THE DAILY POST

THURSDAY MORNING FEBRUARY 18 [From the London Times, Jan. 25]

The American Horse-Tamer. On Saturday M. Rarey, an American, now on a visit to this c unity, whose skill in taming the horse and completely subjecting him how ever will, victors or intractable, to his will and mastery, is beginning to attract public attention was afforded an opportunity of exhibiting his pecultar powers in this capacity before the Queen. the Prince Consort, the Princess Royal, the Prince of Wales, Prince Altred, and other members of the Reyal family, with the ladies of the Court and most of the foreign Princes and distinguished visitors now in London, including IRON CITY COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, of Prussia, Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia Prince Albert of Prussis, Prince Frederick Albert of Prussia Prince Adalbert of Prussia, | Saxe Coburg and Goths, the Duke of Brabant, Prince Frederick William of Prussia, the Prince Prince Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, the Duke of The Class will meet on Monday and Thursday evenings, in: Saturds mornings of each week.

On being called in again, in less than a quarter of an hour, they were amazed to find the animal prostrate on his side among the straw in the stall, with his Organized under the General Insurance Law, with a Cost Capital of $100,000, privileged to increase to 200,000 in was everng without the loan symptom lying beside aim. Mr. Rarey remained with car in this position for some time, during which e knocked the borse's fore and hind hoofs to gether, made a pillow of his thighs, and finally got up and ran a heavy wheel barrow up to and around the still prostrate creature, without proucing in him the nightest sensation of fear. On a subsequent day, in the presence of anmer company, the mastery of Mr Rarey over his same horse, which he had seen in the interval, had become so complete that when laid on egainst his shoulder in sight of the horse and a carrow run up it. He never moved A drum was also beaten on his back, and an umbrella opened in his very face; but he remained stock still, and evinced no sign of apprehension. The -ame horse was afterward put through a course a similar treatment at Windsor, before the O seen. The next subject on which Mr Rarey was a young unbroken colt, brought from a farm of Prince Amert in the vicin ty, which had never been handled in any way, and which Mr. Barey and never before seen. This solit was led into ore riding-school at Windsor in a halter, and left ne with the horse-tamer, who intimated a wish hat the company should retire for a lew minutes of the further end of the building. This request, ought to be stated was not dictated by any eling on his part that the treatment to which e was about to subject the animal was of a kind which the spectators would witness without any concion of pain, but sumply because, for the presut, and for purposes of his own, Mr. Rarey wishes to preserve his own searet. After the apse of about a quarter of an hour the Royal earty were summoned to return, and then they saw as in the former case this wild colt lying on

> After Mr. Rerey had parted with the colt, a andsome bay charger, belonging to the Prince-Consort, was brought to him in the riding-school. This horse one of high spirit, which has always shown great restlessness while being mounted, and a constant tendency to take fright would, it was thought, almost dety Mr. Rarcy's attempts to tame mm; but the result was as successful as in each of the previous instances. In a short time the horse-tamer had him down also, as submissive as all the rest, and was seen orawling. among his legs, sitting upon his shoulders and ips, and knocking his hoofs together. Then, olding the horse rise, which he did instantly. Mr. Rarey jumped upon his back and held by turns an umbrella over his head and beat a tat-too on a drum, the hitherto preud, restless mimal, now owning subjection to a new master, "emaining the while almost as motionless as a statue. All this, of course, made a great im pression on the spectators, but among some of bem a question naturally arose whether Mr. Rarey's treatment was capable of being commuqual success, or whether it was a thing peculiar himself, for in the latter case the public bene-

to accrue from it would be comparatively lim-ted. It is said that Sullivan, the horse-whisp erer, as he was designated, from the extraordinay power he accquired over the animal either the ground, and the horse-tamer by his side, who sat upon him and handled his legs, feet and every other part by turns—a process during which the creature remained wholly passive.

ould not or would not impart his secret to any me, and the inference among horsemsn has long been that it was incommunicable. To show that Mr. Rarey's power is not a thing personal to himself, he has, since his exhibition f it at Windsor, communicated the secret of it o Major General Sir Richard Airey, Lord Alfred Paget, and Col. Hood, under the most stringent obligations, of course, that they will not theologe it to others; and Lord Alfred Paget, who is now as much of a horse-tamer as Mr. Rarey, on Saturday gave a succe-sful exemplificaion of his skill before her Majesty, the Prince susort, and their august visitors, taking for his urject a beautiful dapple gray pany belonging o the Prince of Wales . Lord Afred was left done with the pony for a few minutes in the riling school, and on the admission of the royal earty it was prostrate upon the ground with his lordship sitting, caressing it, handling its feet and legs, resting on its haunches, and in all resaid legs, resong to a manner proving its com-spects treating it in a manner proving its com-ple subjection to him. That over, Mr. Rarey appeared with the black norse from Anderson's Piccadilly, to which reference has been made, and his mastery over which he showed in a variety of ways. Placing himself at one end of riding-school, he called to the animal, which he had lett at the other, and it immediately. ately cantered toward him is a playful manner. It lay down at his bidding, or followed him like a dog round the building. When down, a plank was laid upon his shoulder, up which Lord Alfred Paget ran a wheelbarrow. Finally, when
