

From the N. O. Picayune, May 24. FROM MEXICO.

The U. S. brig Somers, Commander Gerry, arrived at Vera Cruz Monday night last from Vera Cruz. A gentleman who has been under many obligations to the U. S. Government, has furnished us with an account of the capture of the Somers on the 10th inst. It will be seen that the intelligence, published exclusively in the Picayune of Wednesday last—that Capt. Elliott, the British Charge to Texas, who left Galveston some weeks ago as he said for Charleston, had in fact gone secretly to Mexico—is confirmed. It will be seen also that our statement that the Texas Government had sent secret agents, along with Capt. Elliott, to bathe the Texas people for a valuable recognition of independence by Mexico, is also confirmed; and that the account we published of Senator Casado's mission to the United States was likewise correct.

The bill authorizing the Minister of Foreign Affairs the power to negotiate a Treaty with Texas for her independence, with the proviso that she shall not be annexed to the United States, passed the Mexican House of Representatives on the 21st inst. by a vote of 41 for, 13 against it, after a stormy debate of three days. It was immediately referred to the Senate, where it was believed it would be concurred in unanimously. A report to that effect reached Vera Cruz some days before I sailed, but the latest mail, of the 16th, brought no confirmation of it.

Capt. Elliott, English Charge to Texas, had been in the city of Mexico several weeks, according to a Mr. Smith, Secretary of the British Legation. He had returned to Vera Cruz, and was waiting the action of the Senate upon this bill when he sailed. The result was known, he would return to Galveston in the same vessel.

Upon the 21st of this month Senator Casado, formerly of the Mexican Congress, took passage from Vera Cruz in the American brigantine Edgemoor, for New York, upon a diplomatic mission from the Government of Mexico to that of the United States; but this dispatch was not known until it was announced in the morning newspapers of the 10th inst.

Here we have a disclosure of events of the highest importance that have taken place in the relations between Texas and Mexico, and the auspicious and propitious of the British Government; and that English vessels were employed in conducting the consular agents to and from Mexico; and that the basis of this negotiation is a mutual recognition of the independence of Texas, and the only recognition of the sovereignty of the United States will not be attempted until the day of the means employed by England, and the nature of them, may be inferred from the success in bringing the Mexican Congress to pass a bill, virtually recognizing the independence of Texas, upon the simple condition that she refuse to be annexed to the United States. The boldness of the Mexican character is made to bend to the will of the British empire, and the only recompense for her hostility to check her progress, is the connection of Texas with the United States—leaving her to be united with any other power under the sun, but that of Mexico's name in this regard, makes the air have a grand powder.

We proceed to make further levee upon the subject of the files of papers with which we have been furnished from the same source, in relation to the general news of Mexico.

We are informed that Mexico is in a most distressed and unsettled condition, amounting almost to a state of revolution. The States of Tabasco and Puebla had already declared in favor of the Federal Constitution, and a general meeting had been held in Vera Cruz, a few days before the departure of the Somers, for that purpose; but immediate active measures were suspended at the request of the Governor, who appears to be popular with all parties.

Several arrests of military men charged with revolutionary designs, had been made in different parts of the Republic, and in one instance a quantity of arms had been taken from them.

When the English merchants at Vera Cruz heard of Senator Casado's departure, they chartered a schooner for New Orleans, which sailed on the 10th inst. The following evening we came up with a vessel, about 8 o'clock, a vessel very much like her, standing upon the same course with us.

In regard to the American squadron at Vera Cruz, we have the following account:

The arrival of our squadron at Vera Cruz created a great excitement, and also in the city of Mexico, where it was represented to consist of twenty-one sail of men of war. The unexpected presence of this squadron had, doubtless, a salutary influence, and possibly might have caused the cessation, or at least a temporary suspension, of the hostilities, if not a more decided opinion, to the United States.

Of Mr. Shannon, late American Minister, had engaged his passage in an American vessel, and would sail about the 10th inst. for New York. It does not appear that he possessed any knowledge of the political affairs of the capital of Mexico, and he is not considered in any other light than an obscure American citizen, whose name is never alluded to even at all connected with the important transactions of the day.

The yellow fever begins to show itself in Vera Cruz, which we believe is always the case at this season of the year.

The Daily Morning Post. THOM. PHILLIPS & W. M. SMITH, EDITORS. PITTSBURGH, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1846.

FIRE.—The destruction of property by fire, this year, in all sections of the country, is as remarkable as it is fearful. From almost every city or town of any size, we have news of disasters by fire to a greater or less extent. The startling and terrible calamity which befell our city on the 10th of April, claims an amount of fire in any part of the country, with increased terror, and the destruction in Pittsburgh came up vividly and painfully before the eyes of those who are alarmed with the cry of "fire."

The people of the village of Brainerd, and about the mouth of Beaver, are just now in a state of fearful excitement, owing to the occurrence of four fires within three or four days. The first of these fires broke out in a stable in New Brainerd on Wednesday or Thursday last. The stable and a small house near it were burned.

On Sunday, another was discovered in a stable in Brainerd, immediately back of R. M. Dawson's dwelling. It was a part of the village quite closely built of frame houses, and it was only by the strenuous and determined exertions of the firemen and the people generally, that the progress of the flames was checked. Lines were formed to the creek to procure water, and all ages and sexes labored with vigor and energy and effect. The engines from Fallston and New Brighton were on the ground in an incredibly short space of time, and notwithstanding the want of boys they were kept supplied with water. Four or five out-houses and stables were burnt down, and two or three others were partially burnt or torn down to prevent the spread of the devastation. After several hours of severe labor, the fire was subdued. Great credit and many thanks are due to the people who labored on this occasion.

On Monday forenoon, Judge Hays's stable in Beaver was destroyed. The stable and the carriage belonging to Mrs. C. C. Coker, and a horse and carriage belonging to Mr. Day. She was insured, we are told, in the Mutual Insurance Office in this city.

The engines had scarcely returned home, when the kitchen belonging to Judge Hays's house was found to be on fire, having caught, it is supposed, from sparks from the stables previously burnt. This fire was soon extinguished, with little trouble, and the accident alarmed firemen and citizens, once more returned to their homes.

The fact that all these fires broke out in a stable, induced the belief that they were the work of incendiaries, and meetings of the citizens were held and persons appointed, who will be kept up for some weeks. During the fire, most of the people, in the vicinity where they occurred, carried out their goods, and in the hurry and alarm, several thieves were detected at their revolting work, and were arrested. The patrol have been on the watch ever since, and they have been seen as they thought, several suspicious characters prowling about. The person taken up was found on Monday night, near a stable. He said he wished to sleep there, and that he was going to Ward next morning. He thanked the patrol for finding him, and they dismissed him in the morning.

We have, with much surprise, heard some persons suggest a principle in relation to the sufferers by fire on the 10th of April, which is most insulting and unjust to a majority of those who lost all of their little they were worth, by that calamity. In reply to the arguments in favor of paying the poor the full amount of their losses, it is said that if this plan should be adopted, the whole city would be burnt; by persons of this class, with the hope that they would receive pecuniary aid for their misanthropic fortunes.

The persons who will make such assertions must necessarily believe that every poor man is a villain, who for the consideration of a few dollars, would not hesitate to bring ruin and desolation on the city, and place in jeopardy the lives of hundreds of our citizens.

This is a horrible sentiment to entertain of the poor of our city, and one which is as disgraceful and unjust one as has ever been imagined. There is a city, there is a Union where the working portion of the community is more honest and exemplary than in Pittsburgh, and we know but very few poor men who suffered by the late fire, in whose integrity we would not place the most implicit confidence. They are poor, but they are not dishonest, and their upright and noble industry, they are exemplars of probity, which, if followed by many of those who assume to judge them thus harshly, would tend to their own improvement.

We cannot imagine in what motive this cruel imputation against the poor could have originated, if it is not for the purpose of inducing the Council to withhold from them the moneys contributed for their relief, so that there may be a larger fund left to bestow on the wealthy individuals whose "feelings of honest pride" will not permit them to take any portion of it as a donation.

We pronounce this imputation a base slander upon the honest virtuous poor men who lost their all in the terrible calamity that has fallen upon us, and upon the application of such infamous principles to any portion of our citizens. If any unworthy means are resorted to for the purpose of getting more than a honest portion of the relief fund, we do not think it will be done, by the poor; nor do we think, from present indications, that the claims of any of them, will be allowed before they undergo the most rigid scrutiny.

Gov. Jones's WITHDRAWAL.—We see from the Tennessee Whig paper that Col. M. P. Gerry, feeling himself injured by the course of Gov. Jones, in becoming a candidate for Congress in the Northern District, has induced Gov. Jones to withdraw from the canvass. It was wise of the Governor to do so, for if they had both remained in the field until the August election, the democrats would have been in a manner that would be anything but agreeable to the Gerry and Joneses.

The Aqueduct.—On Monday evening Mr. Roebing's noble structure was fully tested in the presence of hundreds of our citizens, and by the satisfaction to see a few boats pass across it.

Before the company adjourned, a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a more general celebration of the accomplishment of this great work. The committee will give due notice of the time fixed for the festival.

None who witnessed the passage of the boats on Monday evening can entertain the slightest doubt of the superiority of the new Aqueduct over every other plan for the erection of such a structure. The adoption of this plan is highly creditable to our City Council, and its successful completion in the short time allotted to him to the work, is an honorable evidence of the skill and energy of the engineering contractor.

It is an improvement of which our citizens may well feel proud. Besides being an ornament to the city, it will be a very profitable source of revenue; a fact, as well as a successful completion in the short time allotted to him to the work, is an honorable evidence of the skill and energy of the engineering contractor.

The completion of the Aqueduct will give new facilities to our entering Canal Lines, and enable them to do business with more dispatch than they could when it was necessary to ship all Goods from the Allegheny side.

The Hon. H. Denny, declines accepting a nomination from the Whig Convention which meets today. It was discovered that the balance of Dry Goods, Shoes and Hosiery, which was just as binding in temporal, as in spiritual things. It is, therefore, not adopted by the Committee, and the report and Resolutions of the Committee, will be better reconsidered in the future.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY IN THE MANUFACTURE OF IRON.—A Mr. Green of New Jersey has made an improvement in the process of puddling iron from the pig to the bar, which has been adopted by the Pittsburg manufacturers. Instead of using the pig iron, which costs about $35 the ton, he is enabled to use a large portion of the iron, which costs but $25 per ton, which he effects, in labor and material, a saving of more than 33 per cent, and he gives far better quality of iron than that which is obtained from the pig iron.

The native paper in Cincinnati is growing about the appointment of Patrick Collins to the Collectorship in that city. It thinks his name treasonous. If it does not in a better humor Collins must resign right off.

Some graceless scoundrels raised a row at an Abolition Meeting in Boston last week. The Times says that the ostensible cause was some remark made by one of the speakers, but the real cause was the abolitionists in reference to opposition to slavery, and should be ashamed of it. Hence the above scoundrels considered themselves the defenders of Protestantism, and commenced a disturbance which broke up the meeting, and a large audience of gentlemen and ladies who had been present, were obliged to vacate the house.

Father Miller, the world destroyer, is preaching at the Boston. Next December is the time now fixed for the final destruction.

THE BRITISH NAVY. Appropriations to the British Navy for the present year exceeds that of the last by £201,335, the grand total of the appropriations is £7,151,555. The following is the force of that navy at the present time:

THE ENTERPRISING INHABITANTS of the Upper Mississippi are beginning to do a heavy business. On the Missouri river and its tributaries, there are 25 mills on the St. Croix, 4 on the Chippewa, 6 on the Black River, &c. These mills turn out from 100,000 to 400,000 tons of flour annually, besides a proportionate quantity of lard, mingles, &c. The flour finds a market all along the river as far down as St. Louis, at about $18 per m. Last year, Galena alone took 3,000,000 feet at an average price of $14 per thousand, and about 4,000,000 shingles and lard, at from $3 to $3 25. Square timber and cedar posts form also a considerable item in the trade. Ten years since there was not a mill in that region; now new lumber is turned out to the value of $400,000 per annum.

Correspondence of the Post. BEAVER, June 2d, 1846.

We have had a number of fires in this vicinity within a few days. Yesterday forenoon a fire broke out in the mill of John Adams, Bridgewater, which consumed in a few minutes, belonging to Dr. Brown and A. P. Anker, and also the kitchen of Dr. Brown. Loss not very great. In the afternoon another fire broke out in the Widow Cochran's stable, in Beaver. It was speedily consumed, together with a valuable horse and splendid carriage in the stable. This morning (Monday) the stable of Hon. Thos. Henry was discovered to be on fire, and was wholly burnt up. It was with the greatest difficulty that the fire was prevented from burning Judge Henry's house. A few minutes after, the Judge's house was on fire, but was extinguished.

We have given you a very hasty and rough sketch of our fires. They are generally supposed to be the work of incendiaries.

FIRE FUND. Messrs. Editors.—The Report of the Committee appointed by the Council to devise a plan for the distribution of the "Fire Fund," I have read with close attention, and find that it is by no means perfect, or free from objection. I am aware of the difficulty of devising a plan, and the heavy responsibilities devolving upon the Committee, and therefore, feel constrained to pass judgment on their Report, with all the tenders which the peculiarity and delicacy of the position demand. I do not expect to do this in a "word to the wind" manner, but I will endeavor to point out to you, in a plain and unobscured manner, the merits of it, and to point out, in a plain and unobscured manner, the defects of it.

The arrangement of the Committee, respecting the "Fire Fund," is very judicious, and manifests an extraordinary regard to discrimination. While some of the tenders, as those in the "Burn District," will have their merits, already abundantly considered, by the scheme in question, others who have just as much, and have absolutely nothing left, will have no benefit from it. It is, in its constituent principles, a just operation, and, in its constituent principles, a just operation, and, in its constituent principles, a just operation.

When the time is good, the fruit will necessarily be good also. There is no exception to this rule, which is just as binding in temporal, as in spiritual things. It is, therefore, not adopted by the Committee, and the report and Resolutions of the Committee, will be better reconsidered in the future.
