JAMES P. BARR, Editor and Proprietor PITTSBURGH:

THE CASE OF MUNROE STEWART. The confessions of Henry Fife and Charlotte Jones made before their death warrants had been issued by Governor Pollock, were considered by that officer as entitled to so much weight, that he fixed the day of execution two weeks subsequently to that of his fellow con. innecent victs, who on Friday suffered the extreme pen-

Under the circumstances of the case, it was em-Munroe Stewart was delayed by the Executive of the State. The occurrences which have taken place since his conviction, have convinced us that he is not guilty of the crime of murder, and this we believe to be the opinion of nine tenths of this community who have watched the progress of the trial and the events which have succeeded it. It would be repugnant to our sense of right and justice, and regard for the public welfare, to become the apologist for crime. If we believed Stews art guilty we would say, "let him die the death." But to our minds there is more than a reasonable doubt of his guilt, and poor and obscure as he is, without interest of wealth or duty to speak out boldly in his favor. Others may assume the position of volunteer detectives and pseudo prosecutors, if it suits their self-esteem and the bias of their prejudices. They may argue guilt from unproven statements, and mysterious inuendoes of knowledge of circomstances of which neither the court, the jury, nor the public are aware, as the Dispatch has done. We believe Stewart to be guiltless of the crime with which he is charged, and whatever benefit the influence of our position as the editor of a public journal can give him, he shall have. Of the fairness of the trial, and the verdict of the jury, under the testimony admitted, the prisoner has no cause to complain, for it must be recol ected that the first confession of Charlotte Jones in which she charged Stewart as an accomplice, was admitted in evidence on joint trial of the three. It was competent testimony against herself, provided it was not procured by holding out hopes of benefit, but it was not competent as regards either Stewart or Fife. The court so instructed the jury, and the letters A and B were used in reading it, in place of the names of the defendants. But will any one pretend to say that this confess -sion did not have an irresistible and overs whelming influence upon the minds of the jury in regard to Fife and Stewart? It is imposs sible that it could be otherwise. The human mind even when employed upon the solemn investigations of a capital case, is not capable of such nice abstractions and delicate distinctions as the law presumes. It is not common sense to suppose it. It will be recollected that when the Supreme Court affirmed the sentence of the inferior tribunal, two of the five judges dissented as to the propriety of the admission of Charlotte Jones' confession, and the law of alibi as laid down by Judge M'Clure. Both these points had on the trial a momentous bearing upon the case of Stewart. Suspicious circumstances were thrown around him by the verbal testimony, but during the time when the murder must have been committed, his presence; with those who have already suffered proven. We have carefully resexamined the testimony upon the trial, and excluding the confession of Charlotte Jones, we can most readily conceive that a totally innocent party, who may have been an intimate associate of Fife, as Stewart was, could have been enveloped in all the web of suspicion which surs rounded Stewart. The intimate companion and friend of Fife; with him up to almost the the other day copied from a New York paper very moment that he started upon his murderhim early on the next morning -all these facts of complicity and community of interest But there is a hiatus in the chain of circum. The reason why Charlotte Jones inculpated Stewart in her first confession to Mayor inently wise and proper that the execution of Weaver, is fully and satisfactorily given in her last one. She "had a great dislike for Stewart," because she believed he was trying to get Fife, her paramour, and for whom she aps pears to have had the strongest kind of attachment, to leave her. It was a sufficient excuse to a person of her low order of intellect and blunted moral sense to "swear to a lie," that she sought to screen her lover, and be revenged upon her enemy. At death's door she has given this as the true reason of her first false statement, and we believe her.

There was a fourth party arrested at the time of the murder, it will be recollected, whose conduct, unexplained, would have been quite as suspicious as that of Stewart. We allude to Gardiner, also like Fife and Stewart, a shoemaker, who left McKeesport on the morning of the murder in a very mysterious manner, but fortunately was able is much more suspicious than that of cautious

Next Friday week is the day fixed by Governor Pollock for the execution of Munroe Stewart. His respite or pardon is in the hands of Governor Packer. After a careful exam ination of all the facts, and after calm, and; we believe, unprejudiced reflection upon them. we think the case of Munroe Stewart is such an one as imperatively calls for the interference of the Executive. The facts which have induced in our minds a belief of the prisoner's innocence, have many of them occurred since his trial, conviction and sentence. Had it been possible to present his case in its present aspect to the minds of the jury who tried him. it is morally certain that he would have been acquitted on the grounds of "reasonable doubt," if no other. That doubt can now be presented only to the mind of his Excellency, the Governor, with whom the fate of the prisoner for life or death rests. We believe that the ends of public justice, the majesty of the law, the good of society, will have been fully subserved by a full pardon in this case. W know that strong efforts will be made by those to whom the public welfare and respect for the laws is most dear, and who have no interest to the penalty of their admitted crime, was not | gain to induce Gov. Sonora, Tuolumne County, Jan. 18, 1858 oresent, I take the liberty of dropping you a few lines in regard to matters and things in this of the California Legislature convened at Sacranight expectations for a new and better order of affairs. Much discussion has taken place all cancel this indebtedness. A great many he the proposed taxation of mining claims. litherto they have been exempt from any taxaion whatever. The members of the Legislature om the mining counties will oppose the passage f a bill to this effect; but those from the agricultural districts will favor it. They are pretty equal in number in the Assembly, the mineral listricts having a majority of one; but in the Senate the miners have a large majority. The miners are very bitter in their denunciation of the proposed plan of taxing their claims, contending that the State has no legal right to tax the mineral lands, as it does not belong to the State. A great diversity of sentiment is mani-The expressions which Stewart made use of fest all over the State with regard to this matter, and it is thought by some that it will cause a aplit in the Democratic ranks, if adopted as a Democratic measure. A law of this description will doubtless be passed at no distant day, if not by the present Lagislature, for it will not be long efore the agricultural interests will be paramount to all others. Our Governor, Col. Weller, in his inaugural, lately delivered at Sacramento takes decided ground in favor of the taxation of mining claims.
