The fact is, one is dependent upon the other, and we hope no haborer will insult his employer by att mixting to force him to note controlled the process of the times, and thousand thousand thousand the process of the times, and thousand the process of th er by att meeting to force him to vote contrary to his episions; nor consent that the employer shall dictate to him in this matter of voting. Both are independent at the polls if they choose to be.—NY Pleb.
