MONEY MATTERS.

The weekly statement of averages of the Philadelphia banks for the past week presents the somewhat anomalous condition of an increase in every item. In some instances the increase is small, but still all the items are larger. The statement is, however, one indicate ing increased strength without any material increase of business. The loans show an inresources aggregate $684,356. These three items of liabilities have increased as follows: 520 less than the increase of resources for the | taken degrees. week. A NATIONAL SAVING. In February, 1857, the value of foreign goods imported into New York was $25,000 .-000. In February, 1858, it was but $9,000,-000, being a reduction of almost two-thirds. In February, 1856, it was $16,000,000. The amount of importations for the present year is smaller than in any year since 1850. It is in articles of luxury and dry goods, which can very well be dispensed with, that the falling off has taken place. Our national bill of credit for 1858 will be mainly for necessities, and the consequence will be a large balance of trade in our favor, which will go to pay off previous indebteduess, and place us in a sound and healthy financial condition. The happiest results may be anticipated from this large item of national saving. Economy of taritfs.

creasing, a rate that will in a few years reduce the revenues derived from the public works to a point known to geometricians as infinity, and in Yankee Land as "the little end of nothing." It is a subject for serious consideration, from the data above furnished, whether a few years the State Canals will not have became so unproductive that it will be found impossible to sell or There is a kind of sand on the San Jacinto even give them away, if accompanied by a requirement to keep them open.

The history of public works of this character shows that as a source of income they cannot be relied on; that by the competion of railways they deteriorate in value; and that in the great improvement being made each year in modes of transportation, it is not improbable they will sconer or later become comparatively valueless. and Erie Canal have steadily decreased, until now they produce scarcely half the sum they did in lollars have been expended on their enlargement of Ohio, hardly pay the cost of keeping them in order, and from the figures given above it will be seen that those belonging to Pennsylvania are

Real Estate. In New York City real estate is appreciating as an investment for money, Cautious capi talists begin to be shy of the stock market, and in looking around for safer investments, 'vacant lots" and "eligible sites" begin to attract attention. The withdrawal of capital from unsafe speculations will cause a healthy increase in the value of real estate in all parts of the country. In Pittsburgh, where real estate has been for some years a "drug in the arket," eligible lots are beginning to be enquired after as a means of investment, and those who have property to dispose of will do well to make the fact known, by advertises

"Thank God, the day is not far distant when you will be chained down to Hell's brazen floor. and the Devil, with his three-pronged harpoon, will pierce your reeking heart, and pile the redhot cinders of black damnation upon you as high as the pyramids of Egypt, and fry out the pride of your fat to greass the gudgeons of hell."

SENATE. Mr. Crittenden spoke on the Kansas bill. He referred to the right of the people to govern themselves as a great principle, and applicable to the present tances. The President, he said, has recom mended, with unusual earnestness, the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. It was a question in his mind only of facts, whether the compton Constitution comes with such authority and sanction as to oblige us to recognize it as the Constitution of Kansas. He thought it did not. The evidence of Gov. Walker and Mr. Stanton show that it is against the will of an overwhelming ma-1851, notwithstanding seven or eight millions of jority of the people.

Mr. Crittenden resumed, contending that a majori ty of the people of Kansas should be allowed t aske such Constitution as they please; that, he said, is the great American principle; that is the principle of the South itself. He then spoke discursively on various topics. He was, he said, according to terms now used, a Southern Democrat; he had lived all his life in a Southern climate, and was ready to defend his rights there, but the same rights he would defend the rights of others. He re peated that he did not believe that Kansas could be a slave State. The South was deceived in that repect. Referring to the Missouri Compromise, he said it would have been better to let it stand. The South could gain nothing by it, nor the North, but is HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. The Utah memorial was ordered to be printed. rmy bill and debate upon it until it was disposed of which he supposed would be to-morrow. Mr. Pendleton advocated an increase in the regular army, stating its necessity if we expect the Executive to perform efficiently the duties invested in him by the Constitution.

Senator Crittenden's speech in the Senate is creating a sensation. The hall of the House is nearly empty, and all the Republican seats are vacant.

Mr. Pendleton spoke forcibly of the necessity of defending our extensive possessions against the Indians, some of whom are emisted to war by the Mortans. mons, who are themselves in rebellion. Incidental to the present necessity, Mr. Pendleton referred to the future, when these possessions will be largely ex-tended by the acquisitions of Cuba, Central America, Mexico, &c. He thought it was the duty of the government to demand peremptorily from Spain in Jem-nity for the past, and security for the future, and for failure to give it, to take Cuba. The other countries alluded to would all come in good time.

Mr. Humphrey Marshall replied to Messrs. Faulk. ner and Pendleton, complimenting the regular army for its bravery, and chivalry, and sense of honor, but favoring the employment of volunteers in the present emergency as the most ready and efficient force. Reruiting for regulars, he said, was a slow process while five regiments of volunteers are now ready fo service, and can march to morrow.

Mr. Bingham was opposed both to the majority bill for volunteers, and to Mr. Faulkner's substitute for additional regulars as at present advised, and would vote against the proposed increase either of volunteers or regulars, for he did not believe that the condition of affairs in Utah, Texas, or anywhere else, required it. The Mormons were told by the Democratic party that they might regulate their do nestic institutions in their own way, and they established polygamy. He wanted Congress to start in the right direction; let them first pass a law prohib iting polygamy in future, and let all peaceful reme dies be first exhausted before resorting to the arbitraments of the sword. If these fail, then resort to the conflict of arms. He thought that under present sircumstances, the House would be more within it STARCH. -30 boxes Rochester Pearl Starch for sale by [mrl6] HENRY H.
