The Burnt District

We have travelled the Burnt District, faithfully, for nearly two entire days, and have, at the expense of ome lebor, collected information which cannot fail the state interesting to the friends of Pittsburgh. no matter, where located. The progress made in rebuilding, it will be seen, is truly astonishing. The buildings erected, and in progress, are generally, of the most substantial and useful kind-they are no temporary concerns, but in every respect superior to those destroyed in April. We notice many important improvements; of some of them descriptions will be given bereafter. The energy—the enterprise, and the industry, our people, is certainly unequalled. The business energy, now manifested, must hereafter, be of incalculable advantage to the city. It will give throughout this broad land, a character to our people, which can never be taken from them. Their enterprise and means will ever after this, he regarded as equal to any emergency, and confidence in their entire shifty to perform all they may undertake, will be ation, since the middle of June. Extensive establish-
