

has't time to tell—think well of every body. Weakness we all have. One of mine is, a love of power. We think but very little of religion, when we forget proper innocency. I have, however, delayed you too long and indeed, except for politeness sake, know not why I should have written at all. I therefore remain, your obedient servant.

RITA DOUGLASS.
P. S. I shall be out all day to-morrow. At present I am at present—know of no engagement for the next day, but, next day—the day after, for I have a Thursday.

The Daily Morning Post.

THOS. PHILLIPS & W. H. SMITH, EDITORS.
PITTSBURGH, MONDAY, OCTOBER 28.

FOR PRESIDENT,
JAMES K. POLK,
OF KENTUCKY.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
GEO. M. DALLAS,
OF PENNSYLVANIA.

SENATORIAL ELECTORS.
WILSON WARDLAW, of Allegheny,
ASA DIMOCK, of Susquehanna.

DISTRICT ELECTORS.
1 district George F. Leonard, Philadelphia,
2 do CHRISTIAN KREGER, do
3 do WILLIAM H. SMITH, do
4 do JOHN H. HARRIS, do
5 do SAMUEL E. LARSEN, Montgomery,
6 do MARCUS CAMP, Lehigh,
7 do JAMES SHARP, Chester,
8 do N. W. BAZILE, Lancaster,
9 do WILLIAM HENDERSON, Berks,
10 do CORNELL WATSON, Northampton,
11 do STEPHEN BALDY, Columbia,
12 do CHARLES WATSON, Berks,
13 do GEORGE KRAMER, Union,
14 do NATHANIEL H. ELLER, Dauphin,
15 do WILLIAM N. LEVINE, Adams,
16 do JAMES WOODRUFF, Cumberland,
17 do JOHN WOODRUFF, Centre,
18 do ISAAC AYER, Schuylkill,
19 do JOHN MAYNARD, Cambria,
20 do WILLIAM HARRIS, Berks,
21 do ANDREW BOZEL, Allegheny,
22 do JOHN W. MILL, Mercer,
23 do CHARLES WATSON, Clinton,
24 do ROBERT OZL, Armstrong.

The Presidential election in Pennsylvania takes place on Friday, November 1.

DEMOCRATIC ELECTORAL TICKETS CAN BE HAD AT THIS OFFICE.

Look out for Frauds!
PROOF OF WHIG VILLANY!

We mentioned on Saturday that the whigs of Philadelphia had raised $200,000!

For the purpose of hiring emissaries to travel about and delude the people, and to employ playactors to carry the election by false voting! The sum has been increased by contributions in New York and Philadelphia to $300,000!

and all to secure the vote of Pennsylvania. A letter written by W. B. EATON of Philadelphia, and addressed to a leading citizen of Lehigh county, with him where he had the share of the bribery fund, appropriated to Lehigh, and admonishes him that "Lehigh were do better." Democrats of Pennsylvania, you have witnessed the most scandalous attempts of the U. S. Bank to corrupt you—you will you go down or surrender to the Hartford Convention federalists of Boston? We know your answer. The result of Friday next will be a shattering NO!

A Mr. GEORGE C. COLLIER publishes a card in Friday's Gazette, in which he not only denies that there is any sympathy between the Whigs and Whigs, but asserts that the chief agents in the Philadelphia riot were unacquainted with the Democratic party. To show how utterly untrue Mr. C.'s first assertion, it is only necessary to point to the union between the Whigs and Democrats in late election, when the Whigs abandoned their own candidates, and voted for those of the Democratic party. We do not suppose that Mr. C. has so much of a Mr. C. to show, as to say that "Lehigh was not elected by whig votes, and that Whigs the regular whig candidate was not invited to attend, so that his party might have an opportunity of voting for the Democratic candidate during the Convention and South-western counties. We have the same evidence of a union in the whig and native vote in the county, where the former again deserted their own ticket, and supported the candidate of the natives. These evidences of an alliance between "all the Democrats" and all the Whigs, are so well known, that it appears needless to mention them.

Mr. C.'s next assertion is that the Chief agents were Democrats in the Democratic party. This is a denial of truth as his first assertion, and we defy him to show that any Democrats participated, encouraged or assented the outrage that were formed and perpetrated by those who have been elected to office by the Whigs.

Mr. Collins says that in politics he knows no one's religion. Such may be his feelings; but there is no man who that he most know as he acts with the Whigs, and that is, that in the eyes of that party, all persons holding the religious opinions which he professes to entertain, are fit subjects for every species of persecution, and that he perfectly honest and pious slander, proscribe and persecute them by every means that ruffians and cut-throats can devise.

Mr. Collins selected the Gazette to publish his card, because it is regarded as the leading organ of the Whig party. Yet if he will look over the columns of that journal during the present campaign, he will find that the strongest argument it has used in favor of the Whigs, is blighting abuse of a religious portion of the community, and that in his eagerness to excite a feeling of hatred against the Church in which Mr. Collins says he worships, the editor of the Gazette has violated every principle of truth, honor and Christian charity. The Whig editors of this city have made abuse of Mr. Collins' religious sentiments a matter of pecuniary speculation and they have absolutely quarreled with each other about the profits derived from the publication of the slanders. Mr. C. may have espoused Christian philosophy to meekly bear the kicks and cuffs—the slanders and misrepresentations of the pious Whig. But he should not attempt to make others admit their ruffianly abuse, nor should he come into this part of the country to tell us that the Whigs know no man's religion.

THE WAY CLAY'S FARMERS ELECTIONEER FOR HIM IN THE SOUTH.—The Yazoo Whig, an efficient Clay paper in Mississippi, has the following matter under its editorial head, as a representation of Clay's views on the "Tariff." Mr. C. is afraid that some one will "misrepresent" him by saying that he is for a "Protective Tariff." Mr. C. however, has no notion of submitting silently to such a perversion of his sentiments, and in order to meet, in advance, all such imputations, he takes occasion, just as he is about to leave public life, to declare that he is for "tariffing" by the principle of the Compromise act. Remember, fellow citizens, that this was Clay's opinion when he was in the Senate, and had it in his power to do something for the Tariff. He has since, when out of place, and when it was impossible for him to say anything as a legislator for the Tariff, said he was in favor of the Tariff of 1842. But you will also bear in mind that he never said anything for that Tariff until he was a candidate and wanted to catch the votes of Pennsylvania. And now all followers of him who wish you to note that the Yazoo Whig and its kindred press in the South, DO NOT CONSIDER MR. CLAY'S LETTERS IN FAVOR OF THE PRESENT TARIFF AS OF ANY ACCOUNT. You will see that they do not give those letters any notice or any binding force.

They go back for Mr. Clay's true sentiments to his speech in 1842, and elections for him as an avowed opponent of a "Protective Tariff." Tariff men of Pennsylvania! will you let the Great Gambler and his makers cheat you out of your votes in this way? Here are Clay's real Tariff views:

"Let me not be misunderstood—and I entreat that I may not be MISREPRESENTED. Do NOT advocate the revival of a HIGH PROTECTIVE TARIFF! I AM FOR ABIDING BY THE PRINCIPLE OF THE COMPROMISE ACT. I am for doing what is Southern men of fair, candid minds ever yet denied—giving to the country a revenue which may provide for the economical and efficient Government, and at the same time giving incidental protection to our home industry."—Speech of Henry Clay in the United States Senate, March 1st, 1842.

THE WHIGS AND THE NATIVES.—The recent union of these parties in Philadelphia affords matter for serious reflection to that portion of the Whig party who are not prepared to admit the admission of the Whigs to the previously declared principles of the Whig party. We are well convinced that to a large number of those who constitute the Whig party, Nationalism is a religion—they embrace it heartily and cheerfully—but we also know that there are many in that party who cannot so low down the prospect of life and independent action, and who are unwilling to live for a moment palliate the lawless proceedings which have thus far marked its rise and progress—Touch we would desire to address a few words.

In the recent bargain and sale between the Whigs and Whigs of Philadelphia the advantage was all on the side of the former. It is true their independence as a party was sacrificed, and they were merged in whigery—but they did not compromise nor give up any of their principles. All that the Whigs gained by the union, was some two or three thousand votes for MARBLE, which did not elect him—to be sure they elected their Major and Council in the city, but every one knows they could have done so without Nationalism. They have not elected a county Member to the Senate nor House, nor a single county officer that we know of—the Natives have got all of them. Therefore all that the Whigs have secured, they could have effected without the help of the Natives—while they have lost a Congressman, and have confessed their belief in the paramount importance of the objects and principles of the Natives, and have shown which they themselves had heretofore advocated.

They sacrificed E. J. MORTON, a fast friend of the Tariff, and all the other projected principles which the Whigs profess to take as their platform, and elected a man who pledged to nothing but to alter and restrict the tariff laws, and devoted to nothing but abuse and persecution of the Natives.

The election of this man and his fellow-Native candidates by tremendous majorities over the regular whig ticket, presents an important question to all whigs who do not profess to be Whigs—and they infer, are those who voted for the regular whig ticket in preference to voting, per contract, for Natives. The question presented to each whig, in Philadelphia and elsewhere, is, whether they will set the objects and principles of the Natives, their religious persecutions, church-burnings and all, above the long-cherished whig principles of a Bank, Distribution, Tariff, &c. Whether they will make these latter points subservient and subordinate to Nationalism—whether they would rather that L. C. LEVINE and men like him, should go to Congress and trade off, if he can, the Tariff, Bank, and all, to buy support for his persecuting principles, but that honorable men like E. J. MORTON, should go to Congress to maintain the Tariff, Bank, and all, in their original cardinal principles of their party.

We would ask honest whigs to reflect on these things, before they decide on their future course of political action.

We would also call their attention to the fact, that while the whigs sacrificed all their former principles to sustain Nationalism, the Natives did not place of them in danger. They have secured two Congressmen—three members of the House, and 1 Senator—power by all of which they can operate on the law-making power—while the whigs have obtained nothing by their bargain which will in any way advance their principles, but have lost those in the Legislature and Congress. We again repeat, the advantage of honest whigs to the whole subject—will they see how they have been abused, and cheated, and sold to the Natives by this infamous bargain.

ARKANSAS ELECTION.
We have received returns from a few counties in Arkansas, but such as have come to hand, show a large increase of the Democratic vote compared with that of 1846. It is probable that the Whig ticket for Governor, is elected, in consequence of two Democratic candidates running for that office, but there can be no doubt of the Democrats having a large majority of the popular vote.

GOVERNOR:
DRUG, IEM. GIBSON, whig. Bind. vol. 29
910
COWLEY, 100 maj. 29
HARRIS, 30 maj. 15
POPPE, 90 maj. 15
HOT SPRINGS, 185 38
SALINE, 155 154
FULTON, 352 434 98

CONGRESS.
YETL. DEM. WALKER, whig. 454
COWLEY, 412 454
HARRIS, 100 maj. 295
POPPE, 90 maj. 15
HOT SPRINGS, 185 38
SALINE, 155 154
FULTON, 352 434 98

KEEP UP THE FIRE.
Let no Democrat put off his business, or lay down his arms. We have fought and won a great battle. What if we have lost Pulaski county, a small edge greatly reduced whig majority; we have carried the State triumphantly, and we trust, by a greater Democratic majority than was ever obtained before. But more remains to be done. Another battle is to be fought in November; and in that it is our duty, as it should be our pride and pleasure, to win a greater victory than we have yet won. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we shall extinguish the last remnant of whigery from the land. Then we may rest, for the enemy will be destroyed, and our country will be safe; but until then, let us keep the fire, and the day of November, when, by one vigorous and determined charge, we