The responses given to this question, would be as various as are the opinions of men, and as unlike as the reasonings by which they arrive at different couclu-sions. Some would say it is because they are 'U. S. Bank men, and their champion the friend of an old-fashioned Bank—some would soy it is because they are the fashioned Bank—some would soy it is because they are fashioned Bank—some would soy it is because they are the fashioned Bank—some tashioned Bank—some would soy it is because they are for Distribution—others, because, in Congress, many of them voted against the Tariff of 1842. CANAL COMMISSIONER.—Hartshorn will be about equal to that given for Gov story that this gentleman, the Liberty candidate for the Presidency, is nominated in Michigan, for the Legislature, by the Democrats, and that he has accept ed the nomination. The story is evidently false, got up for the purpose of cheating the Liberty men into the improvement of Clay. The democrats never take can-didates from any of the parties opposed to it—they do not entrust the carrying out of their objects and prin-ciples to any but men who act with their own party. which he kindly and cheerfully sumplied. I think the reason assigned for my wishing him to do so, is the same which he has given in his affiilavit. He accordingly gave it to the editor of the Chronicle, but, cau tious of assuming any responsibility, informed Spencer that it was a copy from an original furnished by myself. The unfortunate piece was duly published, nd has since made a more extensive tour than Reot-

On the next day, or at the fartheat the day after, Mr McKinney informed me that the article had been pre-sented to, and accepted by Mr Spencer, and that it would appear in the next Chronicle. I then thought that the experiment had been sufficiently tried, and im-mediately made Mr McKinney acquainted with the back himself circumstances relating to it, and it was at his option circumstances relating to it, and it was at its option to have prevented its appearance. This gentleman, however, is of opimion that it was on the very day ad publication that he first received his i uformation; but my strong impression and confident belief is, that it must have been at least on the day previous to this day last, on an application to be admitted to bail on a charge of participating in the Southwark riots. He had previously been brought before Alderman Rees on the same charge. The testimony went to² show that he was in the riot, and was connected with the party that had one of the guns which was fired upon the military. He was committed, after the hearing, on the charges of riot and murder.

Identified and Buried with Honors .- The individual who fell dead in the Democratic Procession or Friday night, in Pine street, near Fourth, was identified on Saturday by his family. His name was Timo-thy J. Crano. aged 26 years. Ho was a fifer in the Blockley delegation, and, with his wife and one child, resided in West Philadelphia. The coroner held an equest over the body, and the jury rendered a verdict of death from cause unknown, though it was evident he had died from disease of the heart. He was followed to the grave yesterday by a large concourse of his political friends, and a collection made for the relief of his family. Its Length .- The length of the Democratic Torchlight Proces ion, on Friday night, was thirty-six squares, being, at the usual computation of eight squares to the mile, just four miles long. When the last section commenced moving from Fifth and Chesnut streets the front of the column was turning Lombard and Second streets, extending the whole route to that point Outrageous .- A portion of the Democratic proces
