BY LAST NIGHT'S MAIL.

From our Washington Correspondent.

January 2d, 1846

MR EDITOR—I did not write you last evening, as it was evident a letter written then, could not reach you in time for an earlier paper than the one for Monday. Besides, neither House of Congress held sessions, and moreover it was New Year's day, and who could find a heart to write at such a season in Washington?

I suppose you would like to know what was done on that occasion in this august city. I shall not, however, attempt to tell you all. The President, as usual kept open doors, and he and his excellent lady shook hands and bowed to all who were emulous of such gracious notice. I assure you there were not a few. Expecting their would be a general rush at the outset, I did not call to pay my respects until a full hour and a half after the fray had began, and when I did, the crowd was still so dense it was a full half hour longer before I could get my eyes on the heroine of the occasion. The scene was which in the extreme. There were the diplomatique representatives of foreign powers, arrayed in their court costumes—members of the American Cabinet and Congress in civilian attire—veteran and aspiring officers of the Army and Navy, with their nodding plumes and glittering lace—ladies gay and matronly grave and of every caste—citizens and strangers, of every grade and quality—commingled together in a most heterogeneous mass, jostling each other right and left, tramping on shawls, cloaks and corns, some rebuking that they had embarked, but unable to retreat, yet all diverted with the conglomeration in which they were forming a part.

After getting on breathing spot, I stopped to look at the waves that were rolling on behind me—when I made my escape, (just out of the window, as did hundreds of others) but by pressing good by although an opening accidentally made in the crowd—by the hustling of a torpedo, which some mischievous wag had dropped on the floor.

From thence I fell into another current, and soon found myself carried to the residence, and after considerable struggle to the presence, of the venerable Mrs Madison. It would have done you to have good to have seen the cordial, and kind manner in which she welcomed her numerous old and new friends and acquaintances. She was most cheerful and seemed to enjoy it.

By this time the members of the cabinet had found their own houses, and several parties for them—a chance of these chances of the season."

Several individuals not in public stations were also [illegible] among these I noticed [illegible] the editor of the Intelligencer, formerly editor of a democratic paper at Harrisburgh, and last, but not least, a host devoted to Penn sylvania, as a glance at her interests now evidence—Mary of our most distinguished citizens were present. The hospitality of the Cabinet was extensive, and in this justice was done to it by the guests, (for to say a word or two of dishes and cookery, you know is very unbecoming and unbecoming,) in which the old Kentucky well remembered and evidently well cared for.

The Senate did not sit to-day, but we have had an interesting scene in the House of Representatives growing out of the manner in which ex President Adams took ground on the Oregon question. It was like an electric shock, and will have much effect in arranging and organizing public opinion on that important subject.

After reading the Journal of the last day's proceedings, Mr Cunningham, of Ohio, offered a resolution relative to Oregon, stating in effect that it was time that all our negotiations had ceased—that notice given to the country between the 42 degs and 54 degs 40 was positive. The House was then, and is much in to amend the rules was lost.

Mr Douglass then offered the resolutions of similar import which, after some discussion, were made the special order for the second Tuesday of next month.

The subject, which had before occupied the House in relation to completion and the printing of 1,000 copies of 10th volume of Laws was again debated by Messrs Rathbun, Winthrop, Hudson and others, a decision on which was not reached when the committee of rules was called.

A resolution was adopted calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury to report the various award appropriated during the past year.

There came up for consideration a number of bills &c. &c. which would have filled Messrs Harrison, Douglass and Adams. Mr Douglass was excited, and true and determined—speaking of the services of the western people in a language which the country on the east could fail to understand. John Quincy Adams was indeed the cold man eloquent." He did not wish to vote on a reference of this bill for the present, nor on that of others which had been introduced of a warlike character, until the Committee on Foreign Affairs should think proper to introduce a bill instructing the President to give the required notice in relation to the occupation of Oregon—Oregon, the whole of Oregon—for such a bill he would vote, and then he was ready for preparatory steps. If Great Britain then choose to advance her pretensions he would the Almighty as a witness of his readiness to meet her, and hoped there would be but one big heart in the American continent. He spoke until the hour of adjournment.

Yours,
DUQUESNE.

A FIRST rate farm of Land, situate on the county road from Derry to Youngstown, within 3 miles of Youngstown, in Derry Township, Westmoreland county, Pennsylvania. Said farm consists of two hundred and eight acres, one hundred and fifty of which are cleared, and under good fence, principally post and rail. The land is limestone, and is well watered with abundant springs and Loyalhanna Creek, which runs near it. There is a house, barn and an orchard on the farm. The surrounding country is the richest and most beautiful region in Western Pennsylvania. Several flouring mills are in the immediate vicinity, within three quarters of a mile of the farm. The Catholic Church near Youngstown is in sight, and it is expected, that in the course of the coming spring, the new Female Seminary, at Mount St Vincents, will be in complete operation. This farm would be an excellent location for a store. Should purchasers desire, it will admit of being divided into farms of about seventy acres each. Apply to Haule's Eau Divine de Venus and NYMPH SOAP.

COMPOSED of an Eastern Botanical Discovery of surpassing efficacy for rendering the skin soft and fair, as well as imparting a delicate rosette hue to the complexion. As a creator and conservator of that most distinguished charm of female loveliness, a transparent fair skin, Jules Hauel's Soap, or Eau Divine de Venus, may be said to exert an almost magical power. Composed for the most part of Oriental Balsamic Plants, to the utter exclusion of all mineral admixture, it is distinguished medicinally for its extremely bland, purifying and soothing action on the skin, and by acting on the personal minute secretory vessels, expels all impurities from the surface, allays every tendency to inflammation, and, by this method alone, effectually dissipates all redness, tan, pimples, freckles, sunburn and other unsightly cutaneous visitations, so inimical to female loveliness. Its constant use will change the most bilious complexion into one of radiant whiteness; while on the neck, hands and arms it bestows a delicacy and fairness, which its continued use will happily protect, with every appearance of youthful charm, to the most advanced periods of life.

It is invaluable as a renovating and refreshing wash during traveling or exposure to the sun, dust or harsh wind, and after the injurious degree of heat felt in crowded assemblies.

To gentlemen afflicted with tenderness of the skin in shaving, the use of Nymph Soap will be found to allay all cuticular irritation occasioned by commonsoaps or cream, or the climate, which like that on the United States where the variation of the weather sets aside all chances of calculations, and where exhalations and damp, together with rough wind, exist throughout a great portion of the year, the Nymph Soap or Eau Divine de Venus has proved invaluable preservative of the skin, and from its extraordinary efficacy, deserves a place among the household treasures of every family.

The above valuable toilet article is prepared by Jules Hauel 46 South Third st. Philadelphia, and for sale by B. A. FAHNESTOCK & Co, wholesale & retail Agents for Pittsburgh and the West, corner of 6th and Wood streets. dec18
