THE MEMORY OF THE PAST.

BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

Food words were breathed, by you forent.

That still are dear to me me, Mary,

One baliny summer night, Mary,

Just us the rising moon Had cast aside her fleecy veil,

And in a green sequester'd spot,

Beneath a drooping tree,

That still are dear to me. Ob, we were happy then, Mary-Time lingered on his way. To crowd a lite time in a night,

Whole ages in a day! If star and sun would set and rise

This world would be a paradise

And not a vale of tears, Mary,

The glorious days of old ! When love was hourded in the heart,

The by gone moments cross my brain,

These visions form and fade, Mary,

To bring the light and leave the shade

The poet's brow muy wear at last

The bays that round it fall; But love has rose-buds of the past

Far dearer than them all.

Far dearer than them all. Mary,

all their summer glow, Mary,

As misers loard thrit gold ;

And often like a bridal train,

In all their summer glow.

As age comes stealing on

Of days forever gone !

To music soft and low,

Thus to our after years,

And not a vale of sears.

I live but in the past, Mary.
