IMPORTANT.—Yesterday's News, in a very scurring up unnecessary excitement and distrust. It is certainly a bold project on the part of those concerned in it; they must have great faith in the devotion of business men to whiggery, to suppose them willing to suffer, for the sake of party, all the evils that will inevitably result from a general business panic in the country. There is, we all know, no cause at present for alarm or excitement, and we have reason to believe that the people, at the approaching election, will teach all
