United States Judgeship.

We have observed of late, that the columns of several of the eastern journals in this State, [have been occupied with labored attempts to puff into notice the merits of a Philadelphia candidate for this office. We do not believe that the interests of any applicant can be advanced by such a proceeding.—The style of these productions sufficiently indicate both their origin and object. Every line transparently exhibits that prevalent conceit which so infests the minds of the citizens of our eastern Metropolis, that all the learning and talent of our State, is confined to the eastern side of the Schuylkill, and that as you proceed further west, every mile but plunges you deeper into the darkness of barbarism. But notwithstanding this self complacent assumption of superiority by Philadelphians, it seems to be considered a matter of deep policy to inflict on the public mind abroad, the notion that their metropolitan luminaries, enjoy a prodigious popularity and exercise a wonderful influence in the country. Hence, it becomes necessary that these laudatory biographies, though secretly emanating from the city, should claim a country paternity, and the Democratic papers at Harrisburgh and Reading, are made to express a most anxious solicitude for the success of their favorite.

The county democrats by their political firmness and integrity, have saved the State and the Union from misrule of whiggery, Nativism, and abolitionism; but it seems, in the estimation of Philadelphians, they are unfit to fill even a subordinate office in the Custom House. It is no doubt a very comfortable arrangement for them, that the county should furnish the votes, and the lean minority in the city should enjoy the offices.

We would not, however, be understood as wishing to undervalue or disparage the personal, professional or genealogical merits of the gentleman, whose claims to the appointment of Supreme Judge, are so urgently and indiscreetly, pressed upon the executive. We have a candidate in the West, who will not suffer by comparison, with any Philadelphian, but his friends have not considered that his merits or claims could be enhanced, by puffs made at home, and sent abroad for publication.

The course of the President will not be forestalled, by such attempts to manufacture a factitious and fictitious public opinion.

THE REDEMPT OF POST NOTES.—During the latter part of 1839, says the Philadelphia Keystone of the 17th, a store in Market street near Fifth, was broken into and robbed of several thousand dollars in post notes on the Planters' Bank of Tennessee, and the Union Bank of Tennessee, of the denomination of $500. The individuals who perpetrated this bold and extensive robbery have been sought for in various parts of the country by the police of this and other cities without success until within the last three weeks, when information was received by Recorder Vaux, of the place where the notes were deposited, and the whereabouts of the persons suspected of having stolen them. The Recorder with his usual efficiency and promptness took instant measures to recover the property and bring the rogues to justice.—Accordingly, he sent officer McGowan to New York, and that officer having obtained the assistance of Mr Camp, a person was arrested and brought to this city and is now in prison awaiting a hearing before that magistrate. We are not at liberty at present to give further particulars of the criminal transaction and arrest, but in a few days, when the facts of the case shall have been brought out, we will give a detailed statement. Although six years have elapsed since the robbery was committed, yet there is now every prospect that the guilty parties will receive the punishment which they deserve.

Speaking of the proposition made by some whig and neutral papers to abandon our claim to the whole of Oregon, the St. Louis Repo ter says—We regret to see any American take such a position, or recommend an abandonment of our rights, through fear of a hostile conflict with a foreign power. According to our views, the best and safest mode of avoiding national dangers and losses, is to defend our rights fearlessly. If Oregon is ours, it must be defended, no matter what the cost. To yield to England what does not belong to her, in order to avoid war, would be a cowardly submission to fear, equally destructive to our future safety and present honor. Such a rule of action would invite aggression.

FUNERAL RITES IN HONOR OF GENERAL JACKSON. The New Orleans Courier states that in consequence of the vast number invited to the imposing Masonic ceremony; and want of room in the W. L. Lodge where it is to take place, the Grand Lodge of Louisiana, requested and obtained the use of the Rev. Dr. Clapp's Presbyterian church, where the funeral rites will be publicly celebrated the fourth Monday of the current month of November. The letters of invitation will designate the hour. We perceive that many lodges of the Union have already replied to the invitations, and appointed deputations to represent them at the Grand Lodge of New Orleans. Mr. Curto is charged with the composition of an appropriate musical air for the interesting occasion.

OREGON—The correct position.—We are rejoiced (says the Harrisburg Democratic Union) to find that the Washington Union has spoken out directly on this question—all or, none. There is not a dissenient voice in the democratic party of Pennsylvania, who look to their distinguished statesman, JAMES BUCHANAN, to sustain the President in this most righteous cause. Mr. BUCHANAN is a host in himself.

APPOINTMENTS BY THE GOVERNOR.—The following gentlemen have been appointed Aids to His Excellency, Francis R. Shunk, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Militia:

John Weidman, Lebanon county.
John Dickson, Washington county.
O. H. Brown, Cambria county.
H. N. Lee, Armstrong county.
Michael Soor, Jr., Clinton county.
George R. Barrett, Clearfield county.
Adam Diller, Philadelphia county.
Jacob Haldeman, York county.

William Bloomfield, an old batchelor, got married in Iowa to a pretty young girl named Eliza Church.—Since his marriage he has known more happiness, he says, than he ever did before—all of which he attributes to having joined a church!

"SIGNS OF A SEVERE WINTER."—The Cumberland Alleghenian, under the above head, says:—We understand that a buck and a bear were killed a few days since within a half mile of this place.

ANOTHER BREACH HEALED—Wm. McCune was sentenced in Springfield, Mass, to pay Miss Lydia Smith $800 for promising to marry her, and then setting off to Ohio without fulfilling said promise. It seems that there is no escape for false swains.

A REAL WORRIER.—President Polk rises at daylight, and takes an early walk, and an early breakfast—works till 12—gives an audience till 2—dines early—and works afterwards till late at night—often till near morning.

THAT OLD CHARGE.—Col. Webb gives notice in the Courier & Enquirer, of his intention to prosecute the Tribune for reviving the old charge that he was bribed by the United States Bank; thus affording an opportunity for a judicial investigation.

IT IS SAID that there are shawls in the Philadelphia and New York markets that sell at $1500 each.

SNYDER'S majority in the 2d Congressional District in New Jersey, is 1049.

ON A STRIKE.—The weavers of Moyamensing, Philadelphia, have struck for higher wages.

In compliance with the above request of my fellow-citizens, I hereby appoint a meeting of the people of Allegheny County, to take into consideration the subject of building and endowing an Insane Asylum, to be held at the Court House, on next Saturday, November 22, 1845 at 2 o'clock, A. M.

WILLIAM J. HOWARD,

BRIDAL SCENE.

A correspondent of the N. Y. Commercial, thus describes a singular scene, which he witnessed in Staffordshire, England, during the Easter Holidays:

"I had to pass by the village church; there were sidlers lounging in the churchyard, while the bells commenced such a boisterous yell of insane mirth as almost drove some emulous thoustles that were shooting among the churchyard elms, distracted; and made the most covered tower shake his old ash-rain dangerous, pulley. The parson, a young man just appointed to the living, and the clerk, an old gray headed man, entered the churchyard at this moment, and informed me that Easter Monday was a day dedicated by his parishioners, and the country people generally, to matrimonial amusements, and that a wedding, contaminated on that day, was considered to commence auspiciously; that he was about to shackle 8 couples with the bands of holy wedlock, and that if I had nothing better to do, I would be amused by the ceremony.

On they came, the procession headed by the sixteen fortunate victims. The eight bridegrooms, habited in blue coats with flashing buttons, of a glaring newness, with a small rose bud in the button-hole, white trowsers and violet colored waistcoats, with their gay blue handkerchief round their raw throats, and aspiring shirt colors, that appeared to be bent on gouging experiments. The brides expectant were adorned with white frocks and light blue sashes; a small bouquet was pinned in the bosom of each; neat shoes—with black ribbons tied saucily—set off their feet to advantage as light shod was thrown gracefully across each fair one's shoulders, and straw bonnets in which exultant bows of blue ribbon were tri-umphing over prostrate flower reaths, completed their attire. They were accompanied by their parents and neighbors, and all were joking, as happy as need be.

It was easy to see that they were not accustomed to walking 'arm in arm,' as they called it, and they would make but sorry promenaders in Broadway; no man conversed with the lady upon his arm, but each kept exchanging short and loud sentences, over his shoulder, with the couple behind him and every man was joking with his neighbor's sweetheart. I don't mean to say that every man was quite sober, but I do mean to say that marriage is a fenefal thing to a man of weak nerves, who is not accustomed to it. I followed them into the church, and was really surprised that they passed through such a formidable ceremony as well as they did. The first man made a hundred blunders, as he repeated cabalistic sentences after the parson, and the young woman lisped out her responses in a well feigned lack-a-daisical tone. Then, when she promised to love and obey, in a scarcely audible tone, the men pinched their sweethearts' arms, and their sweethearts looked very slyly at them. The bridegroom promised 'to love,' &c., in a loud loud voice, and the young girl whispered an assurance to the same effect; and scarcely was the last word, 'amazement,' pronounced, when there was a terrific struggle with three or four young fellows for the bodily possession of the new made bride.

I was astounded, and made sure she would be immolated upon the alter, but it was only a contest for the "first kiss," which was secured at last by the strongest of the combatants, who made the church echo with the report of his success, and surrendered his victim to her husband with her head dress disarranged, and herself out of breath. The parson only laughed a quiet disapproval, and the others did not venture on anything louder than a titter. The remaining couple were splicced in the same manner, and similar scenes ensued. Not the least remarkable feature of the affair was the instantaneous change from the maid to the matron, wrought by this wonderful ceremony; the girl who had been married five minutes, assumed the airs of a wife of a month's standing, changed her manners toward her husband, affecting to regard him as an old married fellow, and received the congratulations of the old people with the patronizing airs of a real wife."

Novel Mode of Applying Leeches.—During the mania for leeches which prevailed some years ago in France, a country doctor in Brittany had ordered some to be applied to a patient suffering with the sore throat. On entering to see the effect of his remedy, the first person he met on entering the house was the peasant's wife.

'Well my good woman,' said the doctor, 'how is your husband to-day? better no doubt?'

'Oh, yes, surely!' answered the woman, 'he is as well as ever and gone to the field.'

'I thought so,' continued Monsieur le Docture, 'the leeches have curred him! Wonderful effect they have! You have got the leeches of course?'

'Oh yes Monsieur le Docture, they did him a great deal of good, though he could not take them all.'

'Take them all!' cried our old friend, "why how did you apply them?"

"Oh, I managed it nicely," said the wife, looking quite contented with herself; "for variety's sake, I boiled one half and u fry of the other. The first he got down very well, but they made him sick. But what he took was quite enough," continued she, seeing some horror in the doctor's countenance, "for he was better the next morning, and to-day he is quite well."

'Umph!' said the doctor with a sapient shake of the head, 'if they have cured him it is sufficient; but they would have been better applied externally.'

Asthma, Coughs, Consumption, etc.— We again call the reader's attention to that celebrated and most excellent medicine, Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. Its reputation is spreading wider and wider every day, and all now admit it to be the most certain cotrative for all pulmonary complaints ever discovered.—How gratifying the thought that a remedy is at last discovered, which has proven itself a perfect master of that dire disease—CONSUMPTION! Let the despairing cheer up and lay hold of this lifegiving nectar.

A MEDITATION.

Some hidden disappointment clings
To all of man—to all his schemes,
And life has little fair it brings,
Save idle dreams.

The peace that may be ours to-day,
Scarce heed we, looking for the morrow
The slighted moments steal away,
And then comes sorrow.

The light of promise that may glow
Where life shines fair in bud or bloom,
Ere fruit hath ripen'd forth to show,
Is quench'd in gloom.

The rapture softest blush imparts,
Dies with the bloom that fades away,
And glory from the wave departs,
At close of day.

Where we have garnered up our hearts,
And fixed our earnest love and trust,
The very life-blood thence departs,
And all is dust.

Then, Nature let us turn to thee,
For in thy countless changes thou
Still bearest immortality
Upon thy brow.

Thy seasons in their endless round
Of sunshine, tempest, calm or blight,
Yet leave thee like an empress crown'd,
With jewels bright.

Thy very storms are light to thee:
'Tis but a sleep thy seeming death;
We see the wake in flower and tree
At spring's soft breath.

We view the ruin of our youth,
Decay's wan trace on all we cherish;
But though in thy unfailing truth,
Canst never perish.

Accommodating.—Well Mr Green,' said the judge 'you know it is my duty to order you to be hanged.' 'Yes,' languidly replied the culprit, yes, judge, I spose so.'

'Well, Mr Green, when would it be most convenient for you to be hanged?'

'Well, you see, I don't care a straw myself; anytime the court pleases.'

The Court then directed the clerk to look in the almanac, and see if next Friday there would not come on Sunday; and having ascertained that it did not, informed the offender that he would be taken out and hanged on that day at one o'clock.

'Stop, old fellow,' said this subject of the law, 'stop! I reckon the ager comes on about eleven that morning, and if it's all the same to you I'd like to be hanged afore it comes on. Spose you have me strung up at ten in the morning. It would be a mighty great accommodation.'

Clickener's Sugar-coated Vegetable Purgative Pills—Experience having long since decided, that every disease originates from impurities of the blood, or derangement of the digestive organs, it is evident that the remedy employed must be of such a nature as is best calculated to remove those obstructions, or restore the blood to its natural state. The Clickener Sugar-coated Purgative Pills, being compounded purely on scientific principles, and based on an intimate acquaintance with the origin of disease, and the actual structure of the human system are the only remedy which can be positively relied on. Being composed of a variety of ingredients entirely different from, and independent of each other in their mode of operation; they never fail to reach the seat of disease, in whatever shape it may appear. Thus, if the liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ and by cleansing it of that excess of bile, it is constantly discharging into the stomach, restore it to its natural state. Another will operate on the blood, and remove those impurities which have already entered into its circulation; while a third will effectually expel from the system whatever impurities may have been discharged into the stomach, through the instrumentality of the other ingredients.

Sold by Wm Jackson, corner of Wood and Liberty streets, who is general Agent for Dr Clickener's Pills, in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

☞ Beware of an imitation article called "Improved Sugar-Coated Pills," purporting to be Patented as both the pills and pretended patent are forgeries, got up by a miserable quack, in New York, who, for the last four or five years, has made his living by counterfeiting popular medicines. nov. 21.

River Intelligence.

At Cincinnati Nov 17th, there was not far from 6 feet water in the channel.

At St. Louis, Nov 13, the River continues very low, and not much prospect of a rise soon. The last boats from the Missouri report two and a half feet water in the channel.

The river here is falling slowly; last evening at dark there was 4 feet 5 inches in the channel, but we look for a rise soon. The weather has been remarkably fine for two days past. But we are inclined to think a North-Western will be along soon.

REVIEW OF THE MARKET FOR THE WEEK ENDING, Thursday Evening, Nov 13th, 1845.

REMARKS.—The last foreign news is very favorable for the export trade of Grain and other bread stuffs, from this country. The weather had been unfavorable for the completion of the grain harvest in the northern districts, and although there was no change in the duty, owing to bad quality of a great portion of the Grain in the Markets, prices were steady, tending upwards. At the latest dates, American Flour was quoted at 39s. in bond, being an advance of 2s, since the last arrival. And Canada, free Flour at 34@36s.

In France also, prices were advancing; 1000 bbls of Flour received by the Francois, 1st were sold, at 34 francs ℔ bbl; 250, the remainder of the lot on board, having been sold previous to arrival at 32 francs.

Other influences seem now bearing upon the future Grain Market, the growing scarcity of money abroad, the incersed rate of interest by the bank of England, the depression of cotton, and the general state of affairs, on the continent, all which point to continued activity in Breadstuffs.

Business to a fair extent has been transacted in this market since our last. Favorable advices from eastern Markets have produced a greater degree of firmness in the Flour transactions at this point and caused a trifling advance in prices. Reports from all quarters represent the Wheat crop of this year as greater by 20,000,000 bushels, than that of 1842, which was the largest ever raised—amounting to 103,000,000 bushels. This great increase with the advantage of the foreign demand, will be of great service to the Western states. The Wheat crop of Michigan is comparatively larger than that of any other State in the Union. With a population of not over 400,000 she raised this year about 7,000,000 bushels of Wheat. It is estimated that Illinois has a surplus this year of 6,000,000 bushels. Had not the Wheat crop of Ohio, been measurebly cut off, and she been able to have sent her usual supplies to market, the amount at tide water would have been still further increased. The ports of Michigan will be full of Wheat, which it will be impossible to ship to market this Fall. Chicago especially, the great depot of northern Illinois will have her hundred of thousands of bushels in store ready to be sent forward on the opening of the spring navigation.

Flour—There has been some considerable excitement in this article, since our last. The market is completely drained, shippers are crowding all they can East. On Tuesday and Wednesday some 2000 bbls were shipped at high freights from $1,15 to 1,20 per bbl. Wednesday, Flour was selling at $4,12½@4,25. Thursday, it was firm at $4,37½, owing to the recent rise in the eastern cities. In New York, Nov 17th Flour, was selling at $6@6,50, at Philadelphia Nov 8 at $6,12½@6,25, at Boston, Nov 15, $6,62½@6,75, at Albany, $6,38@6,12. $4,37½ may be considered a fair quotation for good round lots here.
