Old Winter bath come with a stealthy tread, O'er the fallen Autumn leaves, And shrilly he whistleth over head, And pipeth beneath the eaves. Let him come! We care not amid our mirth For the driving snow and rain; For little we reck of the cold, dull hearth,

Or the broken window pane. Tis a stormy night, but our glee shall mock At the winds that loudly prate,
As they echo the moans of the poor that knock With their cold hands at the gate. The poor! We give them the half-picked bene, And the dry and mildewed bread;

Ah! they never, God help them! know the pain Of being over-fed. Fill round again with the cheering wine. While the fire grows warm and bright; And sing me a song, sweethart of mine, Ere you whisper the words "Good night!"

You never will dream, 'neath the covering warm Of your soft and curtained bed, Of the scanty mag and the shivering form, And the yawning roof o'erhead. The poor! God pity them in their need!

We've a prayer for their every groan;
They ask us with outstreatched hands for bread, And we give unto them a stone. God help them! God help us! for such we lack. Though lofty and rich we be,
And open our hearts to all that knock With the cry of CHARITY!
