on Champlain*

Jackson will be in possession of Pensacola in two or three days. He was transporting troops across the bay to Mobile for that purpose, on the 26th inst: his force is ample, having upwards of 1000 Indians attached to his army. With Pensacola in our possession, and the point Mobile well fortified, we have little to fear from the enemy in this quarter."

Thomas Worthington, now a senator of the United States, is elected by a large majority, Governor of the state of Ohio.

The following amount of property was taken on board the enemy's fleet recently captured by com. Macdonough, on lake Champlain.

11,800 cwt. of powder exclusive of fixed ammunition for the ships.

Between 80 and 90,000-cwt of balls, &c.

6,000 muskets..

6,000 suits of sailors' winter clothing.

And the winter clothing for the whole of the land army.

In drawing conclusions on this campaign we cannot view things in a very favorable light: nothing can be effected for a length of time having at all the character of decision. Gen. Izard has gone to Sackett's Harbor with 4,000 men, and those Chauncey may either take by water or they may be ordered by land, as the naval and military commanders may suggest Chauncey has been and will be cautious; he will not venture upon the lake he knows our hundred gun ship; the St. Lawrence is ready; this vessel, in close action, would destroy all the American heavy vessels. There fore Izard's troops will have to march by land, but they will make the enemy superior on the Niagara frontier. This is the result of the wavering measures in some quarter; measures which may protract the war for several years longer than it otherwise would, had "savage generals" commanded, who never think it a sin to kill an enemy. We, however, still think the Niagara frontier will be defended, and the superiority on Lake Ontario be secured, & Kingston saved, but that in November, things will not be much better than they were twelve months before; notwithstanding an addition of 10,000 of the best troops. Past circumstances fully justify this conclusion. On this point we feel no fear of censure from any other press of liberal principles.

Intelligence is received from Mackinac, via Matchedache and York, stating that the enemy had left two armed schooners to blockade the place, until the winter should set in, and then retire. Col. M'Dowall it is said conceived and executed the plan of capturing them. This was done in the night by a combined attack of soldiers and Indians, in canoes and boats. We hope this news may prove correct.

POSTSCRIPT.

Half past one o'clock.

This moment we have been handsomely handed the following letter, which confirms the report of yesterday morning.

"La Cloch, Sept. 17, 1814.

My dear sir—I have only time to say, that I am thus far on my way to Montreal, with part of the crews of the blockading squadron, whom we have taken by boarding; say two large schooners, and one cartel that we have detained at Mackinac till all danger is over. I will be down by York, as I am to forward the canoes that put back, and deliver the prisoners, the crews of the two vessels, at York.

Boston, Oct. 22.

The privateer brig Portsmouth, Shaw, from a three weeks cruise, arrived at Portsmouth on Wednesday, bringing in 260 bales and cases British goods said to be between 2 and 300,000 dollars worth, which she took out of a large ship, bound from London to Quebec. The ship was laden with dry goods, gin and brandy, was last from Plymouth, whence she sailed in a fleet of 44 sail, under convoy of a frigate, and parted in a gale off Banks of Newfoundland, when the fleet was dispersed—she was taken soon afterwards. The Portsmouth had also captured a schooner, which is understood to have been retaken.

The two British ships which foundered on the Banks, and which were said to be ordnance transports, were the Robert and the Jolly-Tar with salt and provisions, the crews of both being taken off.
