THAT LECTURE. Hon. Robert Toombs, United States Senatfrom Georgia, delivered a lecture lately in Boston that must have astonished the Yankees. A takes the strongest possible prosbivery ground, and contends that in no other way or telefaccondition that that of slavery If not enslaved to foreign nations they are constantly slaves to

But each must use it so as not to injur have no right to prevent it from running into New York, and New York has no right to prevent it from coming back into this State. The public law on this subject is well settled. N one State or nation has a right to "run away with" a river that belongs in part to another State or nation. That is clearly settled; and is is equally clear that our New York neighbor have violated the public law. Our State govern ment has taken the matter in hand, and quite a difficulty may arise out of it.

If the New York dam is broken down, their canal may be useless. If kept up our North Branch canal may lack water and be useless. Which shall have the river? Pennsylvania has the best right. It rises in this State, and by its natural course returns to this State, where it is useful and is now in use. New York may use it in her territory, but cannot divert it into anomal.

There is a legal remedy, and it will be applied.
