LOCAL AFFAIRS.

SATURDAY MORNING.....MARCH 15.

Crim. Con. in High Life.—A case of crim. con., which, if true, exhibits a considerable amount of depravity in the parties concerned, has just been made known to one of our city magistrates. The gentleman concerned is a physician in high standing in the neighboring village of Greensburg, while the lady, who resides in town, moves in the upper circles of society. Through the influence of the Doctor, the husband of the lady was induced to engage in business at Greensburg, which kept him away from home two or three nights in the week. Rumor has it that his absence was taken advantage of by the Doctor to place himself on terms of great familiarity with the lady; but as his visits were liable to be interrupted by the unexpected return of the husband, he induced him to again change his location, and go to a place where he could only come home once a week. This arrangement answered very well for a little while, but unfortunately for the man of medicine, the deceived gentleman began to "smell a mice," and placed himself on the watch until he discovered enough to induce him to go before a magistrate and make an information for adultery. In consequence, the physician was arrested and held to bail for trial.

Robbery of $3,000.—We mentioned the other day the arrest of a man named James A. M'Grath, on his own confession, for larceny. On Thursday night a telegraphic despatch was received by officer Fox, from New York, requesting him to have the person kept in custody until sent for, as he was charged with the robbery of $3,000 from Mr. John R. Harbisham, of that city. We understand he was bookkeeper or clerk for the gentleman named, who is engaged largely in the importing business. M'Grath seems to be partially insane.

Cincinnati Freights.—We learn that the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad Company has been very much embarrassed in their freight business to Cincinnati by the inability, or more likely unwillingness, of connecting roads at Crestline to furnish cars to take away the freight from that point. It seems to be necessary to this city and to the Ohio and Pennsylvania Company that some other and better route to Cincinnati should be opened than at present exists. The Springfield and Mt. Vernon line, it is supposed, is the most available, and would be effective.

Serious Accident.—A brakeman on the Ohio and Pennsylvania Railroad, named Forker, was badly injured at Massillon, on Tuesday evening, by being crushed between two freight cars. His skull was fractured for three inches, and his arm was crushed by the wheel. It is not expected he will recover He has a wife and two children at Allianee.

Counterfeits.—Professor De Grathe's Electric oil has gained such an enviable reputation, that many attempts are made to counterfeit it, and thus impose on the public. It can only be bought in its purity in this city at Dr. Keyser's Drug Store, corner of Wood street and Virgin alley. Professor DeGrath's is the only genuine Electric Oil sold in this country. See advertisement in another column.

Burglary. The house of Mr. William McKenna on Rebecca street, Allegheny, was entered on Thursday night, by some person who forced off the shutter from a back window. A number of articles of clothing and several dollars in money were taken, hardly enough, however, to repay the trouble of getting in.

The Weather, yesterday, was warm and pleasant, more like spring than any yet experienced. The sun was out bright and clear, causing the ice and snow to disappear in streams of water, which overflowed the streets. A few days like yesterday will quickly inaugurate spring.

St. Patrick's Day.—Hon. D'Arcy M'Gee will deliver a lecture on Monday, St. Patrick's Day, in the basement of St. Paul's Cathedral, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum. Subject: Colonization True Conservatism. Admission 25 cents.

New Goods. C. Daly, corner of Market alley and Fifth street, has just received a beautiful assortment of hosiery and woollen goods from the East, and is constantly manufacturing large amounts at home. This is the place to call.

Elocution.—Those desirous of acquiring an elegant style of reading and declamation should join one of Prof. Hitchcock's classes, which meet day and evening in one of the rooms of the Iron City College.

Our readers will remember that this evening is the time for sale of that valuable catalogue of a private Library, at Davis' Auction Rooms. The books are now arranged for examination of purchasers.

Beating his Wife.—A man named G. W. Barnes was held to bail, yesterday, by Alderman Wilson for kicking and beating his wife Nancy.

Mr. J. W. Wallack, the distinguished tragedian, will commence an engagement at our Theatre on Monday.

There was no connection with the Philadelphia train yesterday at Harrisburg, for the west.

Black, Striped and Moire Antique Silks are going to be very much worn this spring. Those in want of such goods, will find some very beautiful styles as well as the magnificent French Chintzes at A. W. M'Tighe's, corner of Grant and Fifth streets. We don't know where M'Tighe gets such handsome goods, but this we know, that whenever we pass by his store we are forcibly struck with the beautiful articles exhibited in his window.

THE LATEST NEWS
BY TELEGRAPH.
THIRTY-FOURTH CONGRESS.
FIRST SESSION.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Senate.—Petitions were presented by merchants and inspectors of Boston, New York and Philadelphia, asking a revision of the Tariff.

Mr. Johnston reported in favor of printing 31,000 copies of the reports of the majority and minority of the Committee on Territories in the Kansas case, be 500 copies for each member.

Mr. Trumbull opposed the motion; he thought the minority report presented the slavery question in a masterly manner. Its positions are unanswerable, but it does not enter into details as the majority report, hence he is unwilling to send out with the Senate endorsement a document containing so many unwarrantable assumptions, erroneous deductions and inconsistencies.

Mr. Wade asked Mr. Trumbull to yield the floor, for adjournment.

Mr. Douglass—I hope not; the courtesies of the Senate have been taken advantage of it to make an assault on me.

Mr. Trumbell—No sir; I knew not whether you were present or absent. I was commenting on a Report. I did not introduce the subject, nor know it would come up to-day.

Mr. Douglas—My colleague dares to say, in the face of the fact, that he did not know I was absent. He acted with unfairness in attacking the report when I was detained from the Senate on the account of ill health. I would ask him within what reasonable time will his speech be printed?

Mr. Trumbull—I think it will be published by Monday.

Mr. Douglas—If I can ask a postponement of the question till Monday, I will reply to Mr. Trumbull's speech on Tuesday.

Mr. Seward—Take your own time.

Mr. Douglas, (quickly.) I understand that game! Take your own time! The Senator of Massachusetts took his own time to write and circulate a libel on me about the time the Nebraska bill was reported. I understand my colleague to say he came here a Democrat. That will be news to the Democracy of Illinois. It is a libel on the Democracy of that State.

Mr. Crittenden interposed, saying that the debate was transcending the rules of decorum. The Senator had charged libel on Mr. Trumbull. [Sensation.]

Mr. Douglas—I should have been better satisfied if the senator from Kentucky had, when the Black Republicans denounced in coarse terms, rebuked them for want of courtesy.

Mr. Crittenden. To what do you allude?

Mr. Douglas—When they made vulgar and coarse partisan assaults on the Democratic side of the Senate.

Mr. Crittenden—It was no more my business than that of the other Senators to order for personalities. This is not the place for vituperation. It should be settled elsewhere.

Mr. Douglas—I do not regard the Senator as good authority in Illinois politics. I was speaking of events of which I am better capable of judging than he is.

Further colloquy ensued, when the chair decided that Mr. Douglas' remark was not personal.

Mr. Douglas said so far as he was advised he believed his colleague was the candidate of a miserable set of abolitionists and Know Nothings, which are one and the same party.

Mr. Crittenden—I wish the Senator to understand that I am associate with the American party. Standing here as a gentleman and a Senator, it would be unbecoming in me to expect to be considered such as a freemason. I repel with scorn every imputation of that kind as intended to embarrass me and my position in the country.

Mr. Douglas—I spoke of what Know Nothingism is in Illinois, and said it might be different in other States. I now know Nothing lodges in Illinois has adopted the abolition creed, and that is the miserable issue which will be energetically fought. The Senator from Kentucky can feel assured that he would not have convicted my remarks to personal hate.

Mr. Crittenden—The gentleman did not make the qualification to me he does now.

Mr. Pearce—Has the gentleman not been making a personal assault on the dead?

Mr. Wade—Mr. Wentworth, of Massachusetts, a member of the committee now writing the Committee on Territories to send for persons and papers on the Kansas case. He said he had a bound volume of papers which he had received from the President, who said Gov. Shannon, a witness, was at Fort Pierce. If he was in Europe, he would send for him.

Mr. Smith—I have not understood the evidence on the part of Mr. Shannon was to be taken.

Mr. Woodbury—I have seen in the newspapers that a correspondent made it, and dared the Washington Union to deny it. I note the coincidence. Was it made a statement of it?

Mr. Pearce—I have not a belief, even, of the kind, and it is not to my knowledge. I have no right to speak in regard to any statement.

Mr. Wade—I have no more to say.

The question was then upon the amendment.
