These observations he has made into a book, which is of vast utility, and will be of still greater use in years to come. It is for the benefit of the public that these tables and memoranda of facts should be preserved and put into such a form, as to be easily accessible to all who may wish to use them. The expense of publishing them in book form would not be great, but, as it is a public matter, the public should pay the cost of printing them. Will not the City Councils, the Marine Association, or the Board of Trade take hold of the book and publish it? The work will be of great pub-

Universal Suitrage. The Richmond Examiner of a late date has a curious article on "universal suffrage," which, it alleges, is a northern institution, and it also alleges that wherever it has long pre vailed, it has had a demoralizing tendence and corruption has increased among candidates and voters. The tenor of its argument is that no benefit can result from conferring the right of suffrage upon those who will not gages, which have been estimated at $600,000. snarper length. exercise it with discretion and independence, but who, from corrupt motives or ignorance, are bought, or misled. To us the remedy is in the power of an enlightened public sentiment-not in disfranchizing any voter. -Let the press and the people sp ak out in hehalf of the purity of election; let all those who buy and sell votes be sternly condemned ; punished the law, and those who seek for office through the medium of vice and corruption, must reform or be undone. After the wire suspension bridge across the Niagar, there can be no doubt of the practicability of such a project, but we think with John Unit, "it wouldn't pay, sir."

Execution of James Powers. On Saturday last, at Washington, D. C., executed according to the sentence of the law. Every exertion had been made to induce the President to commute his sentence. The mother of the culprit had beseiged the with all a mother's energy begged the life of her son. Persons of humane character, though weak instincts, had repeatedly solicited the like favor, and had brought considerable influence to bear. Mr. Buchanan withstood all appeals, replying to one intercessor, who drew his attention to the youth of the prisoner, "Sir, nearly all the murders and crimes of violence so frequent of late years have been committed by such young men:" and the murderer was duly hanged.

most terrible of tragedies, the murder of the Prison Warden, and the last act was more terrible than the first. On Monday, December 15th, 1856, the community was shocked by the the most cold blooded and atrocious murder ever committed within the limits of the Commonwealth. The particulars are still fresh in the public mind. It was the murder of Charlestown State Prison, by James McGee. a convict under sentence of twelve years, for a murderous assault upon his wife, against 858 to £779,225,000, with an interest of $20,- prisoners were just returning from the chapel on the morning alluded to, after the usual morning service, when McGee sprang upon Mr. Walker, and struck him with a knife on the left side of the neck. "They both deserved death," the prisoner said, when speaking of the matter to his counsel. "I caught them in the act of committing adultery, and I tried to kill both, but my intention was defeated. I should not have been sentenced to a prison for doing as I did." Another effort was made on Thursday, but without avail. He appeared, whether real or affected, to be wandering in his mind, and charged his counsel with not having done as he agreed to in the matter of some estimates and plans for building, which McGeo seemed to believe he was engaged in erecting.
