It is true, that gross private injury is sometimes done by the repealing of a legislative act-as for instance the abrogation of the election of Blair & Rives as printers of the Serate, and the recent removal of Samuel Medary of the Ohio Statesman from the office of State Printer, to which he had been duly elected for the legal term of three years. But the whigs. hitherto, while doing acts of this kind, have fought stoutly against the doctrine of Repeal in the abstract -now, however, they have fully recognized it, and i will be the Democrats' own fault if it is not carrie out to the hearts' content of the whigs-they need not hereafter attempt to fasten any burden on the people such as the U.S. Bank of Pennsylvania, or the new Bank of Ohio, by fraud and chicanery.

Another Outrage .- The whigs have claimed to be the exclusive advocates of law and order.-CLAY, in one of his speeches, vaunted their "respect for the laws." A beautiful commentary on this boast is to be found in the expulsion of SAMUEL MEDARY, Esq. editor of the Ohio Statesman, from the office of State Printer, to which he had been duly and fairly elected for the term of three years. No example for this daring and scandalous outrage can be found, except in the displacement, in 1841, by the Whig Senate, of Blair & Rives as printers to that body. It is left for the whig party to perpetrate such gross outrages on common decency and the laws of the land.

THE COMMERCE OF GREAT BRITAIN AND OF THE UNITED STATES .- We learn from a statistical table of the Commercial Navies of Europe, compiled from data furnished by Lloyd's that the commercial tonnage of Great Britain is 3,047,418 tons.
