PITTSBURGH, SATURDAY, APRIL 5, 1845.

The Daily Morning Post. To have before called attention to beautiful poetry from the full heart of Thomas Mackellar of Philadelphia. Here are two more of his fine effusions.

N. Y. Mirror PLEA IN ANGUISH. WRITTER WHEN UNDER AN APPREHENSION OF THE LASS OF SIGHT. Think earth, O Lord! is beautiful. Mine eves

Have seen—my heart bath felt it so. Thy hand Hath set its seaf of glory on the land,
The sea, and all thy works beneath the skies:
The earth was bright to me in early days, Ere dimness fell on me. My Father, God! The know of its fills and vales I trod, My beenin full of love to Thee, and praise. I love the earth, because 'twas made by Thee, And made so fair. I still would look upon Iteface, when lie with radiance by the sun, Or by the mood, or paler stars. To me uteous still-the earth and all its kind:

Around my hearth four little ones are playing; Their mother sitteth with our last-born near— What hand shall feed them, and what voice shall cheer,

If Lam smitten blind? Lord, I am praying For these, my children, whom thou gavest me. And her, more loved, in my extremity. I'll kiss the rod that smiteth me. Thy will Be done—thy Sovereign will! But yet I pray G spare to me the light of love and day, And let me look upon my brethren still. The face of man to me is very dear; Then get mo not slone, where I shall see

A dweller in a world all ionely, dark, and drear. "MAY I COME UP!"

"May I come up?" the waking germ inquires:
"All winter long, the fearful frost has bound Above my head a mass of icy ground. I've slept in silence, till the solar fires Have driven away the frost; the softened earth Invites me now to claim the right of birth. Oh may I come, and see day's sunny smile?"

Not yet, not yet. 'Tis past the time of snow, But frosts may come, and nipping winds may blow Tis safe for the to hide a little while Within thy cell: ere long shalt thou arise And God thy life wilt keep." The April hours, Soon weeping comes, with warm and genial skies

The germ springs up, and bears a crown of buds and to the patronage of my friends.

SORREL SHEEP AND HORSES. A hill was before the lower branch of the Alabami Legislature for the charter of a Botanical Medical col- streets. lege, at Welumpka. After Speaker Moore and others had made able speeches in support of the bill, Mr. Morrison; from Monroe, took the floor. He is an odd genius, and withat he has good, hard, horse sense, (as is colleague, Mr. Howard, calls it,) and often speaks to the point and with effect. With an imperturbable 'Mr Speaker, I cannot support the bill, unless I am assured that a distinguished acquaintance of mine is made one of the Professors. He is what that College the place exactly. He became a doctor in two hours. and it only costs $20 to complete his education. He bought a book, sir, and read the chapter on fevers, and that was enough. He was sent for to see a sick worken a very sick woman. With his book under his arm, off he went. Her husband and their son John were in the room with the sick woman. The detection of FICE, North side of Fifth street, between Wood doctor felt of her wrist and looked in her mouth, and Office Smithfield streets, Pittsburgh, Pa. ther took off his but. 'Has you got,' addressing the husband, 'a sorrel sheep?' 'No, I never heard of such a thing is all my life.' 'Well, there is such things,' said the doctor very knowingly. 'Has you got, then, a sorrel horse? 'Yes,' said John, quickly. I rode him'to mill to day.' 'Well, he must be killed immediately, said the doctor, 'an lasmo soup must be made and given to your wife." The poor woman turned over in her hed, John began to object, and the husband was brought to a stand. ctor, he is the only horse we've got, and he is worth $100, and will not some other soup do as well? No 118, Liberty street, a few doors below St. Clair *No; the book says: and there is but two questionswill_you, kill your horse, or, let your wife die ?'-Nothing will save her but the soup of a sorrel horse If you don't believe me, I will read it to you. The doctor took up the book; turned to the chapter on fevers, and read as follows: 'Good for fevers—sheep sorrel, or horse sorrel.' Why doctor,' exclaimed the husband, wife and son, 'you're mistaken; that don' nean a sorrel sheep or a sorrel horse, but'- Well, know what I'm about,' intercupied the doctor, 'that's the way we doctors reads it, and we understands it.'-Now, said Mr. M., with an earnestness and gravity that were in striking contrast with the laughter of the House, unless the Hon. Speaker and the friends of the hill, will assure me that my sorrel dector will be one of the Professors, I must voio against the bill.' It is unnecessary to add, that after this blow, the bill neve kicked. It was effectually killed,

[The above joke is very good, but somewhat incom plete. We are told that "the bill never kicked,"but we are not told whether the horse ever kicked after the doctor had ordered his prescription. The bill-was "killed," but was the horse permitted to live? . The interest the story excites about the "old sorrel," induces the question.]
