Vice Presidents - Jacob Kyle, Sharpsburg ; W. Hazlett, Allegheny; R. A. Bausman, Birmingham; and Mr. Whitesell, South Pittsburgh. Secretaries-R. B. Guthrie, Robinson; R C. G. Sproul, Pitt township; Stephen M'Ilvain,

On taking the chair, Mr. Bruce made a few remarks, thanking the Convention for the honor conferred in selecting him as the presiding officer, which he appreciated more highly from the circumstance that he was comparatively a new member of the Democratic Party. He felt the Convention was one of the most important ever held, and hoped every delegate would perform the duty he ewed to his party in a manner that would give satisfaction to the whole county, and in such a way as to choke down all opposition. He hoped they would nominate a ticket, that all, without reference to former political differences, could rally to the support of. Three years age, the Democracy had fought nobly against a party and Robert M'Knight for Congress, is plainly and which had attempted to interfere with rights simply an insult to the common honosty and intelliguaranteed by the Constitution, and now when the most important question that can interest us as property holders and tax payers, is forced: upon us, they would meet it with as much firmness. The people would thank the Democratic party to secure them from excessive taxationto preserve their homesteads, and it was the by his party, was his being a Bailroad director. policy of this Convention to conform to the will of the people in this respect, if they deserve

Col. Jas. A. Gibson moved that a Committee of fifteen be appointed to prepare resolutions, which was adopted.

EMr. Sproul presented a communication from Hon. Chas. Shaler, which he desired read. Col. Gibson objected, and asked that it be laid over until the nominations were made.

Mr. Sproul insisted, and made a motion to have it read, which was carried. The Secretary was then directed to read the communication, which was as follows:

To the Members of the Democratic Convention for the XXIst Congressional District: GENTLEMEN:-My name baving been brought prominently before the public as a candidate for Con-cress, and some of my friends having avowed an intention of submitting it to your votes at the meeting of the Convention to be held this day. established, we may be able to evade the county and city liabilities, but I should regret to see such a doctrino sanctioned by Domocratic resolutions, and I certainly shall never so far bolie the principles which have governed me for half a century, as to be found in the ranks of those (let them call themselves Demerate, or by any other name they may choose to asume) who sustain the doctrine.

2. As regards the Lecompton question, which is now dead letter as a matter of practical influence, I have o hesitation in saying that I consider the course of the President upon the subject as dictated by wisdom, sagacity and patriotism, and that the opposition of Mr. Douglas and his friends was factious and unwarranted by the usages of the party-that it has tended to create confusion in the Democratic ranks, and may lead to the ultimate defeat of the party That Mr. Douglas has shown himself recreant to his own principles, and after taking the wind out of Walker's sails, has run his own bark plump ashoreon the quicksands of Black Republicanism, o which I sincerely hope he will remain a long time be fore the Democracy will assist in getting his politica

3. As to the tariff, I assume the dontrine of Gen. Jackson upon this subject, that the country in en-titled to a judicious tariff, which mean, as I understand it, a teriff that whilst it furnishes an abundant evenue, incidentally protects home interests. I am of the opinion that the present tariff of duties re quires revision, and that a proper revision of it would encourage, and ought to encourage, domestic manuacture. My viows on the subject were given a argo in an address published amongst the proceed ings of the convention of iron manufacturers, which ssembled at Pittsburgh some yours since. I ac here to those principles now, and as at the time they were given I had no political aspirations, I trust what I now say will not be considered as a mantle put on for the purpose of covering polical tergiver ations or procuring votes.

If, with the expression of these sentiments upon he several subjects touched upon, I can receive the otes of the Convention for Congress, I shall be grtified with such an expression of your confidence in my political integrity. I think I shall always be found by the public upon the platform on which I place myolf in this letter. If other counsels should prevail, shali feel no solicitude for myself, but much for the union of the Democratic party, and as I have labored for a long period in sustaining that union, I shall never favor it, as I have never heretofore permitted any private personal disappointment to sucree me from my course of political independence.

The Democratic party and its prosperity, which the prosperity of this great country, and the perpituity of the Unior, shall ever be first, midst and lest in my mind—my maxim esto perpetua—and I feel con-vinced that whatever may occur for a time to cast a cloud over its prospects, that the sober second thought of the people will eventually recure its triumph, and that the temperary obscuration will only tend to in-rease its lustro. I am, gentlemen, your Democratic follow citizen, PITTSBURGH, August 10, 1858. On motion, the communication was referred

At one o, clock the Convention re-assembled and was called to order by the President. Mr. Gibson, chairman of the committee on esolutions, reported the following preamble and resolutions, which he said, had received the unqualified approval of each member of the com-

WHEREAS, The rights of property are fundamencompensation to the owner, and that its seizure for Railroad purposes is not taxation, but plunder-one being the right to take a fractional part for purposes ant which is only another name for prosection, and the other the claim of a right to take the whole for any purpose whatever, which is detructive of all government. That these questions are practical ones, and for abuses like these the remdy is with the neonle themselves, in passive resistnce and the employment of the ballet box. That there is no question within the province of a County Convention more legitimate then this, and none more depending, which touches the people of this county so nearly or so deeply. That to enforce these rights and redress these abuses, we will support no man for office of any kind, who will consent to be made an agent for using the property of the people in this way, or who entertains the cpinion that this thing can be lawfully or constitutionally done. AND, WHEREAS, Through the intrigues and appliances of Railroad agents and bondholders, the Taxpayers of Allegheny county are threatened with poverty and destitution, caused, solely and without logality, by Railroad taxation: and, whereas, self-preservation, which prompts all men to resist oppression, imperatively domands resistance by the people to this monstrous monopoly, which defiantly seeks to fatton upon our substance. In the City Convention last winter it had been charged that he was an anti-tax man. He had hen denicd the charge. He thought it did not belong in a City Convention, but that when the issue was brought up in the proper place-a County Convention-he would be ready to meet it. He was ready now, and he had to say for these resolutions—that the more you discuss them, like pure gold, the brighter they will shine, The people, he believed, through their delegates had a right to come into Convention, and pass what resolution they please. In conclusion he heartily endorsed the resolution, and it was his sincere conviction that of the Democracy would take up the standard of the people, they would would come up glorious and triumphant on the second Tuesday of October next. The speaker took his seat under hearty applause. Mr. Guthrie then rose, as he said, to explain his position. He had, as the Convention and the gentlemen who had spoken well knew, voted heartily for all the rest of the resolutions. He did not object to this one. He only objected on a question of custom—as he thought the suggestion for the proposed Corresponding Committee should come directly from the Conventioninstead of from the Committee on Resolutions. Here the President requested all who were not delegates to step cutside of the bar, as they were about to preceed to nomination.

It was moved that the Delegates proceed t nominations, but Judge Wilkins having risen to his feet, the motion was withdrawn, when Judge Wilkins remarked that it was useless for him to attempt to stem the current in which the cause of the gentlemen from Pine township was sailing. It would perhaps have been well had the gentlemen got into the tide when running so frequently for Congross, as it might have office. He then offered the following resolution.

which he knew would be voted down, but he wished to place himself right on the record: Resolved, That notwithstanding the public mind so decidedly condemns the very heedless and reckless manner in which the constituted authorities of the city and county gave their municipal subscriptions and executed their bonds to various Railroad tumpopies not for the purpose of completing those projected and useful works-but for making their subscriptions the very hazardous basis of the com encement of the roads, and without any appearance of their ultimate accomplishment. And, notwith standing the oppressive burden of this indebtedness and fastoning liens and oncumbrances upon the entire property of the city and county, hardly admitting of any limit as to time. Tet, it becomes a matter of whether this Convention, assembled at the will of our constituents, not for the decision of any particular local matter, or to take cognizance of special municipal and corporate transactions—should travel beyond the object of the call of the County Demo-

of the Convention to be held this day, I take the liberty of sphmitting my views upon some of the prominent questions of public policy which now agitate the County and State.

The Norwalk Gazette says that w ight oung men were in the water at Belden's Neck, thief came along and stole "every vestige of their clothing" Of course they could not very well chase him, and he escaped. -There is a good story told of an eccentric ady, very absent minded, and of unfortunately occasion so affected by a charity sermon as to Brimston borrow a half eagle from her neighbor and-put t in her own pocket. -An English paper relates an anecdote of a cat that broguht forth five young ones, each of them devoid of its off fore-leg. The mother had been caught in a trap, in the off fore-leg, but did

-Large hauls of sprats were made at Norfolk, Va., on Monday of last week, and on Tuesday handreds of bushels were offered in that market at 124 cents a dezen. James S. Garrison, caught three thousand bushels at his fishery. on Lynnhaven River.
