Travel .- The intense cold of the past fortnight, was | fi neceeded, on Saturday night and Sunday, by one of the severest snow storms ever felt in this regiongrandfathers used to experience in their days, but their bent," and the laughter and shouts of the merry regular old-fashioned storm, such an one as our which few of the present generation have seen in riders were heard until a late hour in the night. this latitude.

On Saturday, the weather moderated, and about propriate to the season: seven o'clock in the evening the snow-flakes began to fall "fast and furious," continuing so without in termission until the following night, by which time about eighteen inches of snow had fallen, and the city presented the appearance of an immense snow bank. Considerable wind also prevailed during Sunday, which drifted the snow about in a manner quite disagreeable to the few pedestrians who were compelled to be on the streets. In some of the small streets and alleys, it was drifted so high as to put a stoppage to travel, until a passage had been shoveled

A good deal of alarm was at first felt, that the immense weight of snow upon the house-tops would cause considerable damage to property, but the only break down we heard of was the large warehouse formerly occupied by D. Leech, on the canal, near the Aqueduct, now used by R. W. Lemon & Co. The building is a very old one, and the pressure of the snow upon the roof caused it to give way on Satur day night, about half-past ten o'clock. A portion of the front wall fell out upon Penn street, nearly burying under its ruins a party of gentlemen who happened to be passing. The structure is a complete wreck, but as it was not very valuable, the loss will not be great. In other parts of the city, awnings and sheds with out number were blown down, but the above is the only large building destroyed. Yesterday, every body was industriously engaged shoveling the sno off the roofs, for fear of accidents. The railroads, both east and west, were blocked were elected, viz: up, and railroad travel, for the present, will be partially suspended. On the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad, the mail train due here at eight o'clock on Saturday night, ran into a snow bank near Enou-Valley, and stuck fast. The train due at half past twelve, the same night, was also detained some place not succeed in dragging it out until late last night. The express train from the west, which left at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, was prevented from gothe same reason, consequently the communication west was completely interrupted. The mail train on the Penn-ylvania Railroad, due on Sanday afternoon, did not get here until yesterday morning fifteen hours behind time. The express, due at one o'clock in the morning, came in last night. about the same time behind. No train but the seven o'clock A. w. mail left the depot yesterday, and we understand that the other trains will be stopped for the present. The treet track, from the canal to the froight depot, was so blocked up with snow that it is required two or three locomotives and a score of men to force a passage through. Unless a speedy thew takes place, of which there neous at present no probability, we shall in a great measure be isolated from our neighbors. The officers of both the Central and Ohio and Penusylvania rail roads, however, are working vigorously to open up soon as it is possible for human energy to surmod the difficulties in the way. on the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad was reopened. The atternoon express train left at 3 o'clock and we believe got along tolerably well. The true in the snow bank got in at eight o'clock last night two days behind. A Night Worth in Asieghoup. - There is no doub the greater portion of the citizens of Allegheny ar in favor of the creation of a night watch in that city and it seems very strange Councils will not take the necessary steps to carry out the evident wishes of the people. The only preventive of the numerous rol. beries and outrages which have made the city so is mous-or intamous -is the creation of a night watch and an increase of the day police. Every good citzen feels the injury the good name of the city ha sustained by these mumberless offences, and is anxion that the remedy should be applied immediately. The only security offered to person and property, during the past year, was what each could exact for himself. independent of the laws; and but few persons who had occasion to be out late at night, would dare pathrough the streets without being armed. Such state of affairs is feit to be a great evil, and the soon mended the better. We hope the new Councils, at their first meeting, will take the matter under consid-
