"Isnow" whether this charge of "gambling is utterly and basely false," or whether it stands written in imperishable characters against the man whom you attempt to sustain and endorse, "the public and private, intimate and confidential intercourse of 20 years and more," with the additional proof of your certificate to the contrary notwithstanding. Was this intimate and confidential intercourse still kept up by you, Doctor, when Clay left his home to travel to Louisville to the races? Aye, on the race field itself, and to the locked rooms of the Hotel where these "moral" sports were finished for the day, and do you "know" that Mr Clay did not bet high on the race field; and gamble high at the Hotel? Were you so "intimate and confidential" with your honorable friend when he was travelling up and down the river on steam boats, and you at home, by your own fireside. as to know that he did not descend from that pinnacle of merality on which your ready hand has placed him, and kill the time which hung heavily on his hands by a resort to the gentle and very "moral" amusement of the gaming table; aye, and even forget that Saturday night had passed away, and the Sabbath had dawned on "two bullets and a brag-:ger," or the "four honors in his own hand." This last is technical language, Doctor, but your "intimate and confidential intercourse" and association with Mr.
'Clay for the long period of "twenty years and more," may, by this time, have taught you to understand its legitimate meaning. And still, Doctor, your honorable friend and patron is the variest pink of morality, according to "its must accredited principles," as taught

And you "know" too, Ductor, that Mr. Clay is no "Sabbath breaker," and that charge is "utterly and basely false." Does your Church and religion teach, or authorize you "to certify" that the man who travels to the races at Louisville on the Sabbath does not profane the holy purpose for which it was set apart?

Does the Bible, or the sanctity of your hallowed office as a minister and teacher of its precepts, instruct you to declare that man free from the charge of dese cration of that holy day, who, surrounded by pomp and pageantry, and all the circumstances of a festiv cocasion, addresses a crowd of political subjects, amid the shouts and huzzas of an assembled and Subbathbreaking multitude? And yet, Doctor, you know that Mr. Clay is 'no Sabbath breaker," and is moral to the full extent of its "accredited principles," and all this is virtuous, moral and lawful, and you owe it to "truth and justice" and the claims of society so to dechreand certify it! And you too "know" Doctor, that Mr. Clay is no "profane swearer." never heard it whispered that this same Mr. H.
