Look out for Forgery! We are informed upon good authority, that the Federal Telegraph and Intelligence has prepared and will circulate through the whole State, by LET-TIS, purporting to be written by James K. Polk and Francis R. Shunk. Their presses are active night and day, striking off LIBELS and CALUMNIES of every shade and hue, and are not to be detected by the ordinary eye. Do not be deceived, and be careful that your neighbors are not misled by the infamous THICKS of the enemy. The above is from the Democratic Union. We commend it to the attention of our friends, with the remark that it is a danger of Forgery and Fraud from other Federal whig sources besides those from which the Union expects them. We warn our friends where the Union expects them. We warn our friends to beware of all sorts of electioneering tricks. Beware of the "Blackboard Forgery."

Gazette Arguments.—Beyond question, the Gazette has a more singular way of arriving at conclusions in regard to the merits of candidates, than any paper we know of. The Gazette says that Mr. Shunk should not be chosen Governor, because he is a looker on at a religious ceremony performed in laying the foundation of a Christian house of worship. On the other hand, the Gazette would maintain that Mr. Shunk should be chosen Governor because he "killed an Indian and drank spiced-bush tea."

Mr. Shunk, during the late war, was found at the post where his country most needed a soldier. He endured all the rigors of a campaign, but had the misfortune not to be engaged at a point where he could have done "plunder" or "suck" a red skin. There, according to the Gazette's idea, Gen. Mackle had the advantage over Mr. Shunk, inasmuch as he did "kill an Indian" and "suck a red skin." Mr. Shunk, however, was found at the post where his country most needed a soldier. He endured all the rigors of a campaign, but had the misfortune not to be engaged at a point where he could have done "plunder" or "suck" a red skin. There, according to the Gazette's idea, Gen. Mackle had the advantage over Mr. Shunk, inasmuch as he did "kill an Indian" and "suck a red skin."

Not a Free Trade man, as his enemies admit. Not a doerist. Not "immoral and profane." Not "debauched." His conduct shows no man's "moral sensibilities." He has the "silent workings of truth and morality" on his side, and does, not employ "forgers to work for him." He can carry Pennsylvania by 20,000 votes—and he will be elected. He can carry the Gazette are surprised to see his strange effect the editor's own reasoning has on him, and that strange course it impels him to pursue.

October Elections.—Maryland on the 24. Gen. Polk on the 27th. New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and South Carolina on the 28th.

The following resolutions, adopted at a meeting of the citizens of Montgomery, Mr. Shunk's main object will show how those who have known him from childhood re- and the bible standers: "Resolved, That the miserable and unchristianlike attempt to deprive the people of their rights by some of the members of the Whig party, by such means as the American Flag and the Bible, is a crime against the Republic, and that every citizen should take the most effectual measures to prevent the same. WE READ THE BIBLE IN HIS MOUTH, BUT TO TAUNT US WITH HIS SCHOOL, AND NOT ONLY TAUGHT TO READ IT, BUT TO CHERISH ITS HOLY PRECEPTS."

This sentiment was adopted at a meeting where thousands of the citizens of Montgomery were present, and they are at a loss to know who they are responsible for the next falsehood. It is for the honest people to decide which is most entitled to belief—the man who has known Mr. Shunk from boyhood, and who has seen him at the grogshop loaded with the whig party to assail him, or the man who has seen him at the grogshop loaded with the whig party to assail him, or the man who has seen him at the grogshop loaded with the whig party to assail him.

Clay's Gamble.—Gen. Polk, one of the whig leaders in Mississippi, has written a letter to the Louisville Democrat, in which he says the practice is very general, and that he has seen it in the social habits of his countrymen. The fact is, that he has seen it in the social habits of his countrymen. The fact is, that he has seen it in the social habits of his countrymen.
