WE publish to-day the speech of Hou. Glancy Jones in the House of Representatives in reply to Mr. Fuller's attack on Mr. Buchanan Mr. Jones' speech is brief, strong, and conclusive in its refutation of the false allegations of Mr.

Fuller. It will be found on the first page. MR. BUCHANAN'S NOMINATION. Could the choice of the Democratic candidate for the Presidency be submitted to the direct vote of the Democratic voters of the country there is no doubt that Mr. Buchanan would distance all competitors three to one. There never has been a time when the voice and choice of the people were so clearly made known in advance of a some form or other, and it is manifest that to every section of the Union the great Pennsylvanian would be an acceptable candidate. Personal preferences may have been expressed for othwanting to any duty, or failed of its fulfilment to the satisfaction of the country. There is no man now living whom the whole nation has had man now living whom the whole nation has had from South Carolina he turns with lordly disgret were born, and his name has been familiar to cordial respect for his character and ability.

There is not a man in the land who can doubt vent any Senator from using such insulting and that Mr. Buchanan would as Prosident conduct abusing to-sauge in debate hereafter. the affairs of the country wisely, prudently, and the affairs of the country wisely, prudently, and with an eye single to its best interests and honor.

Whatever difficulties might arise during his ad ministration either in our foreign relations or Telegraph Company" are about leasing ther timestage and at the end of ten seconds fell down. Whatever difficulties might arise during his ad domestic affairs the whole nation would rely with line to the Union Telegraph Company. The the never moved his limbs after, and died at the confidence upon his ability, prudence and patriot lease is for ten years, and the latter corporation and of seven minutes. A fewl was now thrown ism to guide the State aright. That national guarantees to the stockholders of the former , in, which died in a minute, and a half. On the

Mr. Buchanan is now sixty-five years of age. and four years hence he would be deemed too good investment to the lessees. old for a nomination. Now is his time. With fifteen or twenty years younger, who, however worthy, can afford to wait. Nor is Mr. Buchanan's time. And it is Pennsylvania's time, also. The old Keystone State has stood : steadily and firmly in the Democratic ranks and faith that some seem to consider that she is safe. gates have also arrived. whether justly i alt by or not. Her claims has been patient and forbearing. But there is a limit to forbearance; and to set aside her favorite son now, at his age, with his fitness, and with the fact that Pennsylvania has never furnished a candidate, would, in our humble estimation, be to approach imprudently near to the limit. We do not intend to intimate that the electoral vote of Pennsylvania cannot be secured to some other candidate. But in a time like the present when the integrity of the Union, the safety of the Constitution, and the peace of the most unwise to venture upon any experiment Mr. Buchanan as fully represents, and is : clearly identified with, all the principles of our party as any man in the nation. And it would two terms, on any alleged special issue, to the exclusion of Pennsylvania's distinguished and favorite son forever. And it would be equally younger on any such untenable grounds. The two-thirds rule might operate well in some instances, and we would not urge its abrogation at this time. But if its operation is to exclude all hope of ever elevating to the presidency the most prominent, able, long-tried and faithful men of our party, the sooner it is rescinded the better. The manifest injustice of such a result would soon produce a wide-spread dissatisfaction. But the rule need not produce such a result. A spirit of conciliation could preserve the rule, and yet prevent its destroying the hopes of the friends of our most eminent men. And that is needed now. And what would a spirit of conciliation effect. It would concede that this is Mr. Buchanan's last opportunity, while the other prominent candidates have promise of success in the future. It would concede that the old Keystone State, one of the "old thirteen. and one of the largest and soundest Democratic States has now a claim that it would be neither just nor politic to ignore. The eminent fitness of the man this State presents all will concede. On these grounds our candidate should be nominated with a degree of unanimity that would leave no bitterness behind, and that would present a firm and united front to the hosts of nativeism and abolitionism. Policy, expediency, availability should all be onsidered, just so far as is consistent with a strict regard for the preservation of our principles. And we think they all point to Mr. Buchanau as the man for the time. It seems to be generally conceded that Mr. Buchanan would poll a larger vote than any other man at the Unquestionably he would receive thirty thousand more votes than any other in Pennsylvania. And if it is asked what democrat would be most likely to secure the electoral vote of New York and Ohio, could any one hesitate for the answer."

With Mr. B. as our candidate, not more than two States of the whole Union need be fully conceded to all our opponents, whether they support ceded to all our opponents, whether they support and that such course, such that such course, and that such course, Vermont are hopelessly given over to isms; but in all the other States a triumph of our party and principles might be secured by placing in and principles might be secured by placing in land, Ohio; the old school assembly at Lexingnomination the strongest and most available ton. would settle forever the isms and issues that now agitate the country, and threaten its peaceand security. Shall we turn aside from so noble, national and patriotic a purpose for any other considerations whatever? And it seems to be the general belief that with the Pennsylvania statesman as our banner bearer that purpose could be more surely accomplished than with any other. That such would be the fact in re-sylvania and Ohio, there can be little doubt. We would not in the slightest degree disparage the merits and claims of any others, but simply nsist, as is our right, that policy, expediency. justice point manifestly and clearly to James ready mentioned, Mr. Poinsett was induced to Buchanan as the proper candidate for this cam. get him an appointment as a teacher of mathe-

Its operations are by no means training cask, wainut, and every other description of timber that can be split. The workings of the machine can be examined at H. It lyan's Furniture Buildings, Fifth street, Pittsburgh. To timber owners, slungle dealers, and men of enterprise this opens a new field for speculation, as there is no similar invention extant. The machine occupies but a small space, is of durable construction, and costs but about two hundred and eighty dollars, and a man and two beys can make from 20,000 to Lossy altingles per day, with about three horse power. For right of territory, or machines, inquire at No. 31 Fifth street, or at the City Hotel. street, or at the City Hotel.
