CONSOLIDATION.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE QUESTION We published, yesterday, a well written letter from Wm. B. Reed, Esq., of Philadelphia, on Consolidation, in which he reviewed what he conthat city. The conclusion we must come to, after perusing Mr. Reed's communication, is not that it is much of an argument against the Consolidation of a number of adjacent boroughs and cities into one municipality, but only against including a large amount of unimproved territory. This was the great fault of Philadelphia. Her 224 and 23d wards embrace, if we are not mistaken, what is termed the Neck-a large truct of land which each season produces luxuriant crops of wheat, oats, hay, potatoes, strawberries, and other truck, sufficient for the sustenance of a moderate sized city.
