THE KARSAS BILL. As our readers may learn from our telegraphic columns, the Secate, after a debate upon the question of courtesy as to whether they should "insist" upon a committee of cosference with the House of Representative in regard to the Kanssa bill, or simply "ask" a committee of conference, adopted a motion made by Mr. Green to "insist on a conference in lieu of to adhere" to their former action. The motion was adopted by a vote of 30 to 24, and Meesrs. Green, Hanter and Seward were appointed the committee of conference. As we said yesterday in explaining the position of this question the liouse can now agree to a committee of conference, but before acting upon the report of such committee, it strikes us it wil: be necessary for it to recede from its former action, and leave the conference committee's report untrainmelled by the resolution to "adhere," The House will probably take action relative to agreeing or disagreeing to a conference, to-day.
