mormons out and oblige them to leave their city. Our last dates state that provisions on their way thither are intercepted and hose having them ill-treated. The farmers are fearful of their being taken if they proceed in the direction of Nauvoo with provisions. Within a few days previeus to the 14th inst., numerous Mormons have visited St. Louis to provide the necessaries of life! Surely the Mormons see trouble. It reminds us of the perecutions of our Savior and his apostles in the days of old. If the citizens of the United States would let these people alone they would soon be extinct, but if they continue to persecute them they will flourish and cover the land .- Cin. Com.
