The Daily Morning Post.

Literature and Partisan malice.

Roorback has sprung to life again in Massachusetts, and is busy in circulating a story of plagiarism against Mr Bancroft, the eminent historian. He obtained, it is said, from Mr Everett, American Minister in London, a rare MS. which he incorporated, without credit, into a volume of his forthcoming history. Subsequently, he ascertained that a duplicate of MS. was offered for sale, and, not being able to procure the copy for love or money, he went to the publishing office and melted down the stereotype plates of his history, in order to prevent his plagiarism from becoming known. We will venture to say that there is not a word of truth in this story, but that it is one of those gross partisan slanders that every man is subject to who becomes a candidate for the suffrages of the people, or avows his political preferences. Mr. Bancroft bears a high literary character, founded upon real literary attainments, and has no need to resort to pilferings from other authors to sustain his reputation. The idea of a duplicate of a rare MS. being hawked about the streets for sale, and he not able to get it "for love or money," is a little too ridiculous, independent of the absurdity of an author foisting upon the public as his own what another person had communicated to him, and who must necessarily be aware of the imposition. Mr. Bancroft was a candidate for a high office in Massachusetts, hence the rancor with which the partisan journals pursue him. They attacked Mr Cooper in this same unjustifiable manner, some four years ago, and have continued the persecution till the present day, though in the latter gentleman they met an adversary who was not so easily crushed as they imagined, and who has successfully foiled the malice of his foes.
Philadelphia Ledger.

The above, coming from a neutral paper, shows what public sentiment is in reference to the vile conduct of the whigs since their defeat. They show a spirit that wild beasts, in ordinary feeling, would be ashamed of.

THE SMITHSONIAN BEQUEST.

We trust that the present Session of Congress will not be permitted to pass by, without some definite action on the part of the representatives of the people, in relation to the Smithsonian Bequest. We have alluded to this subject on more than one occasion already; but it is a topic that must be constantly urged, or at least mentioned at every opportune moment, in order to secure for it, any thing like due attention. This bequest, and proper legislation with regard to it, may be said to involve the honor of the country. It is indeed disgraceful to us as a people, that we have so long permitted the noble sum which was bequeathed to us by a liberal-minded foreigner, and with a most benevolent object, to remain so idle and unappropriated. We see it stated that the whole fund amounts at the present time, to $690,000. Why, in the name of all that is honest and upright, not refer the matter to a Committee with the object of securing from enlightened and comprehensive minds, some judicious and available plan, and of thus determining at once, as to the mode of carrying out the phylanthropic views of the testator.—Six years have gone by, since the money was obtained in England. Mr Rush, the gentleman who was charged with the duty of receiving it, has made several eloquent appeals upon the subject; but thus far in vain.—The benevolent objects intended, have been delayed and frustrated for a time, while the character of the country has suffered not a little. If this money had been properly disposed, of, other and similar bequests might have been looked for, not only at home but abroad.

But now, with such a sad delinquency on the part of our national legislators, we can expect nothing of the kind. We again repeat the expression of a hope that the present Session will not be permitted to pass by, without some definite and satisfactory action, in relation to a bequest so truly munificent, and made under circumstances which should have secured for the wishes of Mr Smithton, the most respectable attention and consideration.

Singular Conflict of authority.—Judge Coalter, of one of the Mississippi courts, some time in July last, issued warrants from the District court of Warren county for the arrest of John Lavins, Esq., the proprietor of the Vicksburgh Sentinel, and Capt. Walter Hickey, then the editor, on the charge of contempt of court, founded on an editorial article censuring Judge Coalter for suffering a person to go at large on bail against whom a true bill for murder in the first degree had been found by a grand jury. Both of the parties appeared voluntarily before his honor, and he forthwith sentenced them to six months imprisonment and a fine of five hundred dollars each. Being convinced that this was a most arbitrary and tyrannical abuse, or rather assumption of power, (the offensive words not being spoken in hearing of the court, but printed in a newspaper,) His Excellency, Gov Albert Gallatin Brown, immediately remitted the sentences of imprisonment and fine; when this modern Jeffries, not to be outdone by any modern branch of the State Government, arrested both of the released persons again and committed them on their former sentences. The Governor immediately procured a writ of habeas corpus and brought them from Vicksburg jail before the High Court of Errors and Appeals, (Judges Sharkey, Clayton and Thacher,) now in session in the city of Jackson—since which we have not heard how the affair has progressed. It would be laughable if Judge George Coalter should extend his prerogative a little further, and commit Gov Brown to jail for contempt.

The Boston Post-Office.—In the recent visit of our Mr. Edward Willmer to the United States, amongst the other public establishments of that great country, he was forcibly struck with the efficient arrangements of the Post-Office at Boston, conducted by Mr. Nat. Greene, the head of the department. Under his able managment, it is entitled to the praise, and receives the approbation, of the great and wealthy community which derives so much advantage from its admirable working. Mr. Greene is an invaluable public servant, and we know that his talent is appreciated by the public. On the arrival and despatch of the European mails by the British and American mail steam-ships, nothing can exceed the regularity and expedition with which the business is managed. The internal arrangements of the office, under Mr. Greene's superintendence, place it, for all the purposes of expedition and regularity, upon a footing of equality with that of the British Metropolis, or any other in Europe. The obliging and attentive demeanor of Mr. Greene has made him a favorite with every mercantile house in Boston; and to the European stranger, his courtesy and attention demand an unlimited meed of praise and thanks. Singular state of Affairs.—In the Mississippi House of Representatives, on the 23d ult., Mr Richmond made a report from the Committee on Elections, relative to Decatur county. The report states, that the county is without a representative—that Rolla Harper, said to have been elected—but about his election there seems to be some doubt, because the poll books were not sent in as required by law—has since died, and Mr Stevenson, the competitor, has absconded. If he had not run off, the committee declare that he would have been ineligible to the office, because he is owing the State a sum of money for taxes in the county, which he had collected and never paid off.

A Queer Project.—The Courtland Democrat tells a capital story about a project that was set on foot by the Whigs of Utica just before the election. The plan was to erect a mammoth factory establishment in that city, in the event of the success of Mr. Clay, the machinery of which was to be turned by water taken from the Mohawk river, and carried in buckets by two thousand men, up five hundred feet, and emptied on the wheel. Of course this great improvement has fallen through since the election.
