The Aqueduct.

The city of Pittsburgh is just now in rather a miscellaneous position in relation to the squeduct over the Allegheny river at this point. It does not pay, and it is a matter of some importance to the tax payers of the city, who will have to make up the deficit in the receipts over the expenditures, to have the connection of the sity with the Associate there. A resolution massed Connection at the lat the connection of the city with the Aqueduct closed up and terminated.

of an act of the Legislature, and when, from the tolls received for crossing it, the city should be reimbursed for the cost of construction, the structure was to reried the Aqueduct with it, and the reversionary interest which the State had in it is now the property of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, if, indeed, the sale of the public works by the State did not vert the actual ownership in this company. By the book-keeping of the various treasurers of the follows: On the 21st of April last, Georgo Scott, Esq., President pro tem. of the Board of Canal Commis-ment, took passage on the ferry boat for this city, sioners, reported to the Speaker of the House of Rep-resontatives, in obedience to the act requiring the when the prisoner slipped off and plunging into the water swam ashore. He has not been heard of since, Board forthwith to examine the account of the city of Pittsburgh for robuilding or repairing the Aque-duct, and report the result, that "an agent of the city of Pittsburgh had been before them twice, but on noither occasion were the accounts in such a shape for malicious mischlef, in entering his shop and doas to enable the Board to arrive at any conclusion stroying several valuable patterns. Clark was com as to the amount really expended by the corporation | mitted to answer. of Pittsburgh in rebuilding and repairing the Aquedust referred to.

At the last interview with the agent having charge of the accounte, the Board discovered that the interest had not been properly calculated, and also that the accounts improperly included an oxpenditure of from seven themcand to eight thousand dollars, made by the city of Pittsbargh, in the construction of a bridge over the caual on Penn street. These errors were admitted by the agent, who thereupon withdrew the amount, for the purpose of correction and re-statement," and it was not again brought to their notice during the session of the Legislature. Thus the matter still stands. The errors in the account will largely reduce the claim of the city. Not only had the Penn street bridge been erroneously charged to the Aqueduct Fand, but for a large por tion of the time the interest had been compounded, system is most miraculous; they give a healthy tone to the and other charges had been made, such, for instance, system, remove all morbid matter, and in fact, thoroughly as the salary paid the City Treasurer for taking care of the money which was received, all of which made it apparent to the "agent of the city" that the amount coming to the city, upon a fair settlement of accounts with the State, would not reach an astonishing amount.

And now it is obvious, from the statement of the Controller to the Councils, that the maintainance of this decaying structure has actually become a bill of your own opinion. expense to the city. For the present year its receipts have been $760,60 and its current expenses expanses $$70,60-a clear loss of $110. The best policy which the city can pursue, manifestly, is to eurrender the Aqueduct forthwith to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, if they will take it, and trust luck and the next Legislature for the re-payment of any balance which, upon final settlement of the account, may be found to be due the city.
