THE STATE FAIR.

The annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society which is soon to be held in our midst, is an occasion which we may look forward to with great interest. It is true our citizens were up and doing, preparing their manufactures and inventions for exhibition. There is not a mechanic or manufacturer among us but who should take advantage of this occasion to exhibit the specimens of his handiwork, and to contribute in every way towards a full display of the productions of the Pittsburgh workshops. Pittsburgh with her reputation as a manufacturing city and with her numerous factories and artisans, should now step forward and show to this great gathering of the people that her reputation is well deserved, and that the ingenuity of her citizens is the guarantee of the present, and the source of her future greatness. The exhibition commences on the last day of the present month and there is yet plenty of time to afford all who wish to exhibit an opportunity of producing something which will be a fair representation of his skill. The premium list for the exhibition is very liberal and comprehensive, and the amount to be awarded in money and silver plate exceeds the sum of seven thousand dollars. The prizes will be distributed as rewards for every production of the farm and garden, and to the manufacturers of woolen and cotton goods, to those who work in iron, silver, marble, leather, &c.; and silver medals are offered for cutlery, silver-ware, glass, glass ware, hollow-ware, iron railings, stoves, and cabinet ware; and for almost everything that is ingenious and useful. Premiums are to be awarded for the fine arts, and medals are offered for cattle drawings and animal paintings in oil, for dentistry and daguerreotypes, and in order that the Pittsburgh manufacturers might not be overlooked, a particular class has been created for "the best display in his line of business." The Society will leave nothing undone to make this their sixth annual exhibition equal if not superior in every respect to any of their former displays. This exhibition being held at a point easily accessible by all the counties of Western Pennsylvania will insure a large and varied contribution from the farmers and others of this section.

And, from its easy approaches from the adjoining States, it is altogether probable that they will compete spiritedly with us for our prizes. The field of competition is thrown open to the people of all the States, and they will, as they have done heretofore, make a display characteristic of themselves, and if possible beat us at home with their cattle, their products and implements. The Society, through its Committee of Arrangements, are making ample preparations and otherwise preparing the grounds with every accommodation for the convenience of exhibitors. It is due to Pittsburgh that her citizens should not lack in their duty to contribute their share in making the fair worthy of Pittsburgh, and alike honorable to themselves.

All the railroads leading to the city have agreed to carry all articles and animals to and from the fair free of charges, and to issue excursion tickets for the cheap conveyance of visitors. The interests that is abroad in the land for the improvement of agriculture and the mechanic arts, and the laudable desire on the part of the people to improve with the spirits of the age will bring together upon this occasion probably the largest assemblage of persons ever seen in Pennsylvania. So, if the proper spirit is manifested by our citizens here upon the spot with every advantage in their favor as to accessibility, &c., we may look forward to the gala week of the State Fair as a time when we may see the farm and the farmer, the mechanic and his mechanism, the garden and its flowers, the country and the city all mingling in a common cause and vieing with each other in a spirited emulation for the good of our common country.

THE full returns from Kentucky on the ticket for Judges throughout the State show the Democracy to have a majority of 6,568.

A FEW LIES.—The Gazette has had the hardihood to say that at the Democratic mass meeting three cheers were given for Louis Napoleon! A more infamous lie no paper can utter. No such thing ever occurred in a Democratic meeting in this country. It is the Democratic party that is ever opposed to all despots. Again: The Gazette says Mr. Bowen while speaking was asked how many slaves he had; and gave an answer to the question. It could be proven by two hundred persons on and about the stand that no such question was asked, or such answer given. We received a note from Mr. Bowen on the morning he left in which he declares that he never heard such a question, if it was asked, and gave no such answer, and made no remark of that import. Mr. Bowen's speech must have produced profound impressions to have alarmed the Republicans so much.

The Gazette then proceeds to quote from the Charleston Mercury language that no man in the North approves. But no such things are said as the Gazette pretends.

The laboring classes will never be deceived by such an infamous sheet as the Gazette. They know that it is the Democratic party that has ever stood by the working men in this country; and under Democratic policy and laws they have prospered as in no other land.

We find in the Journal, too, the same lie repeated that Louis Napoleon was cheered. Is it possible that papers that will publish such falsehoods can have any influence with the honest masses of the people? We believe not. These lies are but the desperate devices of despairing tricksters who see defeat staring them in the face.

We have complete returns in an official form of the recent election in Missouri. The aggregate vote for Governor and Lieutenant Governor is as follows:

FOR GOVERNOR.

Truston Polk, anti-Benton, dem.	46,889
Robert C. Ewing, K. N.	40,578
Thos. H. Benton, dem.	37,527

FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR.

Hancock Jackson, anti Benton, dem.	41,017
Williams Newland, K. N.	41,295
Col. Kelly, Benton dem.	33,964

The Know Nothing candidate for Lieutenant Governor, it will be seen, is elected by 188 plurality. The other State officers elected are anti-Benton democrats, viz: Secretary of State, Benjamin F. Massey; Register of Lands, Geo. W. Houston; Attorney General, Ephraim B. Ewing; Superintendent of Public Schools, W. B. Stark; Auditor, Wm. F. Budlington; Treasurer, A. W. Morrison.

DESPERATION.—Such desperate efforts as are being made to get up a great procession on Wednesday next were never seen before. The Democrats made no such efforts, satisfied that the people of this country have become a little too intelligent to be convinced by shows and banners. They got a good meeting with little exertion, and are satisfied that it did good. Sound argument is the Democratic weapon this year, and it will prevail. The working masses think themselves a little better than the negroes yet, and will not help in a great scheme to elevate the negro race to centre political and social equality with themselves. The cause is a bad one that depends solely on the length of a procession.

MAINE.—It seems that the Maine question is not settled yet: that is, how Maine will go in November. The Boston Advertiser, a Fremont paper, says:

"It will be scarcely safe to draw any inferences as to the probable result of the Presidential elections in Maine or elsewhere, from the issue of the elections in that State of next Monday, because it is well known that the local politics of Maine, are complicated and embarrassed by personal and by jealousies which will not enter into the Presidential contest."

Hamlin evidently enjoyed a large degree of personal popularity among the Democrats, and many would not abandon him even after his election. But when it comes to abolitionism and Fremont free-beef-ism they may take a sober second thought, and wheel about again.

WONDERFUL.—The Fremonters called a meeting at Bridgeville, in Upper St Clair township, for Saturday last. They privately invited a dozen. Had we known it, a Democratic speaker would have been there. Mr Morgan was there for the Fillmoreites, and they made him open the debate. Gazam and Pleeson answered. There were but thirty or forty hearers present, and one man told us that Morgan was "too many" for "the Doctor." We wish a Democratic speaker had been there.

"Thirty or forty present"——

Let us know next time, neighbors.

DISGUSTING.—If anything can disgust the sober and sensible people of this country it must be such senseless lies as appeared in the Journal of Saturday as an extract from the Philadelphia Bulletin. The purport of it is that, it is said, that "Buchanan is to be withdrawn." A more idiotic and transparent lie never appeared even in the Gazette. That the Journal should retail it is amazing. A Fremonter said on Saturday that "such fool stories do their party ten times more harm than good, because everybody knows they are lies."

A MEETING of the bill holders of the late Valley Bank of Maryland was held in New York on Thursday evening in the Tabernacle. It was stated, on authority, that no loss would be sustained by the bill holders, as all the notes would be redeemed. A committee was appointed to investigate the matter, and reported medial measures.

The "Wild Woman of Texas," who was the subject of so much newspaper excitement in Cincinnati some month ago, but who was subsequently removed to a Lunatic Asylum under the impression that she was only insane, has since been discharged as cured. She has recovered her power of language and states that she is a native of Missouri, 23 years of age, and is the mother of two children. Her father removed to Western Texas while yet young, whither she has been sent to join her children.

Hon Isaac E. Heister, who heads the ticket placed in nomination by the Democracy of Lancaster county on Wednesday, was a member of the thirty-third Congress, and was elected by the Whigs. The names of a dozen old line Whigs who were once the leaders of the opposition in the Old Whig Guard, are published as earnestly advocating the election of Mr. Buchanan.

LET it ever be borne in mind that there was peace in Kansas four weeks ago; and that the "ruffian" Lane then led an abolition army into Kansas and begun a civil war, and now there is commotion and bloodshed. Who begun it? Abolitionists. For what? To deceive the people, and try and elect a rogue President.

BACKED OUT.—A Fremont man on Saturday offered to bet from $25 to $5,00 that Fremont would get two votes to Fillmore's one in Pennsylvania. A Fillmore man immediately put up $370. The Fremonter backed out and left. The names of the parties can be given.

P. T. BARNUM sailed for Europe last week, with "Little Cordelia Howard" and her parents. He goes out as their agent, at a salary of $1,500 per annum—at least, such is the rumor. The speculation, in Barnum's hands, will no doubt pay well.

THE Democracy of New York city held their primary elections on Thursday afternoon. The delegates from all the wards but two are in favor of the re-nomination of Fernando Wood for Mayor. He will be elected by an immense majority.

WHAT has become of the Indianapolis Sentinel? We cannot keep posted on the Hoosier State politics without this reliable Democratic paper, and for some time it has not made its appearance.

A Warning Voice to Naturalized Citizens.

PITTSBURGH, September 12, 1856.

Messrs. Editors:—Believing that many persons of foreign birth are led away by an impulse, under the present feverish excitement of politics, that is neither for their own good nor the perpetuity of the national compact under which we live, I would in all candor address my fellow adopted citizens of the United States by the naturalization laws thereof, and say that we, in the first place, are bound by our oath of allegiance to the Constitution to neither support nor maintain any doctrine that would in any wise tend toward its overthrow by word or deed, and that any candidate before the people of this great nation asking our suffrage is in no case to be considered worthy of our votes unless that State of next Monday, because it is well known that the local politics of Maine, are complicated and embarrassed by personal and by jealousies which will not enter into the Presidential contest."

Hamlin evidently enjoyed a large degree of personal popularity among the Democrats, and many would not abandon him even after his election. But when it comes to abolitionism and Fremont free-beef-ism they may take a sober second thought, and wheel about again.

Fearful Ride Down a Spur of the Alleghany Mountains.

STAGE UPSET—PERILOUS SITUATION AND MIRACULOUS ESCAPE FROM DEATH!

On the morning of the 2d inst., at half-past 2 o'clock, a party, twenty-one in number, left the White Sulphur Springs for the terminus of the Central Railroad. All went on pleasantly until about 12 or Lo'clock in the day, and shortly after commencing the descent of Morris mountain, when it became alarmingly apparent to the passengers in the advance coach that the horses were running away; and to increase their terror the driver was seen rolling in the dust. The horses, thus left unchecked, went dashing on in in their mad career, the coach reeling from side to side under its heavy top load first upon the two wheels nearest the precipice and then inclining in an opposite direction, until at last it was thrown violently over, mangling and bruising, and crushing the limbs of the terrified passengers, killing one horse and breaking a leg of another. To add to the confusion of the scene, the horses which were not disabled, continued to drag the wreck over the ground, while the occupants were indiscriminately piled up and unable to help themselves. The thrilling incidents which followed are thus described by a passenger:

I could neither speak nor move to help myself, being completely paralyzed with horror, though I could see distinctly all that was going on. Two or three persons were on top of me, and I verily believed that all my companions were killed. At this critical moment, the rear coach came dashing down the mountain, as if in hot pursuit. A young man who occupied a deck seat leaped off, without waiting for the horses to slacken their speed, and hastened to our assistance. Jumping upon the upturned coach, he extricated the only lady passenger, and calling a Mr. Davis to aid him, supported her to a seat in the coach they had left. Leaving her under the charge of some ladies, he returned to the rescue of others. I have since learned that the name of this noble hearted gentleman is Morrison, a resident of New York. He had under his care three ladies—Mrs. Hugar, and two Misses Hugar, of South Carolina, who also rendered efficient service in administering to the necessities of the wounded. Mr Morrison seemed to be the only gentleman present who was equal to the emergencies of the occasion. He gave directions in a prompt and decisive manner, and but for his energy I verily believe nothing would have been done for our relief.

Water was asked for to bathe the head of the wounded lady, and the reply was that none could be obtained. Mr. M. at once found a broken demijohn of sulphur water in the coach, and from it procured a sufficient quantity to answer the purpose. It was found impossible at that time to get by with the rear stage, as two of our horses were killed, one having had his brains dashed out, and the other a leg broken; the throat of the latter being afterwards cut to put an end to his sufferings. The task was at length completed, and we reached the hotel a mile below, where everything was done by the proprietor, Mr Woodward, and his assistants, to alleviate the suffering of the wounded. Here, too, Mr. Morrison's suggestions were of great value. He succeeded in having a boy mounted upon a horse, and despatched a messenger to Dr. Cruup, at the Hot Springs, and another to the agent of the line for an extra coach; and the promptness with which they responded to the call was beyond apprehension. In an almost incredibly short space of time they were seen coming at full speed, in a buggy, and an extra coach following at the same rate.

With regard to the wounded, I may state that Judge Fry seemed to be more severely hurt than any one else, his injuries being mostly about the head. A lady whose name I understood to be Gray, from Staunton, was delirious from the effects of a very severe contusion on the left temple. One gentleman, said to be from Norfolk, had both hands and arms dreadfully mashed and one eye severely cut. The lady passenger, who was traveling under the charge of Judge Fry, had a severe cut over one eye, and her left arm very much bruised. I was hurt internally. All, however, are doing well, and will, no doubt recover.

NATURALIZED CITIZENS READ!

A Fremont meeting was held in Lignite, Westmoreland county, on the 30th ult., at which distinguished knock Nothing fellow townsman, Gen. Wm F. Johnston, spoke in behalf of "bleeding Kansas" and against the Dutch and Irish. Hear this great Fremont orator, naturalized citizens! This man who will most probably be a cabinet officer under a Republican President. We quote from the Westmoreland American Herald, a paper which has the Fremont and Dayton flag at its mast head:

"Gov. Johnston was loudly called for. He took the stand in the midst of loud cheering; and proceed ed to deliver about the soldiers talk that he ever been heard in these parts on political matters. It was cool-many, he said, for political speakers to moderate the intelligence of their audiences, but he would appeal to the reason of his and by their reason he hoped to be judged. He then examined the platforms of the different parties now before the people. He would not create any new issues for himself or his party, nor would he put any upon his opponents, but those of their own making. The platform of the party to which he belonged was as broad as the Union and as deep rooted in the hearts of the people as the Constitution. In that platform there was a plank on which to base the rights of free speech and free thought; a plank in opposition to the corrupt influences of human slavery. The American party was accused of proscribing men on account of their religious belief. This accusation was false and unjust. No man was proscribed for his religious opinions, but when any body of men bring down their congress to the political arena, and throw their weight as a political body on one side or the other, he for one would expose them to the bitter gaze of the world—that any one who vowed allegiance to any foreign power could not be a good American citizen. No intelligence when the Romans vowed to the Pope were sent to be SOLD on record, but give him power over their spirit, for him bind the fetters on their necks, and it is evil not then who caused the worthless clay. With regard to foreigners he had no objections to their right of citizenship after remaining in this country for a sufficient length of time. But why allow them greater privileges than our own children? Our laws compel the lad who has acquired a love of liberty at his mother's breast, whose father's lips have taught him of his country's institutions, who has sung the songs of his country's glory, and whose bosom has beaten with proud emotion at the mention of his country's greatness—our laws compel him to wait until such time as his judgement is sufficiently matured before he is thought to be a safe counsellor in the affairs of the nation, then why not require the same of him who has been born in a land of oppression, and whose first teachings were to obey and revere his masters. Here he would throw himself by believing that their interests did not suffer by the influence of foreigners let them vote how they pleased. Pennsylvania had been taught another lesson by experience. When Michigan was admitted into the Union, and foreigners were allowed to vote within her borders without being naturalized, the first law that was made of her Senators and Representatives was to strike a deadly blow at our most vital interests by a repeal of the tariff of '42."

WE find in the London Leader, a Journal conducted with masterly ability, by Thornton Hunt, Esq., the following to which we invite the careful attention of our readers. They will make their own comments in their own way. The editor of the Leader says:—

"We know that the abolitionists of the Garrisons, and men of that stamp, has been fostered and excited by the Abolitionist incendiaries of Great Britain, who would have sacrificed the American Republic rather than not carry their own dogmas in their own. The latest news from the United States indicates us to suppose that the external intrigues, which have found their accomplices in the Union, are not entirely without prospect of success. Already the politicians of England and Europe are reckoning that the American people will elect an anti-slavery President, who will send round the brand of discord, as the burning branch used to be sent to rouse the clans of Scotland."

[From the Cincinnati Enquirer.]

The Black Republican Ticket Falling to Pieces in Hamilton County.

Of the Black Republican ticket that was nominated at Carthage, the following have declined to accept: T. C. Day, Member of Congress, and all the County Judges, Fox, Hayed and Van Hamm. The latter gentleman is for Fillmore, and has accepted the nomination upon that ticket. The Black Republicans are in consternation as they hear one after another of their nominees refusing to accept and going over to the ranks of their enemies. They are beginning to have well-grounded fears as to whether their organization can be kept up until after the October election. We very much doubt whether they can find men who, with defeat staring them in the face so overwhelmingly, will consent to be placed upon their ticket. There is a stampede from the ranks of the "Woolly Horse" to those of Fillmore all over the State, and it really looks as if the supporters of that gentleman were to be our only political opponents.

FASHION.—We have it on the infallible authority of Jenkins, that it is no longer correct to say, "the height of the fashion." When ladies wish to convey the idea that any of their acquaintance is at all hien nize, they affirm that "she was dressed in the full breadth of the fashion."

[From the Philadelphia Ledger.]

Too Much Prosperity.

According to a Correspondent of the New York Tribune Nebraska is enjoying a most blissful state of prosperity and peace. There is no press there inclined to stir up discord and set the citizens at war with each other. The correspondent says:

"But we have some encouragement. During the past summer many good men and true have come into the Territory, and opinion begins to be felt, and some are organizing for the conflict, and stand up manfully for the right."

The writer evidently envies the citizens of Nebraska their prosperity. He is so much of a philanthropist that he cannot bear to see one community enjoying more happiness than its neighbors. He would therefore like to introduce into Nebraska the Kansas customs and amusements, some of the wild sports of that territory, where men hunt each other at nights as the boys do raccoons, burning them out of their retreats, and taking their scalps as trophies. War is a delightful repast at best, but when between brothers, it is joyfully exhilirating and eminently humane and Christianlike. Hurrah, then, for Sharpe's rifles and revolvers! Let the ploughshare rust in the furrow, and brutal ferocity see how much murder and rapine it can spread over the land. Let this be done in the name of religion and humanity, otherwise, when the land is made desolate, and the ground is red with the blood of the inhabitants, the voice of posterity might call it furious fanaticism, and discord bred of evil passions.

We have no desire to injure the molasses trade, but the New London Chronicle states as a fact, that a Mr. Richards, who keeps a store on the Hartford road, a few days since found in one of his empty molasses hogsheads a human skeleton, the remains, no doubt, of a negro who was upturned coach, he extricated the only lady passenger, and calling a Mr. Davis to aid him, supported her to a seat in the coach they had left. Leaving her under the charge of some ladies, he returned to the rescue of others. I have since learned that the name of this noble hearted gentleman is Morrison, a resident of New York. No man was proscribed for his religious opinions, but when any body of men bring down their congress to the political arena, and throw their weight as a political body on one side or the other, he for one would expose them to the bitter gaze of the world—that any one who vowed allegiance to any foreign power could not be a good American citizen. No intelligence when the Romans vowed to the Pope were sent to be SOLD on record, but give him power over their spirit, for him bind the fetters on their necks, and it is evil not then who caused the worthless clay. With regard to foreigners he had no objections to their right of citizenship after remaining in this country for a sufficient length of time. But why allow them greater privileges than our own children? Our laws compel the lad who has acquired a love of liberty at his mother's breast, whose father's lips have taught him of his country's institutions, who has sung the songs of his country's glory, and whose bosom has beaten with proud emotion at the mention of his country's greatness—our laws compel him to wait until such time as his judgement is sufficiently matured before he is thought to be a safe counsellor in the affairs of the nation, then why not require the same of him who has been born in a land of oppression, and whose first teachings were to obey and revere his masters. Here he would throw himself by believing that their interests did not suffer by the influence of foreigners let them vote how they pleased. Pennsylvania had been taught another lesson by experience. When Michigan was admitted into the Union, and foreigners were allowed to vote within her borders without being naturalized, the first law that was made of her Senators and Representatives was to strike a deadly blow at our most vital interests by a repeal of the tariff of '42."

WE find in the London Leader, a Journal conducted with masterly ability, by Thornton Hunt, Esq., the following to which we invite the careful attention of our readers. They will make their own comments in their own way. The editor of the Leader says:—

"We know that the abolitionists of the Garrisons, and men of that stamp, has been fostered and excited by the Abolitionist incendiaries of Great Britain, who would have sacrificed the American Republic rather than not carry their own dogmas in their own. The latest news from the United States indicates us to suppose that the external intrigues, which have found their accomplices in the Union, are not entirely without prospect of success. Already the politicians of England and Europe are reckoning that the American people will elect an anti-slavery President, who will send round the brand of discord, as the burning branch used to be sent to rouse the clans of Scotland."

The Black Republican Ticket Falling to Pieces in Hamilton County.

Of the Black Republican ticket that was nominated at Carthage, the following have declined to accept: T. C. Day, Member of Congress, and all the County Judges, Fox, Hayed and Van Hamm. The latter gentleman is for Fillmore, and has accepted the nomination upon that ticket. The Black Republicans are in consternation as they hear one after another of their nominees refusing to accept and going over to the ranks of their enemies. They are beginning to have well-grounded fears as to whether their organization can be kept up until after the October election. We very much doubt whether they can find men who, with defeat staring them in the face so overwhelmingly, will consent to be placed upon their ticket. There is a stampede from the ranks of the "Woolly Horse" to those of Fillmore all over the State, and it really looks as if the supporters of that gentleman were to be our only political opponents.

FASHION.—We have it on the infallible authority of Jenkins, that it is no longer correct to say, "the height of the fashion." When ladies wish to convey the idea that any of their acquaintance is at all hien nize, they affirm that "she was dressed in the full breadth of the fashion."

[From the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette.]

A PERFUMED BREATH.—What lady or gentleman would remain under the curse of a disagreeable breath when by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers" as a dentifrice you'd not only render it sweet but leave the teeth white as alabaster? Many persons do not know their breath is bad, and the subject is so delicate their friends will never mention it. Four or single drop of the "Balm" on your tooth-brush and wash the teeth night and morning. A fifty cent bottle will last a year.

A BEAUTIFUL COMPLEXION may easily be acquired by using the "Balm of a Thousand Flowers." It will remove tan pimples and freckles from the skin, leaving it of a soft and roseate hue. Wet a towel, pour on two or three drops, and wash the face night and morning.

SHAVING MADE EASY.—Wet your shaving-brush in either warm or cold water, pour on two or three drops of "Balm of a Thousand Flowers," rub the beard well and it will make a beautiful lather much facilitating the operation of shaving. Price only fifty cents. For sale by Fetridge & Co., proprietors; and R. K. Fahnestock & Co., Fleming Bros., R. Sellers & Co., Dr. G. H. Keyser and H. Miner & Co., Pittsburgh and Beckham & McKennan, Allegheny city.

☞ Astonishing Effects of one Bottle, in an aggravated case of DYSPEPSIA.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29, 1855.

Dear Sir—During the last five years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia in its most aggravated form, and have used, without receiving any benefit therefrom, every remedy recommended for that disease. In fact, I was afflicted so badly that on many occasions I was in great danger of dying from suffocation, in consequence of the rise of matter in my throat, and all my efforts for relief were in vain. I was at last induced, through the recommendation of several of my friends, to try "Hoofland's German Bitters," and I assure you the amount of relief I have received, from the use of only one bottle, is astonishing, and compels me to say that I would not be without the Bitters for any money, as I know, through their use, enjoying better health than I have known for many years. Very respectfully, yours,

ELIZABETH GAUL,
No. 12 Carter's alley.

☞ A Public Benefactor—This appellation can be applied with truth to Donald Kennedy, the discoverer of Kennedy's Medical Discovery, for who can lay higher claim to the title than he who rescues his fellow man from disease and restores him to health. The Discovery has become justly celebrated for its cures of humors, and the proprietor is daily receiving communications from individuals, stating that they have been cured of diseases that he does not mention as curable in his circular. This is owing to the fact that many diseases are brought on by humors, such as Consumption, Dissipation, &c. We hope that the afflicted will be wise and timely in the use of so desirable an article.
