JOHN MINOR BOTTS-VIRGINIA CHIV ALRY. Everybody has heard of the distinguished Virginian who "slept with John Tyler," and saved the Union, but everybody does not know that the aforesaid John Minor has been traveling in Europe, and has "spared no pains nor expense" to make a bigger fool of himself abroad than he ever did at home. According to the New York Times, a venomous letter writer has been taking notes of John's proeccdings abroad. This writer says that in the month of December last Mr. Botts was in Rome, beholding the sights of the Eternal City, and behaving himself, doubtless, as became an ex-member of the American Congress, and a representative of the chivalry of Virginia. Little could be have dreamed as he lounged through the galleries of the Borghese and the Doria, the Corsini and the Barberini, that a demon was by his side, penning away his name and fame in "private letters" to some cruel correspondent at New York! This subtle caluminator begins his attack by expressing "his amusement" with Mr. Bottsas if a Virginian orator were sent abroad, a blind Samson, to make mirth for Philistines like himself-and then goes on to describe the feats by which Mr. Botts had succeeded in tickling his jaded fancy. He asserts in the first place, that Mr. Botts had made the tour of Europe, like a Manchester bagman, skim. Manchester, Massachusetts. ming in three months through "Norway. Sweden, Russia, Denmark, Austria, Germany, Prussia. France and Italy "-that he traveled from Florence to Naples, "seeing" both cities, within a single week-that he gave "two days" to the capital of Christendom and that he intended to "do Switzerland" in three days of the midwinter season! Not content however with thus branding his distinguished countryman as an ignoramous of the first water, and a foolish spendthrift of time and money to no decent purpose, the battlements. anonymous goes on to say that Mr. Botts peculiar glory for achieving this humble imi-George Francis Train and a

Thereupon, we are told. " he cultivation, the Times goes on to remark: "That after such a story the author thereo should betray his animus by charging Mr. Botts with uttering opinions upon the fine arts, and with the attention of writing a book, is natural enough. Of course, the wish was father to the thought of the latter allegation which is mani festly borrowed from the Book of Job. however much Mr. Botts may despise his traducer, we, in behalf of the public, have a right to hold him to account for his slanderous attack upon the American character. If a disappoint ed milliner, like Mrs. Trollope, or a sullen devotes of brandy and water, like Captain Marryatt. had written these things of an American legislator, we should know how to forgive it. But in the name of the multitudes of Americans of every condition in life, who vindicate their right to self-respect by respect for others-who are mod est and manly and decent, whether at home or abroad-who travel, when they travel, to learn and enjoy, not to exhibit themselves as walking caricatures to the derision of mankind, we protest agaist this pounding of Mr John Minor Botts over the shoulders of a whole peopleagainst this confusion of "Yankee smartness" with Yahoo impertinence, and against this presentation to foreign nations of the Hon. Fayette County and the Kansas Question. We learn that a large and ethusiastic Democratic meeting was held at Brownsville, on Saturday last, at which the subject of the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution was considered. Maj. Wesley Hon. John L. Dawson made an able and elaborate argument in support of the principles of the administration and warmly urged the passage of the resolutions.

Its advantages over other foaps are:—1st. It is cheaper

Its advantages over other Soaps are:—lst. It is cheaper to use, one pound being equal to three of common rosin Soap. 21. Half the time need only be eccupied in washing when this Soap is used in place of other Soap. 31. Laber in washing can be nearly depensed with, as the clothes will require little if any rubbing, thus avoiding their wear on the wash-board. 4th. Boiling the clothes is nuncessary when this Soap is used, and hard or ealt water answers equally as well as soft. 5th. Printers, Machinists, Painters and others, and it far superior to other Soaps. It speedily removes grease, tar, paint, printers ink and dirt from the hands, leaving the skin soit, and free from chapping.

To avoid the labor of rubbing the clothes, and the use of the wash-board, the following directions should be followed:
For the washing of eight or ten of a family, take one gallon of hot water; put the clothes into a tub containing about ten gallons of warm water; pour in the dissolved Soap, and stir thoroughly. Let them soak twenty to thirty minutes, wring out, and riuse in warm water once, cold water twice. A very dirty wrist-band, or seam, or grease, specis, may require a slight rubbing, but otherwise the clothes will come out clean and white, without rubbing of boiling. Cold water may be used in place of hot, requiring about double time in soaking.
