FOR CANAL COMMISSIONER :

WILLIAM B. FOSTER, JR,
OF BRADFORD COUNTY.

Right of Way Bill!

We learn from Harrisburgh that the Right of Way Bill was under discussion in the House on Wednesday. Mr. Burrell and Mr Bigham made unanswerable speeches in favor of the bill. Mr Magehan at 5 o'clock P M, was on the floor, speaking with great earnestness in defence of the measure, and exposing the selfish policy of the Philadelphians, in terms the most plain and pointed. Mr Burrell in the course of his remarks —we learn—made a very happy and beautiful allusion to the Allegheny City Convention of the 8th of April, which was in session at the time he was speaking.

SNYDER.

Mr. GALLOWAY'S SPEECH.—We have read the speech of Mr. GALLOWAY of Fayette, in favor of the "Right of Way" Bill. The people of Fayette county have great reason to be proud of their talented and efficient Representative. Mr G. is quite a young man, and this is his first session in the Legislature. Fayette has a noble delegation, her Hill is faithful, true, warm hearted and zealous in the promotion of the interests of his constituents.

☞ Our excellent friend J. W. SHUGART, Esq. has purchased and taken charge of that old and well known Democratic paper, the "Genius of Liberty," printed at Uniontown, Fayette county, Pennsylvania. The Genius, under the management of friend S. will, we doubt not, efficiently aid the good cause in the county of Fayette. We wish him success.

The Legislature of Texas, have instructed their Senators Messrs Houston and Rusk, to vote for the Oregon notice as it passed the House of Representatives.

The Revenue Bill.

We are indebted to a friend at Harrisburgh for a copy of the Revenue Bill as it passed the House of Representatives, a synopsis of which we annex for the information of the public.

Commissioners of a Sinking Fund are established.

The taxes collected on public stocks, outstanding taxes andDebts, due from defaulters prior to the 1st of January, 1845, are appropriated to a Sinking Fund

The Fund Commissioners are authorized to sell the residue of the stocks held by the state in incorporations—the proceeds to go to the Sinking Fund.

All balances beyond the necessary expenses of government, and interest, to go annually to said Fund.

A tax of three mills on all "sailing vessels, steam boats, stages, hacks," &c., and on all canal boats and railroad cars, save those used on the State Works.—Also ten cents per ton on all anthracite coal—three mills on property held in trust or by factors or agents.

The bill authorizes Assessors to require statements of money at interest—if refused information, then to make a statement to the best of their information, and in which case the Commissioners shall add 33 per cent to the amount and tax the whole; also imposes a penalty for giving a false return.

The Auditor General is required to furnish the Commissioners and Assessors with forms of proceedings.

Loans of corporations guaranteed by the State are taxed.

The existing tax on occupations is reduced from one per cent to three mills.

The Collateral inheritance tax is doubled.

Provides against frauds in Auctioneer's Licenses.

The one per cent interest to cease on Relief Notes, and encouragement is given to the Banks to redeem with coin, and fund them.

Authorizes the Treasurer of State to charge fees in his office.

Provides for an abatement of five per cent on state taxes paid before the 1st of July in each year.

The charge for Licenses to venders of Domestic Merchandize is increased.

Provides for the appointment of Appraisers of the mercantile Tax, in all the counties of the State.

It is believed that the bill will yield the state over half a million of dollars. The object is to lay a foundation for the reduction and final payment of the state debt.

The bill was reported by the able and efficient representative from Westmoreland, Hon J M Burrell. We think the bill will be acceptable to. the people.—The tax payers of the state, we know well, are exceedingly anxious that measures should be adopted to effect such a reduction of the state debt as will render the revenues of the public works amply sufficient to pay the interest on the same, and relieve them from further taxation for that purpose. Should the bill pass the Senate, the expectations of its friends be realized, and we have no doubt they will be, Mr Burrell will have rendered the people of the state an important service, which they will ever remember with gratitude.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION.—We are indebted to the New York Tribune, for early returns of the election which took place in that State on Monday, for Governor and State officers. Last year the Whigs carried the State by a majority of 3250, and a large majority in the Legislature. This year Bissel is the Whig, and Toucey the Democratic candidate. The State contains 8 counties. We sum up the returns:

	Toucey, D.	Bissel, W.
Hartford,	4434	4687
New Haven,	3251	4357
Fairfield,	1547	1510
New London;	1111	1300
Windham,	759	592
Middlesex,	272	341
	11381	12737

These returns are of course imperfect, there being nothing from Tolland or Litchfield counties. The vote of the State in 1844 was, Polk 29,841—Clay 32,832—Birney 510.

There is evidently no choice of Governor by the people. The Legislature in that case elects, and the Tribune thinks "the extraordinary good luck of the Loco-Focos in getting Representatives from nearly every close town leads us to apprehend an adverse Legislature."

The Natchez Free Trader of the 24th ult. says Gen Sam Houston declared in a speech delivered by him in that city, a few days ago, that he was in favor of the "notice," and believed our title to the whole of Oregon to be the best in existence.

FREAK OF LOVE.—The Boston Post says that Cad wallader, the celebrated, handsome and graceful circus rider, is about to marry, or has married, one of the Miss Livingstons, of New York, who fell in love with him whilst playing at the Park. She is very rich and very beautiful.

Correspondence of the "Morning Post."

Harrisburgh, April 7, 1846.

Private Bill day in the House—a great number were passed. No less than ten divorce cases were disposed of. The following bills passed the House finally:

An act relative to the claim of McKown & Flood, of Pittsburgh.

A supplement to the act incorporating the Washington and Pittsburgh Railroad Company.

An act constituting the Mayor of Allegheny city an official visitor to the Western Penitentiury.

An act incorporating the Carlisle Deposite Bank.

An act requiring Banks and other corporations to give notice of unclaimed dividends, deposites and balances in certain cases.

An act changing the lines of the Borough of Lawrenceville, Allegheny county, was taken up; the bill was opposed by Mr Wadsworth, and postponed.

An act to extend the charter of the Bank of North America for ten years, with individual liability, was advocated by Messrs Burnside and Burrell, and opposed by Messrs Wadsworth and Kline—the bill passed.

An act to incorporate the Cumberland Presbyterian church of Washington, Pa., passed.

The Right of Way bill is the order for to morrow. Mr Bigham is entitled to the floor.

In Senate the General Appropriation bill occupied the whole day.

There was a new arrival of Chinese to day in the cars. The Imperial city is in great danger; they are busy coazing—"tipping the wink" to go to one side; just one word with you, sir"—this Whight of Whay bill must not pass, Dem-me.

DEATH OF GEN. PARKER.—Gen. Daniel Parker, died in Washington, D. C., on the 5th instant. He was a native of Massachusetts, was Chief Clerk of the War Department under Madison, was appointed to the rank of Brigadier General, which was held till 1821, and he was since Chief Clerk of the Department of War.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.—The New Hampshire Patriot gives a table of the members elect to the House, by which it appears that the Whigs have crowed a little too soon—they are not out of the woods yet, and are not likely to be. The House stands, Democrats 126; Feds 107; Independents 16; Abolition 11; Doubtful 1: leaving but a majority of 8 for the combined allies. Notwithstanding the Feds have 228 against them in the House and some 10 000 on governor, still they impudently claim N Hampshire as a Whig State!

Thomas Ritchie, Jr. charged with the murder of John H. Pleasants, has been acquitted. All the parties connected with that unfortunate affair have been declared not guilty.

THE PIRATE AND THE DOVE.

The following interesting fact is related by Audubon in his Ornithological Biography. In speaking of the Zanaida dove he says: "A man who was once a pirate assured me that several times, while at certain wells dug in the burning, shelly sands of a well known key, which must here be nameless, the soft and melancholy cry of the doves awoke in his breast feelings which long slumbered, melted his heart to repentance, and caused him to linger at the spot in a state of mind which he only who compares the wretchedness within him, with the happiness of former innocence can truly feel. He said he never left the place without incerted fears of futurity, associated as he was, although I believe by force, with a band of the most desperate villains that ever annoyed the navigation of the Florida coast. So deeply moved was he by the notes of any bird, and especily by those of a dove, the only sooth ing sounds he ever heard during his life of horrors, that through these plaintive notes and them alone, he was induced to escape from his vessel, abandon his turbulant companions, and return to a family deploring his absence. After paying a parting visit to those wells, and listening once more to the cooings of the Zanada dove, he poured out his soul in supliication for mercy, and once more became what one has said to be 'the noblest work of God,' an honest man. His escape was effected amidst difficulties and dangers; but no danger seemed to be comparable with the danger of living in violation of human and divine laws; and now he lives in peace in the midst of his friends."

Napolean was accustomd to wear a coat of mail under his clothes, and, which he rarely went without. On his departure from Belgium he thought it best to guard against those dangers with which he was threatened, having all Europe leagued against him, by every means in his power. He accordingly sent for a clever workman, and asked if he thought himself competent to make a coat of mail of such texture that no weapons whatever could penetrate. On the artificer answering in the affirmative, Bonaparte agreed to give him 13,000 francs, the sum asked. On the day fixed the man brought his work to the palace. Napoleon quickly examined it, and ordered the workman to put it on himself. The man obeyed.

Napoleon then took two pistols saying, "We shall now see if this coat of mail is of the texture you promised me." He fired at his breast; the cuirass resisted. "Turn round." The man obeyed.—The second ball struck his back with the same result. The poor artificer, half dead with fright, thought these trials would be sufficient but he was mistaken in his calculation. Bonaparte next armed himself with a long fowling piece, and made the same experiment on the shoulders, back and breast of the poor trembling patient. Happily the cuirass resisted, and saved the inventor from so cruel a trial. "How much am I to pay you," said Napoleon, "after this noble exploit?" "Eighteen thousand francs," stammered out the frightened artificer, almost deprived of his senses. "No such thing, sir," said Napoleon, "I shall give you thirty-six thousand," and he gave an order on his treasurer for that amount.

THE LAST MOMENTS OF ROB ROY.—His death bed was in character with his life: when confined to bed, a person with whom he was at enmity proposed to visit him. "Raise me up," said Rob Roy to his attendants, "dress me in my best clothes, tie on my arms, place me in my chair. It shall never be said that Rob Roy Macgregor was seen defenceless and unarmed by an enemy." His wishes were executed, and he received his guest with haughty courtesy. When he departed, the dying chief exclaimed, "It is all over now—put me to bed—call in the piper; tell him to play 'Ha'til mi tulidh' (we return no more) as long as I breathe." He was obeyed—he died, it is said, before the dirge was finished.

Some person asked Charles James Fox, what was the meaning of that passage in the Psalms, "He clothed himself with cursing, like as with a garment." "The meaning," he said; "I think it is clear enough the man had a habit of swearing."

CONGRESSIONAL.

The entire session of Senate, to-day, was occupied by Mr Webster, who concluded his vindication of the treaty of Washington, and the accompanying correspondence. A report of his remarks will be found under the proper head. Mr. Dickinson, after a few pertinent remarks, signified his intention of replying to morrow to such portions of the remarks of Mr. Webster as applied to the statements made by relative to negotiation of the treaty.

The House, immediately after the reading of the journal, resumed the consideration of the Cumberland road bill, which it finally killed stone dead. Money bill and land bill—land bill and money bill—there they lie in the same grave, past hope of redemption or resurrection for session. Having performed the funeral rites, (which a glance at the proceedings will show was a noisy business,) the House again passed into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and took up the Senate bill to provide for one regiment of mounted riflemen, and for the establishment of military stations on the route to Oregon. A debate followed on the naturalization laws.

TEMPERANCE CELEBRATION.

Saturday was a gala day among the Temperance folks in our city, Covington and Newport.

Among the many processions we have had, we have witnessed none more imposing than that of the 4th inst. The Sons of Temperance, in their simple badges, and with their healthful look, as they paraded through our streets, attracted very general attention They turned out well, numbering some two thousand strong (about one half their number) and were preceded by a fine looking band of firemen.

At Shires' Garden, the scene was deeply interesting. The banks were lined with Sunday School children, and as the procession reached it, their voices were uplifted in sweet songs of welcome.—Uncovered. the Firemen and Sons of Temperance passed along, speaking thus their deep felt response to the pure and innocent who had sought, in this way, to bear their testimony to a good cause, their respect for the men who sought to uphold it. 'Twas beautiful to witness youth and manhood communing with each other in this simple, yet touching manner.

There was speaking at various points during the day, and all things passed off well.

Cincinnati Gazette, April 6.

A beautiful Thought with a beautiful Response.—A lady had written on a card, and placed on a pane in her garden house, on the top of an hour glass, a simple stanza from one of the fugitive pieces of John Clare, the rural poet—it was at the season of the year when the flowers were in their highest beauty.

To think of Summers yet to come,
That I am not to see,
To think a weed is yet to bloom,
From dust that I shall be!

The next morning she found pencilled on the back of the same card:

To think when Heaven and Earth are fled,
And times and seasons o'er,
When all that can die shall be dead,
That I must die no more!
Ah! where will then my portion be,
How shall I spend eternity?

SONG.

DO YOU REMEMBER DEAREST.

Do you remember, dearest,
That arbor overgrown,
With woodbine and with roses,
Where oft we met alone?
How woingly the moonlight
And perfume laden air,
And night's unnumbered voices,
Were wont to greet you there?
Do you remember this?

Do you remember, dearest,
How dream-like seemed to float
Above the sleeping river
The mocking bird's high note?
Like some enamorated spirit,
He carol'd through the night,
And still his brimming bosom
Will'd ever new delight!
Do you remember this?

Do you remember dearest,
The song I loved to hear?
The echoes of its numbers
Still murmur in my ear:
And when my heart is saddest,
That sweet and soothing strain,
It comes in April gladness,
Like sunshine after rain!
Do you remember this?

Do you remember, dearest,
How timidly you heard
The passionate revealing
Of each unbidden word?
I felt your hand's warm pressure,
And on your burning cheek
I read the thrilling answer
Your lips refused to speak!
Oh! you remember this!

MRS. MADISON.

The subjoined sketch of Mrs. Madison and her household is very interesting. This venerable and dignified lady is nearly eighty years of age, and was in her youth one of the most polished, elegant, brilliant, and beautiful ladies that ever graced the social circle. She now resides in Washington city, where she receives the respect which is so justly her due:

Mrs. Madison is a tall, dignified woman, with a full face, blue eyes, and somewhat florid complexion, and is apparently over seventy years of age. Her dress was black, and in a style that comported with her years; and upon her head she wore a white turban, with a black veil Her manners have all the stateliness of "olden time," yet sweetly harmonize with the changes of the present day. She expressed her self grateful to her countrymen for the favors they have extended towards her in the recent acts of Congress, and evinces that gratitude in the flattering cordiality with which she receives every one who visits her. Her house is a miniature museum.—The greatest part of her collection is still at her former residence in Montpelier, Va., but what has already been removed here well repays the visitor, aside from the gratification of seeing their venerable possessor.—Her collections in sculpture consists of Napoleon Crossing the Alps, by Canova; a bust of Washington, presented to Mrs. Madison by a sculptor at Rome, and figures of deities, with other representations from the ancient mythology.

Around on the walls of her parlor are suspensed the heads of Columbus, Vespucius, Magellan, Cortz, and Sir Walter Raleigh, painted at the Escurial in Spain. Above them hang the portraits of Washington, Jefferson, Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Madison's by Gilbert Stuart, which Mrs. Madison says were very correct, and which fully justify Stuart's celebrity portrait painter. If Mrs. Madison's portrait was a good likeness she must have been a handsome woman in her day, of which she still retains some traces in her old age. Next to Washington, and according to the succession of the Presidents, is the portraits of John Adams, painted by Trumbull in his usual style. In the same room is the picture of a Saint, by Titian, while through the folding doors that communicate to the back parlor may be seen a painting of Christ breaking bread after his resurrection. This occupies nearly one side of wall, extending from floor and was painted by Car Spruyet, of the Flemish school. It was purchased by Mrs. Madison's son, at the cost of about two thousand dollars, and sent to her from Europe.—Over the fire place, in the same room, is a very old painting, representing a group of maidens surprised by Pan, while playing in a grove. Pan, it seems, has fallen in love with the handsomest one, while the rest are quite merry at the idea of such a creature as he being susceptible of the passion. Her collection "winds up" with a number of rare engravings, and also fine sets of medals, on French and American subjects.

Rolling Mill at Danville.—This establishment is now making about 40 tons of railroad iron per day.—They have made as high as 45 tons per day. Three hundred tons of this railroad iron, contracted for by the Reading Railroad Company, is now being taken on flats across the river, says the Democrat, and thence on wagons to Pottsville. Several thousand tons destined for the Houstanic Railroad in Connecticut, and several hundred tons for the Lexington and West Cambridge Railroad in Massachusetts are now lying on the Company's wharf, and awaiting the opening of the North Branch canal.—Harrisburgh Union.

A Well-Guarded Safe—A Caution to Rogues.—It is said that the Rothschilds, of France, have invented a wonderful piece of mechanism to prevent any removal of their depositos. If a person attempts the lock, or tampers with it in the slightest degree, an iron hand and arm is thrust out from the door, clenches the offender and holds him motionless in its iron embrace, while at the same instant a bell is struck in the room overhead, occupied by a watchman; giving him notice that his presence is required below. Should this watchman not get down to the assistance and release of the wretch held by the iron arm in fifteen minutes time, then a blunderbuss is discharged into the body of the trespasser. Thus he is mercifully allowed fifteen minutes grace to reflect upon the enormity of his offence. It is told that a few years since a man was caught by the iron nippers, and the watchman came to his release only two minutes before the blunderbuss would have been discharged.

A Reply to a Challange.—The following is the reply of Col. Gardiner, a British officer of distinction and tried valor, to a challange sent him by a young adventurer:

"I fear not your sword, but the anger of my God. I dare venture my life in a good cause, but cannot hazard my soul in a bad one. I will charge up to the cannon's mouth for the good of my country, but I want courage to storm the citadel of Satan."

SUMMARY OF MARKETS.

Baltimore, April 9.

Flour—There were transactions yesterday in How ard street flour at $4 81½. Nothing doing to day; buyers offer $4,75 freely, but holders hold off for $4.81½. The recent price is $4 60½. No transactio n in City Mills flour—it is held firmly at $5.

Grain—Prime red Wheat sold yesterday, for shipment, at $1,10 to $1,12; no sales to-day. White Corn is selling at 60 cents, and some to city dealers at 93 cts; yellow is worth 57@58c per bushel, and scarce.

Whiskey—Sales of bbls are now being made at 25 cents, and of hogsheads at 24 cents per gallon. The stock is light, and demand fair.

New Orleans, March 31.

The Cotton market displays rather more animation to day, but owing to the different views of buyers and sellers only 2500 bales were sold. Prices ⅛@⅛ lower than last week.

Sugar—A good demand and about 500 hhds. disposed of at last week's rates.

Molasses—rather declining—400 bbls. sold at 26, 26½ and 26½c., and 100, oak bbls. at 25½c. per gal.

Flour—Near 2500 bbls taken at a decline of 12½ a 25c per bbl from last week. viz:—1140 bbls Ohio at $4,25; 600 do at $4,20; 100 do $4,25; 420 do in lots at $,25a$4,37½, and 110 do Illinois at $4,60 per bbl. A lot of 1034 bbls damaged Ohio brought $3,16a$3,25 per bbl at auction.

St Louis, April 2.

There has been little of interest to note in relation to the market for the last half week. Produce has come forward rather more briskly, but little has been doing beyond receiving and forwarding. The weather is fine, and the river in fair navigable condition, though slowly falling.

Wheat—The different qualities sustain the rates last quoted—55a71. Receipts amount to 9,350 sacks and 2,107 bbls.

Flour.—A fair demand exists for country brands, and some improvement has been felt since the late advices from New Orleans. Approved country brands may be quoted at $3,50a3,75, and City Mills at $4,25a4,50. Received 4,688 bbls.

Corn—The market is not so animated as for the few days previous to our last report. Some small lots changed hands on Tuesday at 21c, without the sacks, and we hear of others as high as 25c, also small. The range of the market is from 21 to 24c. without sacks, and from 28 to 30c with them. Received 1,634 sacks and 8,000 bushels.

CURE OF BODY AND MIND.—The following is from a worthy citizen of Kensington, and a member of the Methodist church:

Philadelphia, Jan 6, 1846

DR. D. JAYNE.—Dear Sir:—Justice compels me to make the following statement of the extraordinary effects of your valuable medicine, the ALTERATIVE.

I certify that my wife was afflicted for fourteen years; during which time her disease baffled the skill of several eminent physicians. Finding that every means that were used failed to relieve her, I concluded to place her in the Pennsylvania Hospital, hoping that, under the care and treatment who would there receive from the Physicians in that institution, she might again be restored to health. But to my great disappointment, she grew worse and became deranged in her mind, and I was obliged to take her home again, "INCURABLE" and BEREFT OF REASON. I will here mention that at this time the more prominent symptoms of her disease were Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, attended with sickness of the stomach, and vomiting of a very offensive foetid mucous, pains in her head, back and stomach, and through the region of the heart, a troublesome cough from large quantities of phlegm in her throat, which kept her continually gagging and retching to throw it up. She had no appetite, and was very weak. She also suffered very much from a uterine disease by which she was confined to her bed, having entirely lost the use of her limbs, and
