Yet, however much we may appreciate their efforts, we cannot but believe that a change in the fire arrangements in our city would be beneficial It is more than probable that had we been provided with four or five steam engines, with properly organ ized and paid firemen, and a watch tower and alarm bell, the fire in this case would never have extended beyond the engine shop—and thus a sufficient amount of property would have been saved to purchase these engites and keep them in operation for a year. system is necessary for the protection of the property f our citizens. It may be expensive at first, but in the end it will prove a good investment. Alleged Forgery. Yesterday morning, a man named Robert Lafferty made information against William C. Boyard, charging him with forging his endorsements on several notes of hand. Lafferty states that some time in last February he discovered that there were certain promissory notes outstanding, purporting to be endorsed by him, which endorsements he found upon examination to be forged. One of these notes was drawn by William C. Bovard, and dated September 14th, 1857, payable to the order of John Getha, six months after date, for one hundred dollars, which note Lafferty saw in the hands of Gætha. Gætha also held another note dated December 7th, 1857, drawn by Bovard, and made payable to the order of Robert Lafferty, four months after date, for two hundred and twenty dollars. A third note was also held by Kramer & Rahm, dated September 30th, 1857, at four months, drawn by Bovord to the order of Wm. Irwin, and endorsed by him, for four hundred dollars. Lafferty swore that he believed Bovard had forged his name to these notes. A warrant was issued n this information, and Boyard was arrested, and after an examination held to bail in the sum of $1000. The most singular feature in this prosecution is that not one of the three notes was offered in evidence. There was, perhaps, sufficient evidence to bind the accued over, but we doubt whether the charge can be sustained before the Court without producing the notes. Boyard is a resident of the Sixth ward, and has hitherto borne an irreproacha-Coat Boats Sunk -- Four Lives Lost. On Wodnesday afternoon quite a number of coal boats left the city for below. Among these were three pair, one belonging to John Penney, one to Dravo & Son, and a pair of barges to Smithley & Co. Fifteen men were employed on these boats. Penney's boats were piloted by John Rupert and Daniel Pollard. About half past eleven o'clock, when they had reached Georgetown, the gale which had been blowing all evening increased in violence, and those who witnessed it say some of the waves were ten feet high. The bosts became unmanageable, and, in order to save themselves, eleven of the party got into a skiff and started for the shore, intending to return for the rest, but reached the land with difficulty, too late to be of any assistance to the others. Four were left on the boat; one of these, Robert Munkitrick, when he found the boat sinking, jumped into the river to swim to shore, but could not reach that point. We understand that the independent police, in imitation of the officers in the employ of the city, are about to provide themselves with stars to designate their office. Ритевонан, March 18, 1858. The anxiousty tooked-for opening of navigation has at length arrived, and since Monday our wharves have prosented quite an animated appearance. But few steamers have, as yet, gone out or arrived, but the busy hum of preparation gives in ileration of the advent of a prosperous spring business, and a more cheerful tone already pervades every department of trade. The demand for Pittsburgh manufactures from the West has greatly improved, and nearly all of our mills have resumed work. It is probable that all the steamers going out will have good loads, although there is not a large amount of Fastern merchandize awaiting shipment by the river.

The par-ties are prompt, because they bear interest from the date of the cervificate. The five per cents are held at $263 per cent, premium, and will, no doubt, be quickly retired. The two largest savings banks were bidders through other par-ties. The inability of the banks to loan their surplus, also led them to bid for a portion; they take about three-quar-ters of a million of the two ner cents. DIED: On the 16th inst., abort 7 o'clock, A. M., near Pittsburgh n Chartiers township, Mrs. SARAF FLINN consort o' Villiam Flinn Eeq., aced 78 years and 9 months.

It is a tribute which nature owes to the living to cherish he memory of the dead. The subject of this obituary was the dan hter of David smple, of Westmorelar decounty, Attorney at Law, 'n which rofession he occupied a very eminent position, in his day. Mr. Sample-owing to the cangers to which his family were exposed from the frequent incursion of the Indians, especially, in his absence 'rom home, attending to official duties, removed them, for a shert time, to Cumberiand county. It was in this county, near Fig Firing, that Mrs. Winn w ty; but she had a higher henor, in that she could refer to a IN THE COUNTRY, AT Flinn fivally cherished the religious instruction which had been inculcated by her pions parents, in the morning of har than fulness and gratitude to God, of her parents. Their prices are lower; sates are now made of Western Reserve at 1690/26. 3 ib.

CRAN BERRIES...The sales are but light; the quotations being $7,50/28.00 3 bbl.

DRIED FRUITT...There has been quite an active demand for Appea, which have been celling at $1,37/201,4°, but one ales have also been lands at $1/25. There have also been considerable sales of Peaches from store at $3,50/3 bushel.

EQUES.—The supp y is becoming lighter, and prices are Was severely afflicted but her confidence in God through Christ, was unfailing. She knew in whom she believed, and was persuaded that He was able to keep that which she had amitted to His hands In the midst of the most excruciating pains, and when struggling in the agenies of death, her faith in her favior, who loved her and gave himself for her, was unstrinking. With Christian resignation, she b wed to the will of her Heavenly Father, having a hope bleeming with immortality, she said death had to her no o ror. The last words we heard escape her lips were, "O Jesus | My Lord | Thus "She came to the Jordan's tide, And taking the hand of the Savior, Went up on the Heavenly side."

he has left a disconsolate husband and three childrenon, who resides in Washington City, and two daughters to neurn her death, but they gorrow not as those who have sage concourse of friends to their resting place, where they will repose till the morning of the resurrection.
