CITY AFFAIRS.-In the Common Councils, on Mon pay evening, the petition of certain citizens, asking the use of water from the Fire Plugs to wet Wood street, should be denied this privilege; we know that the pipes are sparing of the water in time of fire, but it is supposed that this should afford the greater supply for other purposes. We are pleased to learn that The Councils will still permit the citizens of Wood as formerly upon the "just [people] and the unjust"

We have heard it suggested that the Councils desired to keep dust in the eyes of the people, and thus blind them to their official mismanagement.

> THE LABORER'S SONG BY WILLIAM JONES.

Let the rich man tell how his coffers swell. That is free from the wordling's pain.

Let him revel and feast! there's a time, at least When gaiety charms no more: When the heart grows cold, and the limbs wax old, But the die is cast, and the day is past For he rests on his scutcheon'd bier

But the sons of toil, who harrow the soil Are happier far than he; They delve and they strive, that others may live. With spirits unchained and free From the dawn of light, to the close of night, The laborer ploddeth on: But he lays his head on a thornless bed

When his daily work is done. ind, hard though his fare, not a shade is near To darken his humble home: And the crust is sweet few others would greet For a blessing doth with it come! And a cheeful smile can his brow beguile. For it flies from the pleasure-worn; and turns from the great, with the poor to mute, Befriending the lowly born!

And the laborer's life is freed from the strife He utters no word he would wish unheard. For honest he is, and true. And its bleakest winds defv: With hope for his guide, he can stem the tide, And trust to a cloudless sky!
