MISS DUTTON AND BEECHER GUNS AGAIN.

The editor of the Journal don't like the manner in which we spoke of Miss Dutton and her gun. He even suspects that we were ordered to write that article by the President of the United States, and that we are in daily expectation of a fat advertisement as our reward. If our neighbor could once speak independently himself he would be able to appreciate a little better the perfect freedom with which the Post utters its free convictions on all proper subjects. But the man who advocated the fugitive slave bill in 1850 because a Whig was President, and then urged armed resistance to its execution in 1854 because a Democrat was President, can know very little about editorial independence or integrity. The man who rejoiced when an officer of the law was murdered in Boston while doing his sworn duty can no doubt desire a civil war in Kansas. The Americans are a law abiding people generally, and always will be while they make the laws themselves, and can unmake them if they don't like them. And that is the case in Kansas. Three to one of the voters of that territory, we are told, and truly, are in favor of a free State. Its first legislature passed some laws in favor of slavery. Its second legislature can and will repeal them. There is the simple, cheap and peaceful remedy, and every one would say it was the only proper remedy if there was not a President to elect this year. A civil war and a little bloodshed, the fanatics suppose, may help to elect an abolitionist, so they repudiate all peaceful remedies, and go in for a fight. But no, they don't "go in" for a fight themselves; they merely urge others to fight so far away that they will be safe from the slaughter and calamity. None of these red-mouthed advocates of civil war in far-off Kansas will ever be seen in that territory while there is a chance of bloodshed. They will stay at home, and be practically non-resistants. Yankee school-ma'ams and Yankee parsons will give guns for a war two thousand miles off, and then proclaim A North discovered, and then, like Jack Horner, say,

"La, what a brave boy am I."

But if assailed by a Southern man on the streets they can't fight. They succumb at once.

But a word as to the decision of Chief Justice, Marshall, which we published a few days ago. It was in a trial for treason, and the able, excellent and venerated Chief Justice said:

"An assemblage of men for the purpose of revolutionizing by force the government established by the United States, in any of its territories, although as a step to, or the means of executing some greater projects, amounts to levying war.

When war is levied all those who perform any part, however minute, or however remote from the scene of action, who are actually leagued in the general conspiracy, ARE TRAITORS."

It is well known that there is an "assemblage of men in Kansas, armed, organized, and declaring their purpose to nullify the laws and "revolutionize by force the government established by the United States in that territory." This assemblage and purpose are not necessary to get rid of bad laws, because they can be peaceably repealed. It is well known, too, that this assemblage has a military organization, supplied with arms, and that a minister of the gospel is elected general. The Chief Justice says this "amounts to levying war." Yankee clergymen mortgage their churches for rifles to send to this assemblage in Kansas, and avow their affiliation with the common league and purpose. And the Chief Justice says they are traitors. Seldom can a rule of law be found to fit a state of facts more precisely.

All this assembling, organizing, arming, blustering and folly is but "a step to, or means of executing a greater project;" to wit, the election of an abolitionist President, and securing the spoils of some seventy millions a year for four years, and perhaps dividing the Union in the meantime.

But it seems unnecessary to dignify these clergymen and women with the name of traitors. Fanatics and dunces would more fitly describe them; and the strong sense and manly will of the American people will defeat their machinations, and bring their counsels to naught. That will be surely and emphatically done on the second Tuesday of November next.

Four Days of Navigation---Big Arrival and Departure of Freight.

We took a stroll along the levee yesterday afternoon. The sight which presented itself would have delighted any one who takes an interest in the prosperity of Pittsburgh. More than a score of noble steamers were taking in with all possible speed the immense piles of freight that lay piled upon the entire length of the levee—all bound for ports down the Ohio—for Wellsville, Wheeling, Cincinnati, Louisville, St. Louis and New Orleans. The difficulty is to find drays enough to bring the freight to the wharf. We hear of several boats which were detained a couple of days on this account. The River has been open since Saturday evening, but no steamers arrived until Monday. We have taken the trouble to make out a list of arrivals since then, with the number of tons of freight brought by each.

THE NEWS.

At a meeting of Democrats in Cincinnati, on Thursday, very strong resolutions in favor of James Buchanan for the Presidency were adopted. It was largely attended.

Thackeray is in St. Louis, and was to have lectured on Wednesday evening. Subject—The Four Georges. Mr. Thackeray is making a moderate fortune out of those four lectures, which scarcely occupied him six months in their preparation. He has up to this time repeated them fully a dozen of times, and we believe gets five hundred dollars for the course—making six thousand dollars already.

The Williamsport, Warren county, Indiana, Republican, of the 14th inst., gives an account of an attack upon the liquor dealers in that town by the ladies thereof. The moderate females marched to every place in town where liquors were kept, and knocking in the heads of the casks, and breaking the jugs, poured all of the "critter" into the streets, and at night the boys made a grand bonfire.

The "Friends of Young Ireland," in New York, celebrated their thirtieth anniversary with a supper and speeches, on Wednesday evening. While James A. McMasters was responding to the seventh toast—"Civil and religious liberty"—Mr. John Dougherty, the Corresponding Secretary, fell over from a sudden attack of illness, and in fifteen minutes thereafter expired. The Company adjourned thereupon, out of respect to the deceased. Mr. D. is described as a young man of amiable manners, obliging disposition, rare intelligence and Christian conduct.

YELLOW FEVER AND THE CHOLERA.

The people of the Atlantic cities, and particularly in Baltimore, are already thinking of the probable appearance of the yellow fever in their midst, and are agitating the subject for the purpose of taking precautionary measures. The immense amount of filth and pestilence breeding matter that has accumulated during this "long and cruel winter" if not removed would cause an epidemic in an incredibly short time after the weather becomes warm. If it was not an unheard of thing for yellow fever to prevail in an inland city we might expect a visitation of this kind from the horrible condition of the streets and alleys here. But the cholera makes no distinction between the seaboard and interior. If an aggregation of filth superinduces this terrible disease we may count on it to a certainty whenever the sun gets a fair chance at the mountains which abound in every direction. Where are the Street Commissioners?

Contest at Jefferson College.

On Wednesday evening the little town of Canonsburg was in the highest state of excitement. The annual contest between the Franklin and Philo Literary Societies was to come off, but it didn't just then, for, owing to the non-arrival of one who was to sit as judge, the audience was dismissed without the promised treat. At nine the next morning the bell rang and the hall was soon filled. The exercises were very creditable, not only to the gentlemen themselves, but to the institution. The two Essays were well written and well read. One by Mr. J. M Smith on "The Influence of Æsthetics," was full of beautiful thought. The two original orations by Messrs. Campbell and Snowden were both of so high an order that the judges confessed themselves unable to decide between them. The performance concluded with a discussion of the question "Is there in the Human Mind a Principle of Disinterested Benevolence." The affirmative was sustained by Mr. Jas. H. Matthews in a well prepared speech, showing considerable acquaintance with the authorities on the subject. It was entirely too long, and certainly put to the test the disinterested benevolence of the audience Mr. Thomas Stockdale, from Greene county, defended the negative. His speech was ingenious and a lurking tendency to humor betrayed itself both in his speech and his countenance. The whole passed off without disturbance, and was enlivened by excellent music from one of our city bands. The institution is in a remarkably flourishing condition under the presidency of Dr. A. B. Brown. We have understood that on account of ill health, both of himself and family, he has tendered his resignation to the Trustees. It has not yet been acted upon, and it is hoped that it may be induced to continue his connection with the College. At all events he will not retire until a suitable and able successor has been inaugurated.

Long Boots for Ladies.

Some of the eastern papers tell us that long boots for ladies are becoming the fashion. That is right. Fashion for once is in accord with common sense, particularly it we are ever to have another winter like the last. A neat boot is handsomer than any shoe, and much more preservative of health in cold or wet weather. They can be made neatly and ornamented, and then the next fashion is to be shorter skirts and dresses. The Empress Eugene, it is said, will come out in such a dress as soon as she is able to get about, and then the fair daughters of America may do it. Not Bloomerite dress is meant, but merely a dress that will not drag on the ground, and catch up all the dust and mud within its reach. A decided improvement that, and we hope it will be adopted at once, particularly the boots, with good substantial soles. They will be "life preservers," undoubtedly.

AN INTERESTING PICTURE. Mr. Buchanan has sent home from London an original portrait of John Hampden, the celebrated English patriot who was one of the first to resist the encroachments of the Stuarts, and to assail the prerogatives of the Crown, in the great struggle for popular rights which led to the establishment of the English Commonwealth, and subsequently planted on this soil the republican germs which have grown up into a nation of thirty millions of freemen. This portrait belonged to Mr. John Macgregor, member of Parliament for Glasgow, and is presented by him, through Mr. Buchanan, to the Congress of the United States, who will undoubtedly give it a conspicuous place among the national pictures. It is one of the only two original pictures of Hampden now in existence.

CAPT. HAZLETT.—The Union Marine Association has appointed a committee of ten to attend to the reception of the body of Captain E. C. Hazlett on its arrival by the Ohio and Pennsylvania railroad. Due notice will be given of the time. Captain H. was killed by an explosion of a boiler of the S. B. "Metropolis," at West Columbia, on the 27th inst. He was one of the most industrious, upright and popular steamboat captains on the Ohio river. We have known him for many years, was his counsel ten years, and had every reason to esteem him as an honest, enterprising and excellent business man and citizen. Such was his general reputation; and his numerous friends have cause for deep regret at his sudden and melancholy death.

CLEVELAND IN 1855. By the report of the State Auditor of Ohio for 1855, we learn that the value of property in Cleveland last year pertaining to manufactures was $872,959, against $1,332,315 for the year 1854, or a decline of $459,356. In the whole State it was but $5,556,545, of which $2,080,331, or almost one-third, was in Hamilton county. The increase of manufactures in Ohio is very slow, having been only $200,000 in three years.

WHAT IS THE MATTER?—At the late Fusion State Convention in Harrisburg, we notice the name of Dr. E. D. Gazzam, of this county, among the nominations for Canal Commissioner; but when the balloting came off he did not receive a single vote! The delegates were nearly all members of the American Order until recently. Was the Doctor proscribed for his staunch Republicanism? It looks like it.

CONSOLIDATION.

We understand from what we consider reliable verbal authority, that the basis of an arrangement has been made by parties representing the several companies forming the line of Railroad from Pittsburgh to Chicago, via Crestline and Fort Wayne, to consolidate these roads into one company, and run in close connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad from Chicago to Philadelphia. This is a highly important move for Pittsburgh, and we shall be glad to learn of the certainty of the arrangement.

THE Louisville Journal, a Know Nothing paper, in giving an account of the arrest of a man in that city, says that by mistake it was made to appear that he was arrested for stealing, whereas he was only accused of killing an Irishman. This apology the Journal thinks will be entirely satisfactory to the aggrieved party. According to that paper, then, stealing is a far greater crime than killing an Irishman. If the Irishman happened to be a Catholic we presume Prentiss would consider it no crime at all.

A DIVORCE CASE.—Cox vs. Cox.—A disgusting divorce case has been before the New York Courts for ten days past, the details of which have occupied three or four columns daily of the newspapers in that city. The parties are both upwards of fifty years of age. Rev. Richard Cox, pastor of Zion's Protestant Episcopal Church, sued for a divorce from his wife, for adultery. He alleged that she had been in the habit since her majority of frequenting houses of ill fame, and that she had inveigled him into marriage some six years since, when he was unaware of her true character. On the other hand, the counsel of the defendant produced testimony to show the bad character of the witnesses, who were employed to watch Mrs. Cox, and declared that the Reverend gentleman was disappointed in his expectation of getting a fortune with his wife—she only bringing him about twelve thousand dollars, most of which he has since got into his possession. The telegraph informs us the jury has found a verdict for the lady. Some of the witnesses "swore terribly," and the excitement between the lawyers was high at times, as the following will show. Mr. Schaffer is for Mr. Cox; Mr. Gerard for Mrs. Cox:

Finally, Mr. Schaffer offered to show the use by the defendant, of the most indelicate language that a female should let cry counsel could use, accompanied with acts of leering up her eyes, &c., to show her great sensuality.

Mr. Gerard. That is calumny.

Mr. Schaffer. I want to show that when she lived and cohabited with the plaintiff she was guilty of that act.

Mr. Gerard. This is an insult to the court and the jury.

Mr. Schaffer. You are a vagabond, or you would not say so. Reverend gentleman—

Mr. Gerard. You ought to be kicked out of court.

Ex. Council.

The Court. If there is any reputation of this or either side, I will avoid both the gentlemen out of counsel.

Mr. Schaffer. I make the offer in good faith.

The Court. Well, sir, I reject it, and I wish that to be the end of it.

Mr. Schaffer. I made the offer, and am willing to proceed.

Mr. Gerard. You insult the community, sir.

Mr. Schaffer. You are not its guardian.

From the Phila Daily Times.

Carnal vs. Spiritual Weapons.

In the New York Times of Saturday appears a full report of the proceedings of a meeting called in behalf of Kansas, and held in the North Church, at Newhaven. The chief object of the meeting appears to have been to collect a company of emigrants with a certain number of Sharpe's rifles, consequently free indulgence was had in the attacks of their leaders and the wolves of the press. If such was really the intention, we think the object might have been attained with less warlike demonstrations, and fewer appeals to carnal feelings. The sermon of Mr. Hine, the president of the Association, was moderate and to the point, but the speech of Henry Ward Beecher, who appears to have been the chief speaksman of the occasion, cannot but meet the disapproval of every Christian, conservative mind. Mr. Beecher's usual extravagant fancies, and assertions that we overlook that it is sacrilege that it should be an instrument of division, that it should explode in the midst of the community, throwing out bombs and rocks like the battlements at Sebastopol. After speaking at some length in his usual style, Mr. Beecher said: I see by Prof. Smith, that the Rifle Church resolution has met with the pledge of some Sharpe's rifle. The scene that followed is reported thus:

Mr. Beecher said: Mr. Dutton rose both a time Mr. Russell pro—ter. I propose to [illegible] Mr. Beecher—the Church—the Church—the Church—the Church—Mr. Hall—Church—the Church—the Church—and I am the agent, [illegible] to present to you a Church—some sharpe's rifles.

Dr. Pise. I will give one.

Stephen D. Peabody. I will give one for myself and also one for each of my sons.

Mr. Beecher. I do not mean that as a strange gift. [Laughter.] I mean that as a proper gift.

Charles Lee. Put me down for three.

Mr. B. Tenebridge. Put me down for four. [Continued laughter.]

Dr. R. H. W. I will subscribe for one.

A gentleman said that Miss Mary Dutton would give one.

Dr. Stephen D. Hubbard. One.

Mr. Bee for here stated that of twenty five Sharpe's rifles he would pledge twenty to be sent from Plymouth Church—fifty in all—a sufficient number for the whole supply. (Clapping of hands all over the house.)

Professor Silliman rose to[illegible] Mr. Beecher to speak for the last and set down to enjoy the occasion.

Mr. William Lee. One.

Mr. Beecher. A fine. That's a significant name for a rifle. Let us call it after Lee. [Laughter.]

Prof. W. A. Norton. One for me!

Mr. Canning. Another for me!

Mr. Moses Taylor. I will pledge one sharpe's rifle in the Junior Class in Yale College! [Great applause.]

Prof. Silliman rising in his seat and sweeping the galleries with his eye. There are four classes in Yale College. [Immense sensation.]

Henry Trowbridge. One.

John D. North. One.

Mr. Beecher. I think Kansas will now know that there is a North. (Great applause.)

Wm. Kingsley. One for me.

Lucius L. Olmsted. One.

Mr. Dunlap. I will pledge one for the Senior Class in Yale College.

It was now ascertained that instead of twenty five, twenty-seven rifles had been subscribed, the cost of which, together with the amount received at the door for admission fees, made the collection for Kansas in the North Church, $1,000.

The meeting then adjourned. What a scene is this to be enacted within the house of God, and the chief actors in the drama, too, God's professed servants! With what a seeming gusto does Beecher joke as to the effectiveness of Sharpe's rifle! How ready is he to appeal to a sectional feeling to show Kansas that there is a "North." We concede to Mr. Beecher a certain degree of talent, but we have no sympathy with his ultraisms, no admiration for his vulgarity, no respect for his religion. Far better would it be that he preached "the gospel of peace," saying with St. Paul, also, "Though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh. For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty, through God, to the pulling down of strongholds."

Evergreen Trees.

Spring is generally admitted to be the best season for planting evergreens. As their foliage remains throughout the winter, and is susceptible of injury from severe frost when followed by a rapid thaw, it is deemed the most safe practice to afford time for the tree to be established before required to withstand these vicissitudes. Very warm summers, however are on the other hand very disadvantageous to trees removed in the spring, and particularly when in a very late season this cannot be done till late in April, as may happen this year. We have already spoken of the points to be observed in planting, and have only to add that a good mulching is indispensible to late-planted evergreens. Of the more selected hardy coniferous trees, we may mention the Cephalonian spruce (Abies Cephalonica,) very hardy, with horizontal spreading branches, and quite distinct from those already noticed. The black and red spruces somewhat resemble the Norway spruce, but differ in the hue of their foliage and habit. They are both desirable where extended assortment is required. We have now Torreya Taxifolia from Florida, but how few among our planters have ever inquired for it. Yet it is one of the most beautiful of evergreen trees. Unfortunately it is not quite so hardy as the Austrian pine or Norway spruce, or we should try to prevail on some of our readers to try it. We learn from our advertising columns the "Big Tree of California" has been brought direct from its native locality, and successfully propagated from seeds sent by a collecter. We wonder if he was a real American collector who accomplished this great envoy, who being chartered by a foreign house, just slipped a few seeds into one of our homeward-bound ships, and so they are here!—[Rural New Yorker, March 22

SHEEP IN SPRING.—Look out for sheep as the wet days of spring come on. That was a good policy of old Mr. Noah in keeping his stock in the Ark till fair weather was well established. At any rate, this is a good hint for wool-growers. If the tender sheep, and especially the heavy ewes, get their fleeces drenched with the cold rains of spring, it exhausts too much of the vitality to keep up a needful vigor for the crisis before them, which is the best provided for in advance. Remember "a penny saved" is a good motto for farmers in winter time, when more can be accomplished by saving than earning.—[Ohio Cultivator.

In no instance will this Salve do an injury, or interfere with physician's prescriptions. It is made from the purest materials, from a receipt brought from Russia—of articles growing in that country—and the proprietors have letters from all classes, clergymen, physicians, sea captains, nurses, and others who have used it themselves, and recommend it to others. Redding's Russia Salve is put in large tin boxes, stamped on the cover with a picture of a horse and a disabled soldier, which picture is also engraved on the wrapper. Price, 25 cents a box. Worms! Worms!—A great many learned treatises have been written, explaining the origin of, and classifying the worms generated in the human system. Scarcely any topic of medical science has elicited more acute observation and profound research; and yet physicians are very much divided in opinion on the subject. It must be admitted, however, that, after all, a mode of expelling these worms, and purifying the body from their presence, is of more value than the most eloquent essay as to the origin. The expelling agent has at length been found—Dr. M'Lane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., is the much sought after specific, and has already superseded all other worm medicines, its efficacy being universally acknowledged by medical practitioners.

SHINGLE MACHINE.

Kendall's Patent IMPROVED Double Acting River & Shaver.

THE attention of Shingle and Lumber dealers, speculators and others, is directed to this invaluable invention, which is now presented to the public as the first and only practical machine extant, for Riving and Shaving Shingles.

Various cutting and sawing machines have been invented for making Shingles, but it is a well known fact that Shingles cut or sawed across the grain are quite too flimsy for roofing purposes. Numerous inventions have recently appeared for riving and shaving, but these have all been condemned as worthless, from their imperfect method of riving, which consists of splitting from the side of the block but one shingle, which almost invariably runs off. This difficulty is entirely obviated by

KENDALL'S MACHINE,

Which first splits from the side of the block a piece thick enough for two shingles, which is separated in the centre, and by means of elastic guides each part is conducted through a pair of approximating knives, which completes the operation; thus producing two shingles at every revolution.

The machine will rive and shave from the block three thousand shingles per hour, of uniform thickness and taper, superior in solidity and durability to those made by hand or any other process.

Its operations are by no means confined to pine and other soft wood, but works to equal advantage oak, walnut, and every other description of timber that can be split.

The workings of the machine can be examined at H. H. Ryan's Furniture Building, Third street, Pittsburgh.

All persons desirous of procuring Machines, shingle dealers, and men of enterprise, this opens a new field for speculation, as there is no similar invention extant.

The machine occupies but a small space, is of durable construction, and costs but about two hundred and eighty dollars, and a man and two boys can make from 30,000 to 50,000 shingles per day, with about three horse power.

For right of territory, or machines, inquire at No. 31 Fifth street, or at the City Hotel.
