THE RAIL ROAD.—The surrounding counties are nearly all actively preparing to have a full representation in the Railroad Convention, which is to assemble at Harrisburgh early in January. This is as it should be. We hope every county in the state will be fully represented, and that the delegates will come prepared to express the views and wishes of their constituents, and that the convention will give to all due and just consideration. Enlarged and liberal views, and none other should be sanctioned by the Convention, or urged upon the attention of the Legislature. Give the people authority, (restricted as may be deemed proper,) to make as many Railroad—to open up as many avenues to market as they can find the means to construct. Away with the contracted policy which would cut off any portion of the state from the benefits of improvements which they may be willing to make at their own expense. Our Northern friends are deeply interested in the Sunbury and Erie, and the New York and Erie Railroads; and we sincerely hope the Legislature will, without hesitation, give them the benefit of the legislation which they may require. The friends of a continuous Railroad are numerous and the project one of much importance, and we may say, without hesitation, that the Legislature should pass a law authorising a company to construct the work.

The whole west, in fact the entire state is deeply interested in the construction of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to this city, and the Legislature should early in the approaching session, pass a law granting the company the privilege of constructing the road through the state to Pittsburgh. For some time it was contended that this road would render not own public works unprofitable, but that ground of opposition has been abandoned, and the men who last winter most strenuously urged it as an objection, are now in favor of a continuous Railroad from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. The sincere friends of this continuous Railroad, we think cannot fail to perceive, that if the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company are compelled to adopt either of the Virginia routes, and to form a connection with the Ohio river, at Wheeling or Parkersburgh, it will not only be death to their favorite project, but ruinous to the state improvements.—The sincere friends of this route, we trust, will not permit themselves to be deceived by the arguments of the selfish—by men who are opposed to every improvement which does not lead directly into Chestnut street, Philadelphia. It should be borne in mind, too that the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad will be of advantage to a tier of counties, not benefit by the improvements, which have involved the state in an immence debt, and to pay the interest of which the people of these counties are heavily taxed. We hope to see wise and liberal measures adopted by the Legislature. If the Philadelphians have really forgotten that there is a busy and enterprising population west of the mountains entitled to the fostering care of the state authorities, they must be told plainly and frankly that there is such a people, and that they can only continue to profit by the trade of the west, by ceasing their opposition to western interests.

THE RELIEF FUND.

Petitions are in circulation, asking the councils to publish the names of those who received a share of the Relief Fund. For one, we think it proper enough that the donors should know who received relief but we hope the Oddfellows who sign the petition will also insist on the publication of the names of those worthies who received the whole of the oddfellows fund, and a share of the general relief fund, besides. This seems but fair. What says "the old bel license Gazette?"

The above is from the "Spirit of Liberty" of Saturday, last, and is one of a series of attacks upon the Oddfellows, against whom the editor feels or feigns much enmity. He seems to be painfully concerned about the manner in which the funds obtained from distant lodges of that Order, and distributed to the Oddfellows of this city who suffered by the fire, have been disposed of. With all becoming deference to the editor, we submit the proposition that this is no business of his. The persons who contributed to the Oddfellows fund, have, beyond question, a right to bestow their means in the way most agreeable to themselves, without regard to the wishes of the "Liberty" man, or any other man or set of men, who choose to oppose secret societies. They are not accountable to him for the distribution of monies, of which he and those who think with him contributed no portion.

But the Spirit of Liberty thinks that the Oddfellows who were relieved by the special means so generously provided by their brethren, should not have had "a share of the general relief fund, besides." And wherefore not? Their claims upon the Oddfellows grew (partially, at least,) out of their contribution to the funds of the Order, an expenditure which their fellow-citizens who are not members of the order have never incurred—while their claims upon the general fund, are equally as good as those of other citizens.—If it will do the editor any good, we hope his request may be complied with and that the Oddfellows who received the Fire Fund, may be designated, when the list of recipients shall be published. Without doubt, they had as good a right to what they obtained, as any other class of the community.

RAILROAD TO THE MISSISSIPPI RIVER.—The Chicago (Ill) Daily Journal of the 4th inst., contains the proceedings of a numerous meeting of the citizens of Winnebago county, at Rockford, where the importance of immediate action on the project of the "Mississippi and Michigan Railroad," was resolved upon, and active measures taken to secure a Railroad from Galena to Chicago. A convention from the counties interested in that project was recommended to assemble at Rockford on the third day of January next, "for the purpose of taking measures for constructing said road at the earliest possible period."

DISTANCE TO OREGON.—The actual distance to be sailed from New York to the mouth of the Columbia River, by the way of Cape Horn, is estimated at 15,000 miles. A ship canal to Panama to be cut through the Isthmus of Darien, which is only 37 miles, would [illegible] more than one-half the [illegible] the same voyage out and back to less than [illegible] would make the passage out. The [illegible] York to the mouth of the Columbia [illegible]

THE RELIEF FUND, &c.—The City Councils held a meeting on Friday evening. The Distribution Committee made a report which was accepted in both Councils. The report was accompanied by a list of the names of the recipients of the Fund. It was referred to a special Committee, consisting of Mr. McCracken and Algeo of the Select, and Messrs. Whitney, Von Bonhorst, and Hamilton of the Common Councils, who were appointed to audit the accounts of the Treasurer and Committee of the Relief Fund.

A motion was made by Mr M'Elwaine to publish the list of names of recipients of the Relief Fund. A motion was made that it be laid upon the table. The yeas and nays were called for, and the vote was as follows:

YEAS—Messrs Douglass, Singer, Tindle, and Von Bonhorst—4 NAYS—Messrs Albree, Burchill, Earl, Martin, McIlwaine, Pennock, Porter, Reed, Roseburgh, Andrew Scott, John Scott, Sterling, Whitney, Wray and President—14.

On motion the Auditory Committee were then instructed to report on Monday evening next, and the resolutions to publish were laid over until that time.

A Resolution to supply the Sixth Ward with water was passed $3 217 being appropriated for that purpose passed both Councils.

An ordinance regulating the grades of streets in the Sixth Ward was referred in Council to the members of Council from the Sixth Ward.

An ordinance fixing the grade of Harrison, Mechanic and Grant streets, was laid on the table in Common Council. In Select Council passed.

EXTRAORDINARY CASE OF BURYING ALIVE.—The New York papers have previously mentioned the case of John W. Ramsey, late a clerk with M. W. Warner of 186 Bowery, who was supposed to have died in a fit of epilepsy, but who showed signs of life after having been placed in a coffin, and removed from the city to the residence of his parents up the North Bend. The Tribune gives the following account of the case, together with some interesting facts communicated to Mr Warner by the parents of the young man:—He was taken ill about 6 o'clock in the evening of Saturday, and a dose of peppermint and brandy was given him, which, as similar attacks had proven beneficial. He soon fell into an apparent sleep, in which state he remained until 3 o'clock of the morning, when Mr. Warner retired to bed. At 7 o'clock the young man was found apparently dead, and so pronounced by Dr. McClelland, who was called to him.

On Monday, after an inquest had been held, Mr Warner left the city with the body, for Greenville, near Newburgh, in this State, the residence of his clerk's parents. On Sunday, the face of the supposed deceased was very much swollen; and his limbs and joints stiffened, but on taking the body from the coffin on Tuesday, the swelling had disappeared, and the face had assumed a more natural appearance, and the limbs and joints were as supple as in life. Mr. Warner then learned from the parents, that when only 9 years of age, John was supposed to have died from a similar epileptic attack, but strange to relate, while being laid in his coffin preparatory to burial, signs of life were discovered, and he was miraculously resuscitated. A few years after an aged relative of his, who was pronounced by the physicians to have died in a like fit, after being kept for ten days, was restored to consciousness and is now enjoying excellent health. The parents fondly entertain the hope that their child may again experience a similar resuscitation, at all events, they are determined not to have him at present.

AFFLICTING DISPENSATION.—Died, in the town of Schaghticoke, on the 2d inst., of cancers in the throat, Eleanor, aged 7 years, and on the 7th inst., of the same disease, Catharine, aged 23 years, and on the same day, of the same disease, Catherine, age 5 years, all daughters of Philip and Elenor Strunk. Also, on the 6th inst., of the same disease, Joseph Henry, aged 1 year, son of Philip H. and Eveline Strunk. The three latter were buried, on the 9th inst., all at one time, from one house. Thus their afflicted parents buried out of their sight three children and one grandchild, in the short period of five days.

A GOOD DEAD.—Upon learning of the melancholy murder by the anti-renters at Delhi, of the late under Sheriff Steele, Hon. John Hunter, of Westchester, N. Y., with a commendable liberality, directed his agent to select a farm of 100 acres, and to present the same to his afflicted widow. And also, (the then being enciente,) in the event of an heir being born, that another farm of 100 acres be selected in like manner, to be presented to the child. Mrs. Steele was on Monday delivered of a fine boy, who is now doing very well.

NEW YORK CITY EXPENDITURES.—The Comptroller of the city of New York has presented his budget to the Common Council. The aggregate of his estimate of city expenditures for '46 is only $2,362,732 46 in which is included a deficiency of $205,000, the present year. The police is to cost $425 000, the same $174 963 and the Common Schools $221 902.

SUFFERING IN QUEBEC.—The weather is severe in Quebec and the necessaries of life are very high. Potatoes there are 4s. minot; firewood $6 a cord; water 1s. 3d. the barrel; and bread 10d. and 1s. per loaf. In addition to these evils, as if every scourge was to visit Quebec at once, diseases are beginning to appear, especially in the suburbs.

EXTENSIVE ROBBERY.—While the house No 103 Chatham-st, New York, was on fire on Sunday afternoon, $2000 in American gold, $100 in silver, and $490 in Bank bills, the property of Mr. Ramos, were stolen.

ORANGES IN FLORIDA.—The N. O. Delta considers Middle Florida as favorable a one as can be for the cultivation of the orange as Cuba. Mrs. Jane Paramor, says a correspondent, writing from Florida, has a tree now ten years old, which produced this season 2000, or ten bushels of oranges, of very fine flavor and good size, worth 6¼ cents each, or $62.50.

VIEW FROM THE PYRAMIDS.

The recent work of the Rev. Dr. Durbin, published by the Harpers, entitled, "Observations in the East," abounds with fine graphic descriptions. The following outline of the view from the top of the Great Pyramid is sketched with singular beauty:

"But what a sight is that from the top of Cheops! The world has nothing like it. To the east is the Arabian desert, boundless and desolate, like a sea; while westward stretches that of Libya, without a green spot far away to the horizon's verge; in the south appears the valley of the Nile, like a thread of green earth lying on an ocean of sand, and the Pyramids of Abousir, Sakhara, and Darfur, towering up in succession to the skies; turning northward your eye rests upon the widespread Delta in the distance, and nearer, in the north east, upon the tune obelisk of Heliopolis.

Immediately before you rise the precipitous heights of Mount Mukattam, crowned with the citadel of Cairo, under which lies the ancient city, enveloped in a thin vapor, which just suffices to hide the deformities of the place, while a thousand domes and minarets, of graceful proportions, there gilded crescents glittering in the sunbeams, rise up to complete the vision of beauty. I turned from gazing on it to look upon the rocky plain immediately around the pyramid. There, deeply buried in the rock, now covered with sand and rubbish, lie the dead of four thousand years ago. It is, indeed, a vast necropolis. It seemed as though I were among the earliest born of men. From the plains before me had gone forth the elements of science, art and wisdom, to Greece, to Europe, to America. I felt as a child, born after unnumbered generations, returned to the home of his ancestors, and behold! it was all desolate.

FOR THE POST.

WATCHMEN'S WAGES.

MR EDITOR—Permit me to enquire of the Police Committee, through the medium of your paper, what has become of the Watchmen's wages bill? It has been in their possession for some months, and many believe that it is time they would make a report in reference to it. If they are unwilling to restore the wages taken from the watchmen and given to others, they should at least so report to the Councils.

THE OREGON COUNTRY.

LETTER VI.

To the Editor of the Union:

SIR: Pardon me for wandering from my own track to reply to Irenæus only in a few words, and to say in new words—Oregon is worth having and better worth having than most of its supporters in this country dare to assert or hope, as I trust, from simple unprejudiced truth, it will be made to appear.

As to commerce, I shall now only say, if millions have been made by the tedious and dangerous process of sailing around Cape Horn or Cape of Good Hope to the islands of the Pacific and China, what may be expected when all are brought within sixty days' sail over the smoothest and safest ocean of earth!

As to my opinion whether any person will be taken favorable to Oregon the present session. I have already arrived at that fact, because he excused from volunteering to give one.

As to whether any part of Oregon will be surrendered, I know nothing, and, of course, can say nothing; but would to Heaven, that all felt as every with the matter, where it lies, as I do.

At the close of my yesterday's number, I descended from the mountain into the valley, and now invite attention to the country, as it appeared in our march still further in a southerly direction.

The woodland, shadowy, and Lettage continued much of the same description, excepting that the land increased, the black oak occasionally appeared, and in the higher district the chinkapin presented itself to view; but the woody districts gradually lessen, while the verdant places widen and expand proportionately.

At twelve o'clock on a certain day after passing a beautiful living stream rising from a corresponding vale, we were greatly struck and surprised with the extent and splendor of a table ground, covered with flowers and dotted with an occasional fir and oak, spread out before us.

As we advanced still further up the attraction increased continually, till one day, about the 20th of July, near the upper end of this valley, passing on from a woody vale, after having crossed McKenzie's fork, we opened and entered upon a valley of still greater extent and beauty than we had anywhere beheld. One cried out as we were rapturously gazing round, "This is paradise in bloom." "Yes," says another "it is the land of Canaan," to which all agreed. And it will probably go by that name to the end of time, embracing the whole district, commencing 25 miles above the Oregon Institute, and extending to the upper end of the valley. In the midst of this valley is thrown up a mound of 1000 feet high upon which, through scattering oaks and fir, over an agreeable surface, we rode to the summit, tied our horses, and looked abroad upon the enchanting scenery spread before us, as far as the eye could reach.

Never in my life was I so much excited or so charmed with the scenery of nature. Sir, I have twice sailed around Cape Horn, through the Pacific, touching at the Sandwich islands, &c. to the mouth of the Columbia river; I have as often passed through the continent by land from near the shores of the Pacific to the verge of the Atlantic; in my course, I twice passed through the luxuriant and splendid valley of the Mississippi, and visited or touched at sixteen of these United States; but nowhere else, out of this valley, have I witnessed prospects and scenery, for attractions and beauty, comparable with this.

In this sentiment the whole party joined with me—each declaring he was bound for the land of Canaan.

ELIJAH WHITE.

Washington, Dec. 20, 1845.

ADVENTURE WITH A BEAR.

A few weeks ago as Messrs Brown and Ayer were coming down the Sebec Lake, Piscataquis co., in this state,—with a load of shingles, in a batteau, they discovered a bear swimming in the water, and gave chase to him. As they approached him the bear turned upon them and showed belligerent symptoms, displaying a set of formidable teeth, and performed his evolutions with an activity that convinced them they had no insignificant enemy to contend with. Being, however, armed with a small axe they were not disposed to retreat. The moment they reached him he raised his fore feet and placed them on the side of the boat.—Ayer struck at him with the axe, but it glanced down his cheek cutting off a slice of it. Before he could strike another blow, Brain was on board the boat, and seizing Ayer by the wrist with his teeth, he struck him a blow with his paw that tore the flesh from his side to the ribs, and they both fell overboard. The bear relinquished his hold, and Ayer sunk in the water. 'And now,' said Brown, 'I began to think it was time for me to be stirrin' myself.

The bear had canted the boat and let a couple barrels of water in, and like to tumble us all into the pudden together, and the shingles were piled so there want much gettin' about, but as I send the old feller swimin' round watin' for Ayer to come up so as to make another grab at him, I swung the boat round a little, and showed myself. At that the bear came griasin, towards me as lovin' as a meat axe. I had nothin' but a paddle to defend myself with, but I gin him a wipe with it over the nose, and he shook his head and snuffed a little, and kinder turned abroad side to me; so I hit him again, and he made off. I'd jest time to give him a friendly lick on the hinder by the way of a partin' salute, and the varmit was out of my reach, makin' his way across the pond.

Ayer had been coming up and goin' down two or three times, and was about sinkin' for the last time, when I made a grab at him and catched him by the hair, and hauled him in. He'd got to be good for nothin' by this time, for he couldn't help himself.—There he lay as drippin' an' wet was drowned rat and nobbody as a stuck pig. He had lost his hatchet in his grapple with the bear, and we had nothin' to fight with the bear. I tacked about and ran ashore—got Ayer up to Secaria' and left him to have his scratches dressed, and hired Cook to help me down with the shingles. But," added he, "if ever that bear crosses my track again on the Sebec Pond he'll find me ready to give him a blue pill from the barrel of old Faser."—Portland Argus.

To Mothers.—The difficulty which every mother experiences in administering medicine to infants, is entirely obviated by Dr Clickener's preparation, called the Sugar Coated Vegetable Purgative Pill. The pill is sugar coated with fine white sugar, so that it resembles candies, and children take them as readily as sugar plums, which no child ever yet refused to swallow. For worms this is an assured remedy, and it has been used with excellent effect in preference to all other worm medicines. Dr. Clickener that she has used for some time, his Sugar Coated Pill in both these complaints, and always with entire success.

Sold by Wm Jackson, corner of Wood and Liberty streets, who is general Agent for Dr Clickener's Pills in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Hypochondriacs and Hysterics.

A CLASS of persons subject to hypochondria or low spirits, whose bowels are often torpid and confined for days together; whose sufferings are often extreme will derive remarkable benefit and relief from the frequent use of the Liver pills; such persons should be encouraged to use them. They sit down very often in a despairing of being benefited by any medicine, when, in fact, they are in many cases easily relieved.

Females subject to hysterics and other nervous diseases whose digestion is bad and bowels torpid, will find benefit from the steady, constant use of these pills, when taken a week, in doses sufficient to operate briskly.

INSURANCE STOCK.—A number of shares for sale in a joint stock company, with a capital of $100 000, and power to increase it to $1 000 000, which is shortly to go into operation on the new and large business of a mutual company, whose charges are to be only charge from the mutual principle to that of a joint stock alone; charter perpetual.

This stock company will thus possess the advantage of an one already secured, and as it purposes confining its operations to the best description of risks the stock presents a favorable prospect for profitable investment.

For particulars apply soon to me, at my office, corner of Wood and Fourth streets, over Sibbet & Jones, entrance on Fourth street. JAS W BUCHANAN.
